DIRECTOR CARVER BARNES sees that things hum at Berkeley Park.

We Must Defend Them—Marshall

NEW YORK — The manner in which the students are being arrested and accused of violating city and state laws in these protest demonstrations is wrong and unconstitutional, Thurgood Marshall said today following a three-day conference held at Howard University over the weekend. Sixty-two Negro and white civil rights lawyers from all southern and border states participated.

"Every single lawyer who attended the conference unanimously agreed that we are obligated to defend those arrested in these demonstrations who call upon us for help," explained Mr. Marshall, who is director-counsel of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund. "The conference was entirely successful," he said. "It gave the lawyers an opportunity to review every kind of incident where these young people are involved and to study the legality of the circumstances surrounding the incidents and arrests."

The protest demonstrations began February 1st with a "sit-in" demonstration against the lunch counter discrimination policy of the F. W. Woolworth store in Greensboro, N. C. Since then the protest has included restaurants, soda fountains, cafeterias, public libraries and other public facilities. The demonstrators have spread to some degree to all southern states except Mississippi.

More than a thousand students have been arrested, charged and tried for violating all sorts of city and state laws and ordinances. Mr. Marshall declared Sunday at the close of the 3-day conference held at Howard. The conference began Friday night and ended at noon on Sunday.

"Some of these students have been accused of trespassing, assault, parading without a license and violating fire regulations by blocking aisles in stores," Marshall stated. "Why, some of them have even been charged with conspiracy to obstruct commerce."

Marshall said all of these and similar laws are being used to enforce racial discrimination. "The use of public force, whether it be in the form of arrest by police officers or by convictions by the courts, is, of course, in truth state enforcement of private discrimination and violates the 14th Amendment," Marshall said. "All the lawyers are convinced that the only crime the young people committed was to exercise their right to freedom of speech and freedom of assembly as guaranteed by the U. S. Constitution," he declared.

Since the protest demonstrations began 11 weeks ago, thousands of students throughout the country have participated in demonstrations. Mr. Marshall stated, "The NAACP Legal Defense Fund is now involved in far more cases at this time than at any other period in its twenty year history, as its attorneys are continuously on the move, from state to state, and on the long distance telephone, day and night."
