

THE STOREY DEMOCRACY.
The Virginia Chronicle says: "The recent action of a portion of the Storey County Democratic Committee, in demanding a meeting and acting without a quorum was not in the line of the harmony which will be so essential to success next November. There was no need of the party that required a meeting of the County Committee. The State Central Committee has not yet appointed the date for the State Convention, and it is not usual for County Committees to provide for the election of delegates to a State Convention until the Convention has been called."

"The course of the six members of the County Committee (one less than a quorum) in passing upon a proxy and filling vacancies was clearly irregular and of no effect. Another meeting is called for next Monday, when it is probable that a quorum will be present. In that event, the best thing that the committee can do is to adjourn at once until the party needs its services."

"The Chronicle is informed that the sudden and surprising activity of the County Committee is in the interest of Mr. Matt. Canavan, who is alleged to have an ambition to be Governor of Nevada. If this be true it furnishes an additional reason why the committee should meet next Monday only to adjourn until the party needs its help. If Mr. Canavan has any such ambition as is imputed to him he may as well abandon it at once. Even if he secured the nomination he could not possibly be elected. He would draw no Republican votes and could not command anything like the full strength of the party with which he at present affiliates."

NOT A DUNGHILL.
All efforts have failed to identify a murderer at Bucyrus, Ohio. He calls himself John Smith, and says that is a good enough name to take to the scaffold. He wanted to kill a Marshal, who was trying to arrest him for drunkenness, and he is now under sentence of death. His only purpose now is to die without being discovered by his relatives and friends. This fellow has a strain of game blood in him. The grit he shows in preferring to die alone and unknown (certainly John Smith is no name), rather than drag those who are near and probably dear to him into disgrace, is a quality that would fit him to lead the cowboys of Arizona. There is no doubt, also, that many a worse man goes scot free out of the Courts."

ADAMS' CANDIDACY.
Our stalwart contemporary, the Carson Index, shows the groundlessness of the charges made against Jewett Adams by "Eureka Democrat," and says: "With the aspirations of Jewett W. Adams for the honor of a Democratic nomination for Governor of Nevada, we have nothing to do. There are abundant political reasons why we are opposed to him for that office, whether he gets the nomination or not; but good common sense and fair play are jewels both in and out of politics. We hope the Eureka correspondent will cut his brains for more substantial grounds of opposition than he has yet disclosed. He may thus be of some service to the people of this State."

STOKES' RECEPTION.
A few years since, says the Denver Republican, when Edward S. Stokes shot Jim Fisk, he was denounced from one end of the country to the other as a cold-blooded murderer. Since his release from prison Stokes has made a great deal of money, and is now one of the proprietors of the Hoffman House, New York. He gave a reception there last week, which was attended by over a thousand ladies. Stokes was courted and made much of by all present. "Times change, and men change with them." But Stokes is a cold-blooded and cowardly murderer, all the same.

THEY WILL REMAIN.
The Salt Lake Herald—Mormon organ—feels confident that no stringent measure—not even the Edmunds Anti-Polygamy Act—will ever be effective in banishing the "Latter Day Saints" from Utah. On this head it says: "It would be a pretty tough commission that would make it so unpleasant here as to drive the Mormons out of Utah. History teaches that long before the country became unbearable for the Mormons everybody else would have hidden it good-bye. The exercised editors may rest contented that the Edmunds bill will drive no Mormons from Utah."

WORK FOR ALL.
It is of course very pleasant to learn from New York that notwithstanding the vast numbers of foreign immigrants arriving at that port, applications are received by the authorities in charge there for more laborers from all parts of the country than can by any possibility be supplied. These are largely from industrial concerns, but a very considerable number are asked for by the farmers in the Western States, where farm labor is always scarce and in demand.

LESSONS IN PRACTICE.
A party of nearly forty young men, sons of gentlemen residing in all parts of England, left Bristol the other day for New York, on their way to Minnesota, where they are to be placed as pupils with well-known American farmers. They are under the charge of the Rev. G. Pridham, Vicar of West Carphree, who has been induced to promote this emigration by the success which has followed a similar placing out of several of his own relatives.

PLAIN OR PRETTY.
Mme. Nilsson-Roussard has been interviewed again in Paris. She intends to drop the name of her late husband and to resume her old stage name, "I will be plain Nilsson in future," said Mme. Roussard. Plain or pretty Nilsson will always be charming.

AN INTERVIEW WITH LOUIS P. NORAS.

The Attempt of DeLong and Party to Land at Sagasta.

DeLong's LAST INSTRUCTIONS TO NORAS.

The Sad Parting Between Noras and the DeLong Party.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR WILL SIGN THE ANTI-CHINESE BILL.

[SPECIAL TO THE SENTINEL.]

NEW YORK, May 6.—The Herald's correspondent had an interview with Louis P. Noras, under date of Irkutsk, March 2. He says they landed at a point near the northern-most branch of the Lena, but which the Captain found it impossible to enter, on account of the shoals. DeLong, therefore, determined to land at a point where they could see this northern outlet, but more to the east, and presumably enter the point marked Sagasta on the map, two miles from the beach. He says the Captain ordered those of the men who could walk to get out and drag the boat nearer in shore. The Captain, the Doctor, Erickson and Boyd, being disabled, staid in the boat, while the others were then able to drag a mile further toward the land, when they too, waded to the shore. Collins had left the boat with the first lot, and had made a fire on the shore. This was on or about the 16th of September, and the landing of the articles was completed on the 17th. There the party staid two days to recuperate, all the men being badly frost-bitten, including the Captain, the Doctor alone being in comparatively good condition. Noras and Niderman were the best conditioned among the men. The journey south was then commenced, the burdens being distributed. The Captain bore his own blanket and some records. The burdens borne by some of the others were heavy; some complained of taking them further, but the Captain insisted. The party then traveled south four days. On the way two deer were shot by the Indian Alexis. The party sat down and had a good feed. DeLong's motto being, Noras says, to feed well while they last. Noras thinks they made 20 miles in the first 10 days, and that they reached a point near the one marked on the maps as Tobolgoj, but which was only a simple hut. The four next days brought them to the extremity of the peninsula, and after some delay, waiting for the river to freeze, they crossed the river to the west bank on or about Oct. 1. The width of the river there was about five hundred yards. Before crossing they got another deer. The Captain's intention was to make for a place called Sagasta on the map. Erickson died. His toes had been amputated by the doctor. During the retreat, after crossing the river, he one night pulled off his mittens, and one of his hands became frost bitten, and the circulation could not be restored to it. He died, and was buried in the river. Then it was that the Captain decided to send Noras and Niderman ahead. The food had been quite exhausted, the party existing only on brandy. Noras says he was Sunday when they left. The Captain had held divine service. The men were seated on the bank of the river. After service he called the two men and told them he wanted them to push the boat, and that he would follow with his party. "If you find game," were his last words, "then return to us; if you do not, then go to Kuman Surka." Noras thus describes the parting: The Captain read divine service before he left; all the men shook hands with us, and most of them had tears in their eyes. Collins was the last, and simply said: "Noras, when you get to New York, remember me." They seemed to have lost all hope, but as we left they gave us three cheers. We told them we would do all that we could, and that was the last we saw of them. Such is Noras' story of the last seen of Captain DeLong and his suffering party.

Noras continued: When we left the Captain said that Kuman Surka would be near nearest village. The snow had fallen to a depth of from a foot to a foot and a half. From questions then put to Noras, I gathered the following description of the place of the taking: The river was about five hundred yards wide, and the place was near where the mountains on the western side ended. There was one spot which remained distinctly impressed upon his mind, namely, a high, conical rocky island, which rose up out of the river, and which he called Catava, or Stalhow. How he got the name is not quite clear, but the rocky island mark was in his memory, and he bore about east by north from the spot where they left the Captain.

Should Put an End to Arctic Exploration.
NEW YORK, May 6.—DeLong was born in this city in 1844. Among naval officers there is a belief that the tragic fate of DeLong and his men should put an end to Arctic exploration, on the plan of single ships endeavoring to reach the Pole. Among those who died with DeLong was Jerome Collins, the correspondent of the Herald. The Herald appears in mourning this morning.

Death of a Prominent Mason.
OSHKOSH (Wis.), May 6.—Ephraim Sherman Durfee died yesterday. He was the Worshipful Master of the Rochester Lodge of Masons in 1828, and conferred the degrees on Morgan, who subsequently exposed the Masonic secrets. Owing to the anti-Masonic excitement at that time, Durfee was compelled to leave the country. He was a soldier in the war of 1812.

An Indictment Against Ex-Postmaster Clary.
OKLAHA, May 6.—An indictment was reported in the United States Court in the Star Route cases against ex-Postmaster Clary of Sidney. It charges him with making out false mail reports and registers. The document comprises 212 pages of printed matter. Clary is the witness who disappointed the prosecution in the trials of Cobin and Iddings at Lincoln, last winter, by failing to testify to the facts expected to convict them.

Names of the DeLong Party.
WASHINGTON, May 6.—Following is a correct list of DeLong's party, according to the records found in the hut by Melville, namely: Lieutenant DeLong, Surgeon Ambley, J. J. Collins, A. Gariz, Ab. Sam, A. Leroy, H. H. Koch, J. W. Boyd, W. Lee, N. Juerson, A. Dressler. There were originally 14 men in the DeLong party. Of these Noras and Niderman are safe, and Erickson died and was buried in the Lena.

No Hope of Rescue for Chippa's Party.
WASHINGTON, May 6.—No additional particulars concerning the fate of Lieutenant DeLong and party have been received. The Navy Department officials have little or no hope of the rescue of Chippa's party. Ensign Melville, in his last dispatch to the department, said he had no doubt but that they had all perished, but he would use every effort to recover their bodies. The general impression is that Chippa's boat capsized in the gale that separated the three boats, and that all hands were drowned.

Will Sign the Bill.
WASHINGTON, May 6.—President Arthur will sign the Chinese bill this afternoon. He may possibly accompany the official announcement of his approval with a message to the House of Representatives, commending upon it, but he will, nevertheless, sign the bill.

No Lives Lost.
WASHINGTON, May 6.—A corrected dispatch from Hoffman, Charge D'Affaires at St. Petersburg, says no lives were lost by the burning of the steamer Rogers, at St. Lawrence Bay.

An Exaggerated Report.
CHICAGO, May 6.—A Daily News reporter at Racine telegraphs that last night's reports of the loss by fire there were greatly exaggerated; that the total loss was only $350,000, and the insurance $150,000.

OVER THE WATER.

Europe Should Think About Defending Herself Against the United States.

[SPECIAL TO THE SENTINEL.]

ROME, May 6.—In the Chamber of Deputies yesterday, during the debate on the treaty with France, Signor Luzzatti, speaking of the invasion of American products, said that those Governments which were most alarmed at the increase in American imports were not sufficiently alive to the danger. It was time, he said, that Europe should think about defending herself against the United States.

PACIFIC COAST ADVICES.

[SPECIAL TO THE SENTINEL.]

Great Indignation at the President's Proclamation.
SAN FRANCISCO, May 6.—A Tombstone dispatch says great indignation is expressed here over the President's proclamation, declaring Arizona a state of turmoil. Prominent citizens talk of calling an indignation meeting, and by voice and resolution denounce the Presidential proclamation. Cochise County is in as peaceful a state as any other section, and Tombstone is as peaceful a city as there is in the Union, with a perfect police system and efficient officers. Public opinion is unanimous in calling the President's action an outrage.

Not Entirely Correct.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 6.—The dispatch regarding the change in the Central Pacific management was incorrect, so far as it indicates that President Stanford retires from active duty in connection with the affairs of the corporation. Much, however, of the executive business falling upon him will devolve upon Mr. Towne.

More Fatalities—Mass Meeting.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 6.—Another British steamer, the Altonowar, arrived today from Hongkong with 829 Chinese on board. This evening a grand mass meeting will be held at Union Hall to celebrate the release of Parnell and his associates from prison, and the success of the cause of Ireland.

A Little Girl Drowned.

RENO (Nev.), May 6.—Ivy Ayres, three and a half years old, the daughter of I. W. Ayres, fell in the mill ditch to-day and was drowned. She was carried half a mile and went out of the waste gate. A doctor worked with her for some time, but could not resuscitate her.

McCall Seriously Wounded.

FRESNO, May 6.—The Sheriff returned late last night and reports McCall killed, but seriously wounded.

PICKINGS AND STEALINGS.

The women who do fancy work don't fancy work. Calling for a division of the household goods, a petition for divorce. The good die young. The bad have to lie about the weather, and are spoken of as the oldest inhabitants.

A homely but sensible Philadelphia girl, who never wore a high hat, at the theater, has been married three times, and on each occasion married rich.

One year ago a needle entered the wrist of a young lady in Elmira, and the other day it was removed from the right arm of the fellow who was her "steady company."

The families of two men lynched for cattle stealing at Pueblo, Col., have sued the county for $50,000, on the ground that the men were not properly protected by the officers.

The gambler lives on our hopes, the lawyer and the clergyman on our fears. The millennium will throw these people all out of employment.

"You have played the deuce with my heart," said a gentleman, to his lady partner during a game of whist. "Well," replied the lady with an arch smile, "it was simply because you played the knave."

The Chicago Herald contains a long editorial on "The Hell-Brother We Have to Drink." It is probable the Herald's own fault. If he would pay up the old score the bartender would set out a better brand.

The "upper crust" of New York have sensation. Immediately after Lent a fashionable society lady went to a party, leaving her child very ill with pneumonia. When she returned the child was dead, and now they say the mother has become insane and will have to be committed to an asylum.

Ran Away With an Actress.
One of the sons of Earl Cairns has run away with an actress. Happily, the woman is not married, and it is, of course, just possible that the two will come back some day as man and wife. The fact of the elopement is passing strange, when it is considered that Earl Cairns has devoted all his leisure time to bringing up his children in a correct and proper manner. Teutonic lectures, penny buns and visits to the Crystal Palace have formed most of their amusements; they have been taken to church regularly, never have been permitted to go to the theater, have been made members of the Young Men's Christian Association, of temperance Bands of Hope, and yet here is one of them off with an actress of no specially good character! The scandal has come, in fact, from the very last family in England expected to supply it.

Digitated Stockings.
Married men will be pained to hear that stockings in which each toe has its separate stall are the latest fancy of the feminine world. If the stockings prove a tight fit and have to be worked on, after the fashion of tight shoes, the race of Bengals have a new misery in store for them. The male mind has been so often clouded with anguish by being exercised over the question of forcing number five gloves on a number seven hand, that it will certainly rebel at being compelled to kneel and render similar services at the feminine foot-stool.

Objects to Criticism.
A young girl objects to the criticism which makes it appear that those of her sex who are true and womanly are scarce, and she wishes to know whether it is necessary when a young lady is in the company in the parlor she shall lay in beefsteaks, whitewash tubs, scrubbing brushes and smoothing irons, in order to convince a lot of ninnyes of young men that she can work in the kitchen.

In a paper read by Dr. C. W. Siemens before the English Royal Society lately, the ground was taken that all the heat and energy sent from the sun and stars was back to the great solar center, which thus suffers no diminution of its forces.
