THE UNION BURRO RACE.

The Typographical Union's Burro Will Arrive This Week from Santa Fe.

Colonel H. Longfellow Dunning, the jockey for the Typographical union, says the burro to be used by him will arrive from Santa Fe this week. It has been in several races and won out. It is a genuine alfalfa fattened burro, with royal blood, and has never been known to associate with the common low down trash that abounds in this territory. The colonel and his two associates are out for those prizes, and no Parson Lewis or Rabbi Myers are going to get a smell. When the burro arrives the horse editor of the Citizen will look him over and report on his condition. Then a tip will be given privately as to how much money should be placed on the colonel and the Santa Fe Alfalfa burro.

FAREWELL SAID

To Reverends T. C. Beattie and Robert Renison at Methodist Episcopal Church Last Evening.

The Methodist Episcopal church on Lead avenue was filled last evening to the doors. It was a union of all churches in a farewell meeting to Reverends Beattie of the Presbyterian church and Renison of the Episcopal church.

The services last evening were of an inspiring nature and the souls of all were helped to no small extent. Rev. Renison at the morning services preached his farewell sermon to his congregation, and Rev. Beattie did the same. Both sermons were ably delivered and the thoughts given in both will be food for many in the time to come.

Rev. Mr. Beattie has been among us for the past eleven years and his work speaks for itself. He will take up a new charge sometime in the near future. Rev. Renison has also left a record to be proud of. He and his family will leave today for Redlands, California, where he is to take charge of a growing church. Rev. and Mrs. Beattie will leave sometime this week for the east.

Both gentlemen will be greatly missed and their families, too. What Albuquerque loses will be some other communities' gain. May both have an abundant blessing and success in their new fields of labor is the wish of their hosts of Duke City friends.

OLD CAVE FOUND.

Party of Albuquerque Men Find Ancient Cave and Ruins.

Edward Johnson, Frank Trotter, Jr. and "Bobby" Hopkins are at home again after a trip to the Manzano mountains, where they had a fine time for several weeks. During the outing a cave situated a thousand feet above the surrounding country in a perpendicular cliff was discovered by Mr. Johnson. Smoking pipes and other old cliff things were found. They report the cave 250 feet long and about as wide. When they have time they are going back to investigate further.

DOWN IN MEMPHIS.

Miss Claude Albright Winning Laurels on The Stage.

The Citizen has received a marked copy of the Memphis, Tenn., Commercial-Appeal, dated June 23. The article penciled is a long write up of faith by the Lyceum Opera company, and the Citizen clips the following extract relative to an Albuquerque young lady who is a member of the company:

As Boleslas, the much-mustached chief of the Tzigang, black-browed Leone was at his best, and his best is very fine. His initial number was one of the hits or the performance and worth going far to hear. It was full of fire and abandon and voice. It is always a pleasure to listen to such singing. pity we can't have more of its kind. Mr. Leone, or Signor Leone, is a valuable member of the company at the Lyceum. In connection with his performance, that of Claude Albright should not be forgotten, nor will it be forgotten by a good many. There are as many more who think that the "b" in her name should be dropped. As the sister of Boleslas with the horrible name which recalls Russian massacres and the ilk, Miss Albright had a part that just suited her from the top of her hair to the bottom of her dainty feet, which, by the way, know one or two dancing steps. She has a good voice of considerable sweetness and power, as has been stated in the columns before, and her future should be a bright one. There is a good deal in an artist having a role suited to her personality, and there is a mistake somewhere if this was not the case with the artist last night. At times she looked very fierce indeed, and we were glad the footlights separated up—but there were other times.

FATAL ACCIDENT

Train in Spain Fell Into a River.

LARGE NUMBER OF PERSONS KILLED

Mexican Woman Found Murdered in Trinidad, Colorado.

ANOTHER JUDICIAL DECISION IN DENVER

Madrid, June 29.—By midnight one hundred bodies had been exhumed from the wreck of the Bilboa train, which was overturned Saturday night from the bridge into the Nejerilla river, and it is estimated that seventy corpses remain in the wreckage. The bodies are horribly mutilated. Differences between the civil and military authorities rendered the work of rescue more difficult. That many prosperous persons are among the victims is testified to by the great quantity of money and jewelry collected by the gendarmes.

Mexican Woman Murdered.

Trinidad, Colo., June 29.—A Mexican woman named Doregas, said to have come here yesterday from Hastings, looking for her husband, was found murdered in a deserted adobe shack this morning. Her throat was cut and her body was badly mutilated. She was seen around town yesterday and the murder must have taken place during the night. Officers have no clue.

Denver Judicial Decision.

Denver, June 29.—Judge Mullins of the district court today handed down a decision in which he declared that the board of public works is an illegal body on the ground that the legislature had no constitutional power to invest the governor or other state official with authority to appoint a board of public works to grade, pave or curb the streets of the city of Denver, or otherwise interfere with local affairs of the city. The case has been in the courts for a long time.

DISTRICT COURT.

More About Case of Electric Light Company Vs. Mining Company.

AN IMPORTANT SUIT.

The court on Saturday afternoon concluded hearing evidence in the matter of the claim of the General Electric company against the Cochiti Gold Mining company, for an amount of money alleged to be due on the contract of sale of the machinery. The Cochiti company answered that the electrical machinery was defective and by reason of these defects the mining company was damaged to a greater extent than that alleged to be due on the contract. The contract between the companies provided for the sale of a large amount of electrical machinery, and to be in accordance with specifications therein set out, and provided that all negotiations prior thereto be merged in the contract. The installation of the machinery was to be done by the mining company, and its expert electrical engineer erected it. The testimony showed that from the start trouble with the large mill motors developed, as well as with the hoisting apparatus.

The mining company called experts to show that these defects were due to the fact that the machines were imperfect as received from the factory, in New York, and that these imperfections when the machines were started caused still greater complications in the electrical machinery, that this defect was principally in the bearings of the machines, and that the electrical company sent its experts to the mine, who corrected the defects by making changes in the mechanical construction of the machines. On the other hand the electric company endeavored to show that by their experts brought here from New York to testify that the real cause of all their troubles was due to unskilful assembling of the electric motors, and that, having been run in that condition, the greater complications necessarily developed.

The electric company also claims title to certain additional machinery alleged to be sold under the contract, and a lien for the price, and the Cochiti company claim that as to these purchases, they were not made under the contract at all, but were made in such a way as to make the electric company stand as to those purchases in no different relation than a general creditor of the defunct mining company.

The court set Monday, July 6th, as the day for hearing arguments on the questions involved. Mr. Clancy appeared for the intervenor and Mr. Childers for the mining company.

The specific charge in which Ammon was convicted was that he received the sum of $500 obtained by Franklin in the "$250 per cent" syndicate. DELAYED TRAINS.

We Will Have Another Siege With Trains Running Late.

If the Santa Fe doesn't get it from one side it gets it from the other. It is remarkable that on Saturday and Sunday nearly all trains arrived and departed on time. But it was too good to last long, and tonight the report of distress comes from both east and west.

A passenger train jumped the track at Coal City, Ill., yesterday and No. 7 will be twelve hours late. No. 1 was this side of the wreck and will arrive about on time. A bridge burned out west of Williams and trains from the west are exceedingly late. No. 2 of this morning is reported to arrive running as first No. 8, about 1:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. No. 8 as second No. 8, follows in about thirty minutes.

Bad Egg McNellis.

A short time ago William J. McNellis of Pueblo, Colo., deserted his wife and family, and came on to this city, where he was arrested by City Marshal McMillin and sent back to Pueblo. The following special dispatch from Pueblo to the Denver Times shows McNellis to be a brute:

Mrs. Annie McNellis was granted a divorce in the district court from William J. McNellis, a structural ironworker, who is now serving a sentence in the county jail for threatening to kill his wife. Mrs. McNellis has been afflicted with consumption for more than a year and had to be assisted to the witness stand. The divorce was granted on the ground of cruelty.

months ago, going to Albuquerque, where he was captured and brought home. He was not punished on promise of reforming and taking care of his sick wife and children.

Little H. McKinney was given a divorce in the same court from W. H. McKinney, former editor and owner of the Pueblo Evening Press, on the ground of desertion.

A PARACHUTE STORY.

A Balloonist Arrested for Alleged Smuggling.

Phil B. Drake, inspector of the home office of the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York, returned to the city yesterday with Darby A. Day, the New Mexico manager, and will continue north to Denver tonight. Mr. Day tells an interesting parachute story. Every Sunday afternoon El Paso has a balloon ascension, and yesterday afternoon was no exception to the rule. The daring aeronaut sailed up into the air for several thousand feet, and cut loose with his parachute. The wind stirring at the time carried the parachute with the man across the river into Juarez, Mexico. He lit among some underbrush without harm to himself. He gathered up the parachute and started across the bridge on an electric street car, when a custom house officer arrested him for attempting to smuggle good across from Mexico into the United States. When Mr. Day left El Paso the matter had not been settled, and will likely go into court before the balloonist can consider himself free and his parachute restored to him.
