THE LYON COUNTY TIMES

LIABILITY OF EXPRESS COMPA-NIES .- Judge Ballard, of the United States Circuit Court at Louisville, Kentucky, has recently decided a case involving the liability of express companies for money lost in transportation. The case is substantially as follows: A package of $13,528 was intrusted to Adams express company at New Orleans, to be delivered to the Bank of Kentucky, at Louisville. On its transit the express-car fell through the bridge at Buddo creek, and the contents was destroyed by fire. Under the ordinary contract the expresss company stipulates that it will not be responsible for loss by fire, but the bank claimed its liabilities under the law governing common carriers. The court in substance says:

"Now, upon these principles no one is responsible for the damage occasioned by neglect of himself or his servants or agents. But the facts stated show that neither the company nor its servant was guilty of any neglect. It follows that the defendant cannot be charged on this account. Though the defendant used the Louisville and Nashville railroad to transport its messenger and the package the railroad company was not, in any legal sense, the servant of the defendant. The defendant has no control over the railroad company or over its servants. The railroad company was no more the servant of the defendant than it is of any passenger whom it transports. It was no more the servant of the defendant than is the hack or cab the servant of him who hires it to transport him from one part of the city to another."

To EUREKA,-Hon. J. C. Hazlett and Hon. Wm. Woodburn left for Eureka on this morning's stage. We are glad to know that the distinguished gentlemen were favorably impressed with our little town, and that they express themselves as much gratified with the hospitable reception accorded them. A stranger entering Austin in the gray of the morning, tired from an all-night ride, is not apt to form a very exalted idea of the town, but first impressions are removed when the stranger gets a chance to stretch his legs and perambulate around. Of course, Austin would not make a ramrod for Virginia, but as a steady little camp it will compare favorably with any in Nevada. We are pleased to note that both gentlemen made many friends during their stay. Dr. Hazlett is a man who, by his genial manner and kindly ways. must make friends wherever he goes. IN TRAINED

A SMART MAN .- He never gets drunk. That's the kind of man be is. He says so, and he ought to know. He was seen, however, the otner evening, in close conversation with a lamp-post. He informed the lamp-post that he was an ill-used man. All his friends had proven untrue, his love had deserted him, his washerwoman had refused to trust him, and he had nothing more to live for. Wasn't he right? The lamp-post did not say anything; but just then it got slippery, and he couldn't hold it any longer, and he reclined in the gutter. As he pillowed his head on the curbstone he TENCH & LYDEAID, said: "Can't fool me. Not much. I'm smart enough, I guess. Ain't I right?" And he slept the sleep of I right?" And he slept the sleep of innocence, and sweet forgetfulness, Hest manner, and most reasonable innocence, and sweet forgetfulness, Hainting. Work warranted to give satis and bad whisky.

ACCIDENT .- Friday, while an Italfan vegetable man was in the act of driving up a steep hill on one of the back streets of Lower Gold Hill with a heavy load of vegetables, his horses got tuckered out to such an extent that they could not hold the load. The outfit went down the hill again, upsetting the wagon and precipitating an avalanche of turnips. potatoes and cabbages, upon the affrighted people residing in the ravine below.

MESSRS. E. L. PIERCE, William Claffin and Estes Howe, having been appointed to appraise the estate of the late Charles Sumner, report the amount of real estate at $40,500, and the personal estate $94,258 89. His library, containing about 3,000 volumes, including rare books with autographs, specifically bequeathed to Harvard College, is valued at $12,340 95.

DISTINGUISHED ARRIVAL.-Among the arrivals on the Comstock range Saturday morning was the Rev. Father Henneberry, the Catholic Temperance Apostle. Father Henneberry comes from San Francisco, where the conversions he has made to the temperance cause are num-bered by thousands.
