German Red Cross clearing station, shortly after the beginning of Hindenburg's spring drive.

Hindenburg's spring drive may bring exultation the kaiser, but his six sons are all out of range of the allies' guns. The people of Germany are paying an awful price for every yard gained. An idea of the losses that Germany is suffering may be gained from a glance at this Red Cross clearing station.

Motor Fire Truck Helps Safeguard Great Plant

Modern factory construction of reinforced concrete equipment with sprinkler system, hose station, automatic alarms, etc., render a destructive fire well nigh impossible—provided the blaze is detected and quenched in its incipient state. Many manufacturers have gone even farther than the mechanical and structural safeguards, and have organized factory fire departments.

All of these protective means and measures have been adopted in the great plant of Dodge Brothers at Detroit, which is as nearly fireproof as modern construction can make it. In addition, a motor fire truck is always ready, day and night, to speed to the scene of a blaze. It has been placed in service not because of abnormal flammability or increase in the number of fires, but as a measure of greater efficiency.

The truck is built on a Dodge Brothers chassis, and carries a complete fire-fighting outfit, from small hand extinguishers to 500 feet of 2½-inch hose. It is painted in the regulation fire department red, with brass trimmings, and could easily be taken for a standard fire truck belonging to a city fire department.

Apparently nothing useful or essential in fire fighting has been omitted from its equipment. This includes two 35-gallon chemical tanks, with 2½-inch hose connection; two 2½-gallon extinguishers on air pressure; six one-quart extinguishers; 500 feet of 2½-inch hose in 50-foot lengths; 200 feet of one-inch chemical hose in 50-foot lengths; 100 feet of ½-inch rope for hose lines; nozzles, hose holders, spanner wrenches, hydrant reducers, axes, crowbars, wire cutters and rubber gloves, lanterns, etc., together with a 25-foot extension ladder, a first aid kit and a stretcher.

HELEN THATCHER IS WAR BRIDE OF WILLARD K. CRAIG

An unfamiliar voice will answer the telephone at the Salt River Valley Water Users' association today for the attractive young operator there for the past few years has taken a brief vacation. Her leave of absence this year takes the form of a honeymoon, for Miss Helen Elizabeth Thatcher joined the ranks of war brides yesterday when she married Willard E. Craig of the reclamation service who is to leave soon for Camp Cody. The young people left last evening for Prescott and plan to return to town within a short period, the bride resuming her position in the Water Users' building and Mr. Craig entering the service.

The wedding of the well-known couple took place at 2 o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Welch, 26 West Willetta street, where the bride has made her home for the past seven years. A pink and white color scheme was used in the living room where the service was read by Dean Scarlett of the Trinity Pro Cathedral. Miss Thatcher was charming in her bridal gown of white georgette crepe. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and Cecil Bruner roses. Miss Mildred Pickett was the maid of honor and only attendant, and C. R. Craig served as his brother's best man. A delightful feature was the music, the well-arranged program being presided over by Mrs. C. R. Craig, who is an exceptionally pleasing pianist. She played McDowell's "To a Wild Rose," Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" and Dvorak's "Humoresque".

After the ceremony a charmingly appointed supper was served to the guests who included a few of the most intimate friends of the young people. They were accompanied as far as Glendale by a host of friends who made it plain to all that the Craigs were newlyweds.

Mrs. Craig is one of the best known and liked young business women of the city. She began her employment in the Water Users' building shortly after the establishment of the office in Phoenix of the United States Reclamation Service. She remained with the Water Users' association when they took over the operation of the Salt River project. Mr. Craig was for several years with the local reclamation service, and for the past few months has been visiting many of the projects in his work for the service. The past few weeks he has been at Fort Bliss, Texas, as one of the physical directors for the army cantonment at that point.

STATE SLOW IN BABY WELFARE WORK--DR. TARR

Declaring that Tucson responded better than Phoenix in the campaign of education for parents, which is now a national issue, Dr. Earl M. Tarr, who is conducting the welfare work in this state, yesterday claimed that while 294 babies were brought to his attention in Tucson, only 226 were presented in this city, with its much larger population.

According to this baby specialist, a mother must be shown that because it is a physical possibility to have a child, does not necessarily mean she knows how to raise a baby.

Dr. Tarr was shocked to learn that the death rate in this state was 26 out of every hundred babies. He believes that children who have the advantage of living in this wonderful out-of-door land should have a far better chance than the little folk in the congested districts of the east, yet here where the local kiddies only compare favorably with those of the same class in other states, the death rate is higher.

By the present campaign he hopes radical changes will result. He hopes that the state will be better equipped to care for its people, that there will be organized charities to direct its attention to the little ones in need of protection from ignorant parents or those not able to give the youngsters the required treatment.

Clinic Is Needed

"The state and county should appropriate funds for a clinic where those who can afford to pay will be given treatment while those without means will be given the same care and attention as those who can afford medical aid," said Dr. Tarr.

He is a strong advocate of service workers, and it was through his efforts that Tucson will have a worker among the Mexican population this summer. A special mass meeting has been called in Tucson on May 29 in order that Dr. Tarr might address the gathering, supplementing the talk he gave there before the Business Men's club where $200 was subscribed as a salary for the welfare worker among the Mexicans.

"For some reason Phoenix does not appreciate the necessity of working among the Mexicans. It is true you have not such a large population of Mexicans here, but the death rate is influenced materially by them. They are difficult to reach, entirely different from the Indians with whom I have had splendid success. The Indian mother I find better educated than the Mexican, eager to learn and an excellent imitator. Even the old buck takes an interest, and many a one has come to me and asked about the baby's sleeping pen and made inquiries into the food question."

Mother Must Learn

Dr. Tarr claims that the old idea of mother instinct is worn out and contends that it is just as necessary for a mother to go to school to learn the care of her child as it is for her to attend classes to learn to read and write. The vital problem she must learn to solve her baby is the food question.

Dr. Tarr is bitterly opposed to condensed foods when there is cow's milk to be had. Cow's milk modified to represent the mother's milk will save the little folk, he declares, holding that improper foods not only rob the child of its individuality, but fail to build muscle or bone.

Dr. Tarr is the only representative of the American association for the study and prevention of infant mortality in this state. He is devoting his time at present to the child welfare work advocated by President Wilson and which Dr. Tarr is carrying on with the cooperation of the state health department, which is headed by Dr. W. O. Sweek and Mrs. J. C. Norton, chairman of child welfare department of the woman's committee of the Council of Defense.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She Made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to bring back color, gloss, thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not painful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Adv.
