

THOUSANDS of these Nash 7 passenger cars—formerly the Jeffery Six—are giving satisfactory service in the hands of owners everywhere.

This car, after being refined and improved by Nash engineers, now bears the Nash nameplate.

Automobile prices have been going up and up. But this 7 passenger Nash is still offered at a price fixed more than a year ago.

You have but to compare it with other cars of similar quality to become impressed with its unquestioned high value

—We can make immediate deliveries.

$1615

F. O. B. Arizona Points

NASH MOTORS
VALUE CARS AT VOLUME PRICES

McARTHUR BROTHERS
PHOENIX—TUCSON—DOUGLAS—NOGALES
MESA—CHANDLER—GLENDALE
ARIZONA

HARVEST FESTIVAL AT CLUB IS NOTABLE SUCCESS OF SEASON

Home grown products transformed the Woman's club into a veritable harvest field last evening when the club entertained with what was admittedly the most delightful event in every detail of the season.

A harvest festival skillfully planned by Mrs. Lyman Bennett, provided pleasure for many more than a hundred guests who enjoyed an old time barn dance or a rubber of bridge as their fancy dictated.

The reception hall held a wealth of autumn tined chrysanthemums. There were great bowls of the slugsy yellow bloom that deepened into blossoms of rich brown. Pepper boughts added the green note so necessary to bring out the desired effect. The auditorium was bare of flowers, but a very wonderful charm was obtained by the use of field products. Under the direction of Mrs. J. W. Crenshaw an unusually artistic decorative scheme was developed. On either end of the stage stood great stalks of cotton with its profusion of full bolls. So tall were the stalks that they almost reached to the arch hung in olive branches. The footlights outlined in pumpkins, Hubbard squash, sweet potatoes, with branches of date palms, oranges and grape fruit loaded with its fruit, contributed a brilliant bit of color. Below were shocks of milo maize and wheat with an occasional orange cluster intermingled. The side-lights effect heightened by a wall festooning of milo maize.

Barrels of fruit accentuated the harvest idea which was more particularly carried out in the costumes of the guests. The perky little gingham apron, the bewitching sunbonnet were especially becoming and here and there among the dancers were noted a few of the more elaborate costumes of the colonial period.

Governor Campbell made a very handsome and dignified appearance in a smart costume of the revolutionary days and his lovely wife was never more attractive than in her colonial gown.

Mrs. William S. Pickrell also recalled the days of long ago in the severe grey gown of the Puritan.

Mrs. Lyman Bennett wore a fascinating gingham dress with a bonnet to correspond and the majority of the guests wore costumes built on similar lines.

The box supper feature provided no end of fun when sold at midnight. Mrs. Fred Woolsey presided over the supper sale. The Eichenbrosen orchestra furnished the delightful dance program.

The guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Bennett and a committee of club members. Among those there were Governor and Mrs. Thomas E. Campbell, Captain and Mrs. J. W. Crenshaw, Dr. and Mrs. John Bennett, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Barry Goldwater, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight B. Heard, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Brownfield, Mr. and Mrs. Fen S. Hill, Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Wilkinson, Mrs. C. C. Hutchinson, Mrs. W. W. McNeff and Hervey Berryman.

Do not wait until tomorrow—phone that WANT AD to The Republican and dispose of, or get what you want

IN THE FIELD OF SPORTS

MAJOR LEAGUE WILL CONTINUE TRAINING CAMPS

(Republican A. P. Leased Wire)
CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Retention of the 25 player limit and continuation of the usual spring training trips was decided upon at the closing session of the American league meeting tonight. The club owners cleared up these points in preparation for the joint meeting with the National leagues here tomorrow.

Summarized, the important questions to be considered by the 16 club owners of the two leagues are:

"The advisability of reducing the playing schedule to 140 games."

"The advisability of a 154 game schedule running only five and a half months."

"Devising a method to collect the federal war tax."

"Settlement of the financial obligations resulting from the Federal league war."

"Suggestion of a new division of the world series receipts."

"Inserting a war clause in the players contract to protect the club owner in the event the player is called into the national army."

President Johnson's announcement that the $10,000 fund agreed upon to reimburse backers of Federal league clubs still remained unpaid caused a surprise. He said that the American league was ready to pay its share of $50,000—at once, but that the entire issue would have to be settled by the club owners of the two leagues tomorrow.

It was revealed that Edward Gwinn, who lost heavily in backing the Pittsburgh club of the Federal league, is to receive $50,000 of the fund, and the balance is to be divided between Harry Sinclair, who financed the Newark club, and the Ward estate of New York, which supported the Brooklyn Federals.

The suggestion advanced by the National league that a new division of the world's series receipts be made did not gain favor with the American league club owners. The National league proposes to limit the amount the players of the contending clubs receive and divide the remainder among the players on the four leading clubs in the two leagues.

President Johnson said he believed this proposal probably would be voted down by the American league, which thought that the "spoils should go to the victors."

After agreeing to retain the present player limit, the American league decided to hold a "bat and ball" fund day in every city in the league next June. Twenty-five per cent of the gross receipts will be donated to the fund for the purchase of baseball paraphernalia for American soldiers.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

BOY WONDER WILL PLAY FOR TITLE

Ralph Greenleaf.

Ralph Greenleaf, the "boy wonder" of billiards, will compete some time in the middle of December with Frank Taberski for the championship of continuous pocket billiards. The winner of the match will be in possession of the championship emblem which has been a medium of competition since March of 1916. Greenleaf is eighteen years old.

LEAGUE OWNERS TRADE PLAYERS

(Republican A. P. Leased Wire)

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—The trading spirit struck some of the club owners tonight. The Cleveland and Washington clubs, in addition to New York, are bidding for Second Baseman Pratt and Shortstop Lavan of St. Louis. Phil Ball, president of the St. Louis club, declined an offer of six players made by Colonel Jacob Ruppert of the Yankees for Pratt, Lavan and George Sisler, the St. Louis first baseman.

Ball declared that he desired to trade or sell only Lavan and Pratt, who have sued him for $100,000. Ball is alleged to have accused these players of "laying down."

steadily. In response to an inquiry he announced that he would continue transacting the duties of the selective service law office until relieved. From the tone of the last message from the provost marshal general there will be no successor named.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS TRIM FACULTY IN BASKETBALL GAME

Although possessing strong lungs due to lengthy discourses upon weighty subjects, the faculty of Phoenix high school was unable to defeat its charges in a game of basketball last evening.

When the faculty woke up, it was astounded to learn that it held the small end of a score of 35 to 29. The teachers plead advancing years as the cause of their defeat, but wise ones believe that pent-up feeling caused the school team to best its school masters.

In reality, the faculty was up against four teams. Nearly the entire lunch of basketball recruits was used by the school, totaling four complete teams, playing about ten minutes each, and a few substitutes. So the young coyotes were always fresh to meet the onslaught of their elders.

In the beginning the lineup of the faculty was as follows: Stauffacher and Jantzen, forwards; Ryan, center; Cook and Michaels, guards. Almost from the start the latter men, encumbered by their street clothes, were supplanted by MacEwen and Judson, forwards; Parker, center, and Carpenter and Osborne, guards.

During the first half it looked as if the faculty was going to clean up the game by a wide margin, as the score stood 13 to 10 in its favor at the end of the first half. But by the time the joints of the players had time to get sore, the pupils rallied and began to pile up the score in their favor, continuing to do so until the end.

Chaney, Smith, Young and Thayer distinguished themselves in the fray, and most of the others did star work. MacEwen, Judson and Carpenter did excellent playing, as well as did Osborne.

The game ended at 9:15 o'clock, and left the Coyotes cheering themselves hoarse for the victory over their formidable foes.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

President Johnson declared himself in favor of a new form of contract with a war clause inserted in it for the 1918 season. The clause will affect all drafted or enlisted players and is for the purpose of protecting the club owners. The latter will be absolved from all salary obligations if the player enlists or is drafted. But if the player returns to the game after being discharged from military service, he must consider himself still bound to the club with which he last signed.

The price Charles Comiskey, owner of the Champion Chicago club, paid for Eddie Collins, star second baseman, was made public tonight by President Johnson. He said Comiskey paid the Philadelphia club $50,000 for Collins' contract, gave Collins a $15,000 bonus for signing, and signed him to a five year contract at a salary of $15,000 a year.

President Johnson also announced that the league would raise a fund to buy baseball equipment for Canadian soldiers.

Here It Is

The standard army sweater, in olive drab

$5

—Just the thing he wants. Help keep your soldier warm.

This price is less than you would have to pay for the yarn alone, if you were to make one.

SEE THEM IN OUR WINDOW

—What's that?
—Don't know his size—favorite color or style?
—The answer is easy—a

Hanny Merchandise Certificate

enables him to get just what he wants and he makes the selection himself.

Hanny's
GUARANTEED

The Home of Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes

to be considered in the order in which they were received by the state treasurer. It is believed that a strict adherence to this rule will be favorable to all, even while it may work a considerable hardship on a few individuals.

The last meeting of the state loan board was held on the morning of December 10, at 11 o'clock. The board is composed of the governor, secretary of state and state treasurer. One application for a loan in Graham county and two applications from Maricopa county were approved, on account of insufficient security