

DILLON RECOVERS FROM OPERATION

FAIRBANKS, Aug. 30.—In a wire to Dr. W. O. Cantley received last evening, former Commissioner John F. Dillon of this city, states that he has been operated upon at Mayo Brothers hospital at Rochester, Minn., and that he was out for the first time yesterday. The wire implies that Judge Dillon is recovering nicely from the operation, as the word "fine" is the last in the telegram.

The wire also states that Judge Dillon arrived in Rochester on July 27, and that he went on the operating table on July 28. He was therefore up and around nine days after the operation.

Some of Judge Dillon's friends in Fairbanks are of the opinion that he will return North as soon as he is able to travel in order that he may be able to look after his many business interests. Before he left for the Outside, however, he stated that as soon as he was out of the hospital he would visit his old home in Wisconsin, which he had not seen in nearly 30 years.

The reason for the operation was a complication of stomach troubles with which Judge Dillon had been a patient suffered for many years.—(Fairbanks News-Miner.)

FAIRBANKS ATTORNEY FAVORS GOOD STREETS

FAIRBANKS, Aug. 30.—Owing to the muddy condition of the streets, a movement was started yesterday by Attorney Leroy Tiedler, to induce the Council to cover all the streets in the business section with gravel. To get the sentiment of the heavy taxpayers, he started a petition, and between 5 o'clock and midnight, he secured the signatures of 15 people, the heaviest taxpayers of the town.—(Fairbanks Citizen.)

PRESIDENT TO REVIEW G. A. R.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—President Wilson and members of his Cabinet will review the 50,000 G. A. R. veterans who will march down historic Pennsylvania avenue next September when the fiftieth anniversary of the Grand Review is held in the National Capital.

The President was in his office in the White House one sultry afternoon last July when the names of several prominent Washingtonians were announced. When the visitors were seated in the President's office, they explained they were representatives of the Citizens' Committee of Washington, formed to arrange the entertainment for the Forty-Ninth Encampment and Fiftieth Anniversary of the Grand Review of the G. A. R., at the National Capital the week beginning September 27. The spokesman told the president that his help was needed because it might be the last great gathering of the veterans who saved the nation in the days of '61.

President Wilson's answer was very brief, but it was decidedly to the point. He told the committee he was ready to give them his full cooperation, and agreed to review the veterans.

Acting under orders from Secretary of War Garrison and Major-General Wood, United States regulars will give exhibition drills during the week of the encampment at Fort Myer, Va., a short distance from the National Capital, on the grounds adjacent. A special feature of these drills will be exhibitions by the U. S. Medical Corps.

Impressions of the San Francisco Exposition: at the Palace of Fine Arts

(By WILLIAM E. BRITT)

(NOTE—The following observations by William E. Britt, of Juneau, while on the grounds of the Panama-Pacific Exposition at the Palace of Fine Arts.—EDITOR.)

I wonder what Pheidias, the Athenian sculptor would say if he could see this. He, who coming up the propylaeum of the Acropolis after unrivaled status of Palace Athena was finished, exclaimed that nothing on earth could ever surpass the view before him. Or what Pericles would say—be who thought that nowhere except among the immortal gods on high Olympus could man ever see anything that so would thrill the human sense of beauty as the view of Acropolis finished? Or what would the aristocratic Horatius say—be, who, after being carried through Forum Romanum when that place was at its best in refined beauty, went home and wrote: "Odo profanum vulgus et aeternum" (that the divine beauty of the forum was soiled by the mere presence of the common rabble!) I wonder what these ancient immortals would say if they could see these monuments of beauty the Aegan race has erected here?

Here this race, to which they belonged, has reached the "end of the Trail," and from yonder, on the Pacific ocean the Aegians are met by the Orientals. The meeting is beautifully symbolized at "the Court of the Universe." Never before was such architectural and sculptural produced representing all ages and all civilizations, and the achievements of human endeavor in all lines at all times. And they are here blended into a harmonious unit that thrill the human sense of beauty beyond measure. The surroundings, the grounds, the architecture, the sculptures, the color schemes, the mural paintings, the gardens, the courts, the abundance of flowers always in bloom, the palms and shrubbery and the wonderful illuminations are here blended into a beautiful fairyland—and it is real. The sculpture is the key to the spirit of the Exposition. It tells the story of the evolution of man and it symbolizes the achievements of the nations of the earth. And it is wonderfully interwoven with the architecture and color of the surroundings, that on arches and columns, in niches, on fountains and in the groups, it conveys, like music, the great ideas of the sculptors.

At the "Court of the Universe" and at the "Court of Abundance," from the "Column of Progress" to the statue called "The End of the Trail," one realizes that here enclosed is an arena of universal themes in stone and plaster and bronze. And at the base of Mullgard's tower one may sit for days and marvel at the symbolic significance in its huge groups.

An the sculpture in the key to the Exposition, so in the "Palace of Fine Arts" its glory is to architecture. It is different from any building ever erected for this purpose. Still I am told that the motive has been taken from the temple of the Sun at Athens. That is why I wonder what Pericles or Horatius would say if they could see this. From a distance it looks like a fairy palace overgrown with vegetation centuries old. Within it is a temple in the fullest sense of the word. Here one has a feeling of a sincere reverence, one hardly knows for what. And as you leave the building proper and stand under the double Corinthian colonnade with the domed entablature in front of you and gaze at the ornate sculpture and Mr. French's beautiful statue of beloved Abraham Lincoln, you feel like folding your hands, kneeling down, pray that all these were permanent, so the world could come and see—and be so much better and richer by the vision.

RUEF NOT EXILED, GOVERNOR STATES

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 25.—Gov. Hiram W. Johnson in commenting upon the pardoning of Abraham Ruef from San Quentin state prison, today made it plain that Ruef was not "exiled" to Mendocino county by the board of prison directors, but that the board, by his own request, designated that county as his place of residence. The governor says: "For two years past it has been repeatedly stated that Ruef will be treated exactly like every other man in state prison—neither more leniently nor more harshly."

The prison directors, notwithstanding the agitation in his behalf, required him as they required all others, except in extraordinary cases to serve half his net sentence and then was paroled. "San Francisco newspapers have endeavored to make it appear that he has been 'exiled' to Mendocino county. The prison directors merely complied with Ruef's request that his residence be Mendocino county. "The only comment I would make on the parole is that despite pressure beyond description the majority of the prison directors have demonstrated that they will treat all who may be confined by the state with absolute impartiality and apply the same rules alike to a Ruef and to the weakest and least known prisoner."

MADAM LOESER TO SING AGAIN HERE BEFORE LEAVING

Madam Loeser, of Vancouver, who delighted a Juneau audience at the Orpheum theatre recently, will sing again in Juneau before leaving for the South. Madam Loeser is now at Skagway where she will give a concert. She will return to Juneau, and will give a concert here at sometime to be announced and, probably one at Douglas.

Madam Loeser, who is regarded as one of the leading vocalists at Vancouver, made a profound impression in Juneau musical circles, and many of them have asked that she appear again before departing for the South again.

WAR SIDELIGHTS

In the Huston Globe, correspondent K. H. Yau-Wienland at Vienna has quoted President M. Jaworski of the Polish National committee as saying that the fall of Warsaw was "a sign of the rising of Poland." The Poles believe, the Tontons will establish a form of government under which Poland will become a third member of Austro-Hungarian domain and the emperor of Austria the king of Poland. Germany is inclined to see Poland recreated as a buffer state.

Prince Adalbert of Prussia, son of the Kaiser, recently spent two days in Russian Poland. Before his departure the commander of the regiment gave him a certificate necessary for the railroad trip. It was properly signed and stamped and contained the words: "His Royal Highness herewith receives due acknowledgment that he has been properly disinfected and for the time being is free from vermin."—(Scientific American.)

The New York Sun Rome correspondent has been informed by a diplomatic source that M. Genizelos, the Greek ex-premier has accepted the new offer of premiership upon the condition that King Constantine promise not to oppose Greek intervention and when it appears opportune, or eventually territorial concessions adequately compensated by representation in the Balkan League, which Greece agrees to join.

While the occupation of Poland by the German forces deprives the Russians of important machinery and war munitions plants at Warsaw, Lodz and Kazno, and is now threatening Brest-Litovsk and Vilna, military men in London declare the most important of Russia's war munitions works are on the line of the Petrograd-Moscow-Kharof-Odessa railway, on a north and south line through the heart of Russia in Europe.

A memorial to the Kaiser protesting against the annexation of Belgium has 32 signatures, including Professor Delbrueck, Dr. Dernburg, Theodore Wolf, editor of the Berlin Tageblatt, Prince Demnermark, one of Germany's richest men, banker and professors and others in the closest relation to the government. Political fight on this issue will have great bearing on a possible basis for peace.

The Paris Figaro says that Germany had special colleges for training both male and female spies, the foremost being at Loerbach, Baden, where the instruction comprised an intimate study of armies, governments and resources of other countries. The graduates were first given practice by operations in neutral countries.

The French government committee in charge of provisioning Paris has decided that all restrictions be removed from the sale of refrigerated meat imported from America. Hitherto only certain dealers have been permitted to sell this meat. The average price is about 15 cents a pound.

A Swiss journalist says that the streets of Belgrade are practically deserted, the city looking as though it had been visited by a plague. The street car tracks are rusting away, the parks ruined, shops and houses deserted, and the university building and the palace of the king almost wrecked by shells.

The Overseas News Agency has claimed that there were 3,000 troops on the British transport Royal Edward, which was sunk in the Aegan Sea by a German submarine. The British Admiralty announced that
