SHARPENING HIMSELF

When the train stopped at the little southern station the tourist from the north sauntered out and gazed curiously at a lean animal with scraggly bristles, which was rubbing itself against a scrub oak.

"What do you call that?" he asked curiously of a native.
"Razorback hawg, sah."
"What is he doing rubbing himself against that tree?"
"He's sharpening himself, sah, just stroping himself." — Ladies' Home Journal.

HONEY TREES OF WHETSTONE

A Further Account of That and Other Phenomena Which Have Been Developed in the Mountains of Cochise County.

The Republican is in receipt of a marked copy of the Torchstone Prospector containing a further account of the famous melliferous oak trees of the Whetstone mountains of which phenomenon The Republican lately printed an account. It will be observed that the Prospector throws some light on the matter. Almost anything strange may be clarified if one goes about it in the right way.

TORCHSTONE, Ariz., July 8, 1915.—Regarding the sweet oak trees in the Whetstone mountains of which so much has been said, we learn from our friend Bill Schardin, who formerly edited the Benson Press, that this is not the first time that the oak trees in the Whetstones have produced honey.

Bill says this phenomenon occurred during the year 1912, and again in 1909, and he at that time attributed it to the fact that those two years were extremely dry, and says that possibly the recurrence of the phenomenon at this time is due to the adoption of the Dry Amendment.

However, in 1914 Bill became interested in bees and procured some excellent specimens of humble bees from the Whetstone mountains, and after patiently working with them for some time, getting the humble and honey bees acquainted, he produced what he calls the Mule Bee, the scientific name of which is B. B. Schardinii. This bee has greater endurance than the ordinary honey bee, and Bill claims that, equipped with a small canteen, can make a complete tour of the Mojave desert and return loaded in 12 hours time. A number of these swarms were released afterwards in the vicinity of the home of their ancestors, and no doubt they are busy now, storing a rich harvest.

The communication contains also the following interesting item regarding a well known scientist and promoter: Col. Bill Hattich, capitalist, journalist, scientist and founder of the "Joe Bush Institute" of this city, was a visitor in company with the Hon. A. C. Karger, Hon. J. N. Gaines and the Beau Brummel of the sheriff's office, Percy Bowden.

The party were returning from a Fourth of July picnic among the pines in the lofty Huachuca. While in the hills Bill made some astronomical calculations, which will be submitted to his fellow scientists at their meeting which will be held at the "Pisco Fair" in a few days. While there is no telescope in the Huachuca mountains, the air is so dry and clear that observations can be made through an empty bottle, as has been done on occasions by other noted scientists. Hattich states that the picnic was a grand success. The Sas-A-Mah-Sheh Club turned out in force, and did justice to the occasion, in their usual patriotic manner. Another tip which Bill gave us is that a favorable decision is expected shortly in the litigation over the patent rights of The North American Climatic Improvement and Gulf Stream Diversion Company of which Mr. Hattich is 2nd Vice President.

TAKE MANDAMUS FIGHT INTO THE SUPERIOR COURT

Attempt to Compel Callaghan to Pay Will be Commenced in Lower Tribunal—Supreme Court Starts on Annual Vacation

The mandamus proceedings to compel State Auditor J. C. Callaghan to honor claims under the new appropriation bill will be commenced in the superior court. This announcement was made yesterday, after it had been definitely ascertained by the attorney general that the annual sixty-day recess of the supreme court would begin today. Owing to the fact that claims for salaries will not be due until July 15, the filing of the application for a writ of mandamus will not be made until that date. Two suits will be filed, one for salaries and one for the payment of expense claims.

Members of the various state departments affected were busy yesterday assigning their claims to Jesse Boyce, secretary of the state tax commission, in whose name the application will be made. By closing time Boyce had over $15,000 in "conversation money," and there was more coming. The claims ranged all the way from two dollars to over $3000, one for approximately that amount having been assigned by the state fair commission.

Attorney George J. Stoneman, and Leslie C. Hardy, assistant attorney general waited on the supreme court yesterday to ascertain whether that body would take original jurisdiction. They were informed that the judge preferred that the superior court take original jurisdiction. This it was pointed out was the most advisable course, in view of the fact that the matter, if filed in the supreme court would not come before that body until September or October.

Whether State Auditor Callaghan will consider an order of the superior court sufficient authority for the payment of claims under the appropriation bill, or whether the case would be taken up on appeal was the question heads of departments and attaches asked themselves yesterday. Although the auditor has not made any statement as to what action he will take in view of an order from the superior court, it is believed that he would consider such an order adequate for the payment of claims. Auditor Callaghan yesterday denied the report that he had announced that no claims under the appropriation bill would be paid. He said that he would honor all claims those affected by the question of the effect of the governor's veto.

Chief Justice Henry D. Ross of the supreme court left last night for Los Angeles and Judge Cunningham leaves today for the coast. Judge Franklin has not announced his plans but expects to be in the city until August 1.

keep him from getting a further supply at his base.

From these advances officials conclude the warfare in the central part of the republic is about to be carried forward with more vigor than has been apparent for several weeks. The following was issued tonight by the state department based on consular dispatches: "It is reported a telegram dated Saturday from San Luis Potosi that a large force of Villa's troops advanced south, took Leon, Silao and Irapuato. It is also stated when Guanajuato was last evacuated there was some pillaging by the lawless elements, but the merchants organized a citizens' volunteer body and quelled the disturbance."

The same expeditionary force, it is understood, destroyed the railroad at Guadalupe from Irapuato to prevent its use by the Carranza forces. The retreating Carranza troops destroyed the railroad, including the water tanks at a siding south as far as Irapuato which it is estimated cannot be repaired for at least sixty days.

GOVERNMENT WINS

Suit for Forfeiture of 96,000 Acres in Southern Oregon Decided for Government

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH] PORTLAND, July 12.—The government's suit for forfeiture of ninety-six thousand acres in southern Oregon, known as Coos Bay Wagon Road grant, was decided in favor of the government by Judge Wolverton in the federal court. The court followed the decision of the supreme court in California and Oregon land grant case.

The decree enjoins the Southern Oregon Company from selling the lands and refers the disposition of the land to Congress for action within eight months, after which time the company may apply to the court for relief in the event that congress does not act.

The judge held that the original terms of the grant were not complied with in regard to the sale of lands in lots of not more than 160 acres to actual settlers at a maximum price of $250 per acre.

WAITING FOR JIMMY

Little Jimmy's third day at school and he was late starting.

"You were late this morning, were you not, Jimmy?" queried his mother at noon.

"No, ma'am," answered truthful Jimmy.

"You were not? What were the other children doing when you reached there?"

"The children"—and Jimmy beamed—"why, they were just all sittin' still waitin' till I got there."

NEW ERA DAWNS FOR STOCKMEN

Livestock Growers of Valley Elated Over Returns from First Shipment of Cattle to Kansas City Market.

The stockmen of this valley are elated over the opening to them of the Kansas City market. The first returns from shipments of cattle are being received now so that the sense of relief from the low prices which they have obtained from coast buyers who formerly held a grip on the valley is one of great satisfaction.

Dan McDermott who had four carloads of cattle in the first shipment to Kansas City week before last returned on Saturday night. His cattle brought $8.25. Returns from other shippers in the same train load were as follows: H. C. Caviness, 2 cars, $8.25; G. W. Brown, 3 cars, $8.60; Joe Monahan, 1 car, $8.20. Three cars belonging to L. L. Harmon which reached Kansas City just before Mr. McDermott left, sold for $8.45.

The Kansas City market has been opened to growers of this valley by an arrangement by the Southern Pacific for a special train service for which Mr. McDermott said General Freight Agent I. T. Sparks of the Arizona Eastern should be given chief credit. Mr. Sparks had labored for a long time to induce the Southern Pacific to put in the service and then he spent some time informing the stockmen that he had the service.

The time for the run to Kansas City is five days but there is to be deducted from that two stops for feed, so that the actual running time is reduced to three days. When the service was inaugurated, Mr. Sparks estimated that the shrinkage per head would be about thirty pounds which the stockmen regard as extremely light and satisfactory. The transportation cost per hundred pounds about $1.10. These figures to which stockmen of the valley have not been used in the past, are likely to result in the great stimulation of the live stock business in the valley and a much greater consumption of alfalfa.

POSTMASTER GENERAL IS ONTO NEW MAIL FRAUD

A scheme by which women are solicited to invest small sums to secure home work paying $12 a week is disclosed to be a scheme for obtaining money through the mails by means of false and fraudulent pretenses in a fraud order received from the postmaster general yesterday. The order is directed against The Tiger Manufacturing Company, Tiger Company, Tiger Manufacturing and Sales Company, and Seamstress Manufacturing Company, at 418 Reserve Bank Building, Kansas City, Mo.

A memorandum by W. H. Lamar, solicitor for the post office department upon which the postmaster general's action was based, after quoting the advertising matter published under the above firm names and after setting forth the text of the letters sent to those who answered the advertisements says:

"It will be seen from the above correspondence that no information is given as to how the business is conducted or what will be required of the person answering the advertisement until after this concern has obtained the aforesaid remittance of 25 cents. When this amount is obtained, the person making the remittance is informed that she will be required to purchase goods enough to make 200 aprons, but before she can make this purchase, which the evidence shows she is generally unable to do, she must remit 19 cents more to this concern, upon the receipt of which she is sent an apron cut out to be made by her and returned for approval."

"If the work is satisfactory to the company, she must expend $11.95 for material before she can begin making aprons at a compensation of 2 cents apiece and must run the risk of getting 200 complete aprons out of 244 yards of goods, which must be purchased at 4 cents per yard by her. If she is unable to purchase the material from merchants at her home, she can buy it from some firm recommended by this company. It is plain from the evidence that all of these impediments are intended to discourage rather than to encourage women to take up the work, the only object being to obtain 25 cents from every woman who answers the advertisement. This becomes apparent when the fact is shown by the evidence that only about one out of fifty women after remitting 25 cents and finding out the scheme take up the work.

Joseph Steinen, the operator of this scheme admitted to Post Office Inspector Frank E. Sharon who interviewed him that he could get these aprons manufactured in Kansas City much cheaper than he could by having women who answered these advertisements make them at their homes.

"Correspondence by the inspector with fifty women who sent 25 cents in money orders to this company shows that all of these women, after being informed of the particulars of the scheme refused to take up the work."

The postmaster at Kansas City reports that the Tiger Manufacturing Company is receiving on an average of 200 letters a day.

FOOD FOR THE LIONS

A menagerie stopped in a little country village.

One grin, with more cheek than cash, thought he would like to see the animals, so he quietly pushed his head through a gap in the canvas and had a look.

But the manager saw him and hauled him out.

"Here, Agrippa," he yelled to the helper. "Throw this lad into the lions' cage!"

If he thought he had alarmed the youngster he was mistaken.

The boy said calmly: "Wait, mister! If you'll let me see the show for nothing I'll get all the fattest boys in the village to crawl under the canvas tomorrow night!"
