Items for Everybody.

Egg-nog is the latest liquid novelty in Parisian society.

Maieles taking measures to restore sea fish to her inland waters.

Iowa has twenty-nine home insurance companies.

Friction matches were unknown previous to 1832.

Unjust resentment is always the fiercest.

True love is more frequent than true friendship.

The young are slaves to novelty, the old to custom.

A man will lay hold on any pretext to lay his fault upon another.

To laugh at men of humor is the privilege of the serious blockhead.

Omaha has a billiard hall fitted up at an expense of $30,000.

No one in Texas owns to having a gold watch.

Trinity Church clock is the heaviest in America.

Petroleum is fifty cents a barrel in Canada, and no sale.

A Paris Princess has just paid $20,000 for a single ball-dress.

Western grain merchants are about to build an elevator at New Orleans, to cost $200,000.

Twenty-five car loads of ice per day are shipped from Toledo to Cincinnati.

Sixty sheep were destroyed by a pointer dog, near Sandusky, Ohio, last week.

It is a miserable thing to be injured by one of whom we dare not complain.

Envy cannot exist in perfection without a secret esteem for the person envied.

Men often go from love to ambition, but seldom return from ambition to love.

The injuries we do and those we suffer, are seldom weighed in the same balance.

The love that increases by degrees is so like friendship that it can never be violent.

It is a terrible fact that there are 100,000 drunken women in the United States.

A cat has just died in Cleveland, Ohio, at the uncommon (for cats) age of 28 years.

Low necked dresses are the mode in Paris, and they are daily becoming lower.

The journeymen carpenters of Philadelphia are about to establish a reading room and library.

Paris is getting sick of legs. There is actually a demand for brains in theatrical circles.

It is feared that the late cold term has severely injured the peach orchards at St. Joseph, Michigan.

The contracts of the Suez Canal work are bound to complete it by September 1st, 1869, under penalty of $100,000 a month for any delay.

A Chicago divorce case rests on the complaint of the lady that her husband made her get up in the night and make the bed over.

The entirely proper, well-authorized expressive and necessary word, "serried" for some unaccountable reason, is not in any edition of Webster's Dictionary.

The national taxation now reaches about $550,000,000. That ought to be enough to meet the expenses and do something for the reduction of the debt.

The Dalles Mountaineer of Feb. 1st, says the weather continues very severe, and that stock of all kinds is starving or freezing to death. Should the present severe weather continue most of the stock in Wasco county would perish.

A jealous youth and his newly married wife at Housatonic, Mass., agreed on separation and talked about divorce, but he couldn't endure absence and came to be reconciled. She cooled his ardor with a "not so fast," and he resorted to a phial of arsenic; but alas for the tragedy—his wife snatching it from his hands found it to be buckwheat flour.

A divorce case has just been tried in Freeport, Ill., wherein Mrs. Catherine Schudt sued for a divorce from her husband because, although married for three years, he persistently refused to consummate the marriage. His defence was that he did not want any children. The jury returned a verdict in favor of the wife, granting the divorce.

One morning last week the citizens of Scranton, Penn., were startled by the announcement that the "Oxford Mines" had been suddenly submerged with water from the Lackawanna River, and that one hundred miners had been drowned. The mine was being worked under the bed of the river, and the miners had unawares approached too near the river's bed, and during a blast an orifice five feet square was formed, through which the waters of the river rushed in torrents. Fortunately the miners were all saved, only one being at all injured, and he not fatally.
