

MOVEMENT FOR GOOD ROADS IN COUNTY STARTS

Committee Is Named Which Will Take Charge of the Preliminaries to Secure Expression from People

At the Arizona club at luncheon yesterday the following men, who are especially interested in good roads for Maricopa county, were the guests of J. B. Cook and Dr. A. J. Chandler: Harry Trish, J. T. Condit, Dwight B. Heard, Landley B. Orme, John P. Orme, Dr. J. C. Norton, Warren McArthur, Warren Peterson and O. S. Stanley.

This group of good roads workers, which represented nearly every section of the valley, after luncheon adjourned to the directors' room of the Phoenix Chamber of Commerce where the whole good roads situation was frankly discussed, the majority of those present feeling that the time was opportune for constructing about 96 miles of permanent highways through Maricopa county connecting with the present permanent roadways in such a manner as to provide a practical good roads system on which the farmers could move their crops to the shipping points without the great losses in transportation now incurred due to the wretched condition of the roads.

Several speakers brought out the fact that instead of being a burden, roads of this character, constructed under the new highway commission law, should prove an investment to the people of Maricopa county. It was also shown that the labor necessary to construct these roads would not interfere with the labor supply needed for the required productive industries of the valley, and it was shown that if the construction of a system of concrete highways as outlined in the report of the committee having this matter in charge last spring, composed of Dr. A. J. Chandler, J. B. Cook, Roy S. Goodrich, and Dwight B. Heard, were approved and a road building campaign undertaken which would result in the actual construction of about five miles of road every month, that not to exceed 400 laborers would be required.

The majority of those present, after the discussion, felt that the time had arrived to take advantage of the provisions of the highway commission law, present the necessary petitions to the board of supervisors, arrange for the appointment by the board of supervisors of a large number of members, to the end that at the earliest possible date a definite proposition for a permanent highway system to be paid for by a bond issue, might be presented to the people, and as a result of the meeting a resolution was adopted authorizing the chairman of the meeting, J. B. Cook, to appoint a committee of five, including himself, to take charge of the necessary work in connection with this matter, that the people of the county, without delay, might have an opportunity to express themselves on the question of the good road bond issue.

The committee appointed was composed of J. B. Cook, Landley B. Orme, Dr. A. J. Chandler, J. T. Condit and Warren McArthur, who will at once begin their work and within a short time have the petitions for good roads circulated throughout the county, and assist in every way possible in developing this good roads plan along such lines as will insure prompt and economical construction.

All the men present recognized that nothing should be done on good roads construction which would in any way hamper the government's campaign for increased agricultural production, and it was felt a plan could be devised which would meet with the thorough approval of the government.

INDIAN'S POSSE SOUGHT TO AID GREAT MANHUNT

Pima Agent Will Be Asked to Aid In Hunt for Body of Kenneth C. Falston, Believed to Be Murdered

Still confident that the body of Kenneth C. Falston is somewhere in the valley, Constable Roy Morrell will appeal to the Indian agent at Sacaton today to allow the several hundred Pimas on the reservation to join the exhaustive search that is being made by the authorities.

Ben Falston, brother of the man who mysteriously dropped from view one week ago, has offered a reward of $100 for information concerning his whereabouts or for the finding of his body. Some time ago Falston offered a $10 reward but believing a more determined effort would be made if he advanced the reward he now offers his hard earned dollars to anyone who ends the search which up to the present has revealed no trace of Falston.

The country was scoured yesterday as it was the day before and the preceding days. Both city and county officers as well as private citizens have gone over every foot of ground where there was the slightest likelihood the body could have been hidden. Although the authorities believe in coar and fear of the victim which were found in the vicinity of the power house on the Arizona canal were placed there with a view of misleading the officers, they nevertheless passed many hours in that vicinity yesterday going over that stretch of country.

Sheriff Wilkey and Deputy Sheriff E. J. Warren left town early yesterday morning over the Black Canyon road. They circled the Black Canyon mountains going as far as the Union mine.

Ben Falston with Ivan McCann formed another searching party, passing out hours along the Arizona canal, then north and east of the canal and finally south of where the clothing was found. Roy Morrell with Mike Strathy of the city police and former Sheriff Jeff Adams labored in the main hunt for four miles west dragging the Salt River. Morrell stated last evening that he would leave town at an early hour this morning hoping to secure the cooperation of a large number of Pima Indians. He, like his brother of the missing man, scoffs at the idea of suicide.

Falston, his voice breaking, declared that Kenneth could not have taken his own life.

"Why he was getting stronger every day," he said. "It is true he came to Phoenix for his health, but he was never dependent about it even when ill and he had improved so rapidly that I doubt if he ever thought much about health. Had he intended suicide he would surely not have drawn his money out of the bank nor would he have left town. No, I can not believe that theory nor is it shared by the authorities. What I want is information and if I do not get it soon—"

When he was able to continue Falston said that he would give $100 for information about his brother "dead or alive."

He feels confident that his brother has been murdered—killed for the $300 he had drawn from the bank the day he disappeared.

The reward offered is being held by Justice Francis De Souza.

Tractiveness of humorous situation and of unusual plot, an elixir of life theme which, worked out along comedy lines, presents all sorts of exceptional and surprising situations.

As Professor Reya, the inventor of the elixir, Mr. Redmond has a capital part which he carries off in his usual manner. The singing roles are rather stronger than in the average Redmond production, which is saying a good deal.

There are 17 interpolations to make the skit go in lively fashion and they certainly do not hurt. Notable among them is Miss Dingwall's singing of "La Polona," Miss Deane's "Broadway Chicksen Walk," "You Said Something," by Miss Hammond and the chorus, with electrical effects, Minor Reed's novelties, the hit made by Mr. Cochran "Darktown Strutter's Ball" and Kemper's work with Miss Hammond and the girls, a transformation stunt, "My Lady of the Telephone," Miss McTear, the afore-said "cotton shouter" has a good chance to show what she can do and makes the most of it.

PURE BLOODED LIVESTOCK IS BIG SPECIALTY

Arizona Bulletin Shows In State 214 Breeders of Some of Highest Classes of Stock Found Anywhere

Some idea of the extent of the pure-bred livestock in Arizona may be secured from a brief bulletin just issued by E. P. Taylor, director of the agricultural extension service of the state university, which in a partial list shows that there are not less than 214 firms and individuals in Arizona state engaged. It is pointed out in this bulletin that it is not necessary for the seeker after pure-bred stock of practically any kind to leave the confines of Arizona for even the comparatively unusual breeds are represented in the state already. There are, for instance, 41 breeders of pure blood Holsteins, while 28 are engaged in the breeding of high-class Jersey cattle. There are 11 Hereford breeders and 8 breeders of pure blooded Duroc Jerseys and the Poland China breeders number 13. High-class horses of all established types are to be found in the state. In the Percheron class there are 8 breeders and in the fancy sheep classes there are 17 breeders.

The bulletin states that the breeders have listed largely through the efforts of Dr. R. H. Williams, animal husbandman of the University of Arizona and E. W. Barnes, livestock specialist of the university extension service.

In his introduction Mr. Taylor says: "Arizona is fast reaching the stage when breeders within the state can supply the necessary pure bred breeding stock to build up and maintain our livestock herds and flocks. There was a time when it was necessary to seek for pure breeds without the state but in most cases highly satisfactory, acclimated and adapted pure bred sires and dams can be bought from Arizona breeders."

The purpose of this circular is to provide a roster of Arizona breeders of pure bred livestock so that persons wishing to get in touch with such breeders may do so, and so that breeders themselves may be brought into closer touch with one another.

"The greatly increased cost of feed and livestock production is added argument for the pure blood animal adapted to its specific purpose. There is strong reason at this time for a vigorous culling of inferior animals with a substitution of only the highest producing pure breeds. The pure bred stock before, now that efficient production is being stressed."

"In circulating this roster of Arizona breeders of pure bred livestock it is probable that some names have been omitted that should have been given, and some breeders listed may have disposed of their herds since their names were secured. The extension service will appreciate notice of corrections that they may be observed in future publications of livestock lists and rosters."

The list cannot fail to be of value for it shows breeders of pure-bloods in all parts of Arizona. It shows that there are 41 breeders of pure-blood Holsteins, 10 to Ayrshires, 9 of Guernseys, 28 of Jerseys, two of Dutch Belt, two of Brown Swiss, three of Red Polled, 11 of Herefords and 8 of short-horns; while in horses there are 40 breeders of Duroc Jerseys, three of Berkshires, 13 of Poland Chinas, one of Hampshire, four of Tamworths and two of Mule-footed hogs. In horses, there are eight breeders of Percherons, one of Belgians, one of German coach horses, two of American trotters and one of Clydesdales while there are two breeders of Jacks and jennets. In the sheep classes there are two breeders of Cotswolds, three of Dorsets, five of Hampshires, two of Lincolns, four of Ramboulls, one of Tunis and three breeders of Angora goats.

ASSEMBLING OF GOLDEN COST SIZABLE FIGURE

Getting First Quota Off for Camp Cost In This State Alone $25,158.04 and Much Work Was Free

The cost of raising Arizona's first quota of soldiers for the national army from the time the first move was made until they were turned over to the railroads for transportation to the training camps was $25,158.04, according to a report made public yesterday by Colonel Fred S. Green, disbursing officer for the selective draft for Arizona.

The report, which is up to and including November 24, shows a per capita expense of $7.534 for raising Arizona's share of the new army, this far. Other states are sending in like reports which when received will make interesting comparisons.

The total expense of District No. 1, comprising the eight northern counties of the state is $12,204.40, or a per capita of $7.60. The expense of District No. 2, comprising the six southern counties, is $12,753.64, or a per capita expense of $6.946. These also are up to the delivery of the men to the railroads.

To Cochise county goes the honor of furnishing that county's quota of soldiers at the least per capita expense to Uncle Sam. This was made possible through the gratuitous labor given by the local board by those anxious to do their bit. The expense of selecting the 674 men from that county was $1,180.17, or a per capita of only $1.751. Gila county takes second honors with a per capita expense of $2.378 for the 513 men selected from that county. Yuma, Yavapai, and Greenlee counties run a close race for third place, but finish in that order with per capita of $4.104, $4.901 and $4.966.

Navajo county's per capita is the greatest being $13.853 for her 99 men. Pima is next with $12.826, and Coconino third largest with $11.329. The total cost of selecting the men for the first quota in the different counties is as follows:

County	Number of Men	Per Capita
Apache	674	$1.751
Cochise	513	$2.378
Coconino	99	$13.853
Gila	513	$2.378
Greenlee	161	$4.966
Maricopa	598	$7.246
Mohave	111	$10.564
Navajo	99	$13.853
Pinal	291	$11.329
Pima	155	$12.826
Santa Cruz	95	$8.37
Yavapai	423	$4.901
Yuma	124	$4.104
Average for state	3,472	$7.534

Figures showing the per capita expense of selecting the men from the different counties for the national army do not tell a story of efficiency, inefficiency, carelessness or thrift, according to the officials in charge of the selective draft law operation in this state. Conditions differ in the counties and tend in some to cause a larger expense than in others. Also in the counties where a small quota was furnished the per capita runs much higher than in counties that gave a large quota, as the necessary machinery for the selecting of the men was furnished for the entire quota, "output" of soldiers was small.

To a person who has seen little or nothing of the vast amount of labor expended in selecting Arizona's first quota of soldiers for the national army comes no comprehension of the amount the government would have had to pay for this work, if none had given his services free at a price. It is estimated that millions of dollars have thus been saved to the government, but in the call sent out for gratuitous labor it is reminded that every dollar must be accounted for in the firing line. Every person who thus gave his or her services free in this work of selecting the first quota of the national army is to be recognized in a communication of thanks direct from the president, a memento that in after years will be exhibited with pride.

LABORATE PLAY FOR CHARITIES

"A Thief in the House" has been announced as the offering of the Ed Redmond Musical Comedy company for the Associated Charities benefit Monday night. The Friday club, under the auspices of which the amusing musical play is being presented, is selling tickets for the attraction, which will be the most elaborate production Mr. Redmond has staged here this season.

Mrs. Walter Bennett, chairman of publicity, stated yesterday that reserved seats could be received at the box office at the Elks theater Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. The box sale is in charge of Mrs. Louis H. Chalmers. The entire proceeds above the actual cost of the production, will be turned over to the Associated Charities.

AMUSEMENTS

Alice Joyce at the Hip
An "Alabaster Box" is the title of the Vitaphone picture which opens this morning at the Hip for two days run. It features Marc MacDermott and Alice Joyce and discloses a highly interesting and unusual picture theme. A young girl, Alice Joyce, attempts to save her father from ruin on the little city and it is with this girl that the story is told. The return of her father from his prison sentence is discovered by the townspeople and a riot occurs when he is indiscreet enough to try and visit the scenes of his early triumphs. The characterizations of this story are said by the Vitaphone people to be the most remarkable ever brought into a five reel picture and will be much appreciated by the students of human na-

"Intolerance" Coming
D. W. Griffith's latest spectacle, "Intolerance," which will appear at the Columbia theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week is such an extraordinary theatrical offering that words fail to convey any idea of its magnitude and grandeur its marvelous spectacular effects, its human interest and its amazing reproduction of historical events. In "Intolerance," there are four separate stories, each with its own set of characters. Ancient Babylon, Judea of the time of Christ, Paris during the reign of Charles IX and a modern American city and the scenes of these stories. Such film stars as Mae Marsh, Robert Herron, Seena Owen, Margery Wilson, Miriam Cooper, Lilian Gish, Tully Marshall, and Bessie Love have the leading roles. A feature of the production is the musical score which is interpreted by a symphony orchestra of 30.

For the past six months this Griffith masterpiece has been playing to crowded houses at the Liberty theater, New York. Long runs in Chicago, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, San Francisco and Los Angeles also evidence its remarkable popularity.

Douglas Fairbanks at Lamara
Douglas Fairbanks opens his three days' engagement today at the Lamara appearing in his latest Artcraft offering, "Down to Earth." This announcement will be more than well received by the hundreds of his ardent admirers in the city, but when the further announcement is made that the story was written by himself, they will realize that a special treat is in store for them. To those who read "Laugh and Live" the philosophy of life in a Fairbanks is an open book. Sunshine and fresh air, optimism and getting "down to earth" is his gospel of living.

The present production might well be termed the screen adaptation of "Laugh and Live" for it deals with the same theme, pictured amid a riot of fun. His characters are all so finely drawn that they are recognized as people in the every day walks of life, and the fun so contagious that it has been reviewed as the greatest combination of material ever blended into a scenario. The stage settings are said to eclipse anything he has ever done when it comes to lavishness.

The Burton Holmes travel picture will also be shown in connection with the feature and will as usual bring to the audience glimpses of many strange corners of the earth.

Arizona Film at Columbia
Visitors to the tropical luxuriance of southern California have been heard to remark, on returning that stretch of barren land known as the Salton Sink, that "this is God's country!" As they breathed in the whirl of dust blown up by the train and imagined rather than saw the mirages beyond, their enthusiasm was hard to understand unless one happened to be a native of Arizona.

In spite of the incredible attitudes to which the mercury is wont to climb, even when concealed in the shade, Arizona has its charms for any lover of the immensity of nature. To look down from the heights upon the splendor of a sunset in the desert of the south-west, to see the rich clouds rolled up on the horizon and tinted with the glory of a thousand splendid colors, the floating fields of purple along the valleys, and the soft, enveloping silence of the great outdoors at dusk, prys open the soul of any normal person.

Add to this the distant love-call of the quail, and a little bunch of mountain posies symbolizing human love, and you have an idea of the scenes in which Olive Thomas, the celebrated and bewitching as a mirage, plays the part of a kidnapped actress in "Broadway, Arizona," a new Triangle film triumph to be shown at the Columbia today.
