FIFTEEN DAY SENTENCE FOR CREATING DISTURBANCE

Charles Melbourn, 30 years of age, in immaculate attire and wearing a large scar on his forehead, was sentenced to serve fifteen days in the city jail or pay a fine of $15 by Police Judge Craig this morning for creating a disturbance in a North Third street house.

Officer Marquette, a woman and a resident of North Third street, were the witnesses against Melbourn. The officer said that he was called to the Third street house by a man, who said that he was passing the house at 4:30 o'clock and heard a woman pleading and sounds as if blows were being struck. When the officer went to the place he found Melbourn in an intoxicated condition mistreating a woman.

"He was full of booze—that's all, and fighting—that's all," said the woman when put on the witness stand.

"How did you get that scar?" asked Judge Craig of the prisoner.

"The officer hit me with a six-shooter, and I had my hands up like this," said Melbourn, lifting his head.

"How about that, Marquette?" asked the court of the officer.

"He resisted, your honor," said the officer, "and I hit him in the jaw. He hurt his head on a door jamb."

Melbourn was returned to the city jail.

This medicine is for sale by all druggists. Samples free.
