"Modern Fables"

(The Spendthrift.)

It was a dusty day in summer. By the river bank sat Jim Spendit, disconsolate, at odds with all things. Along came cheery Jim Bankit. "Why so gloomy, friend? The trout are biting." A smile twisted the wry lips of Jim Spendit.

"When your money is gone your friends are gone," said he. "And I'm out of a job to boot."

"I, too, am out of work," said happy Jim Bankit. "But I have more than enough to last me through the summer. You see, while I worked I saved."

Moral: Lay away a little sunshine for a dark and sunless day. Bank part of every dollar you earn.

Popular Couple Are Married.

Surprising their many friends throughout the county, Miss Reva Marie Neese, daughter of Mrs. Ellen Neese of the Ward's lake district, and Orville L. Kagy, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Kagy of Chambers' Prairie, were married Wednesday afternoon at the Presbyterian manse in this city by Rev. John M. Ferguson, the ceremony being witnessed by Mrs. Neese and Mrs. Kagy.

Local Knights Attend Convention.

Quite a number of members of the local lodge of Knights of Columbus have been in Seattle this week attending the national convention of the order, next to the recent Shriners' convention in that city the largest gathering of people to come to the Sound this summer from all parts of the United States and Canada. The following Olympians were initiated into the fourth degree of the order at Monday night's ritual session: Joseph Reder, Ralph M. Fuller, John S. Lynch, John F. Gilles and James E. Connolly.

Discovery by Spokane authorities

recently of a shortage of $4,000 in the city treasurer's office of that city, called Arthur A. Lewis, member of the state public service commission and former treasurer of that city, to Spokane, but the investigation had not proceeded far before he was exonerated from all blame and an employee of the office, who had served in the same capacity under Lewis, was suspended pending a thorough checking of the city records.

Because of the expense involved, estimated at $5,000, members of the Olympia Golf & Country club, at first enthusiastic about the project, later this week after investigating the situation were compelled to give up the proposed lease of all or purchase of a portion of the beautiful Gwinwood property at Lacey, owned by Gwin Hicks, who desired to lease the property for five years or longer or to sell a portion of it. The plan was to convert the property into a golf course and country club.

Containing that coal does not exist

on the particular property involved, the Washington Union Coal company of Tono this week petitioned the county board of equalization to cancel an assessment of $57,215. The lands have been similarly assessed before and the company has presented only mild objections, but recent court decisions ruling that lands cannot be assessed as coal lands unless it is positively known coal exists, is the basis for the present action. The land has never been prospected and neither the company nor the county knows whether it contains coal.

The city council has under consideration a new traffic ordinance, prohibiting the parking of automobiles in Fourth street, requiring automobiles parked in Washington and Franklin streets to be left in the middle of the street, facing the curb, prohibiting any vehicle to be left standing backed against the curb, except while loading or unloading, and requiring all other vehicles stopping at the curb to face in the direction of traffic.

Lewis county authorities are inclined to question the veracity of the story told last week by A. Staples, an employe of the Wilson Bros. logging camp near Independence, over the beating he administered to Feels Ojua, who was employed on the Mattison farm near Grand Mound, and Staples is in the Lewis county jail charged with first degree assault. Staples' story was that Ojua had attempted to rob him, but the authorities say the story did not "hold water" after investigation, and they put Staples under arrest.

The new hotel and restaurant minimum wage of $9 per week for all adult females (over 18) except waitresses, and $7.50 a week for minors of both sexes, becomes effective August 17, and the industrial welfare commission is notifying some 3,300 employers, who will be affected by the ruling, to this effect.

Red Flag Arouses Mima.

Perhaps a fanatic did it—perhaps just a practical joker—the residents of Mima don't know, but anyhow somebody hoisted a red flag between two large American flags on the new flag-pole in that community Sunday night, after the new pole and flag had been dedicated at special exercises Sunday afternoon, and when the residents of Mima woke up Monday morning they didn't like it a little bit. The school directors pulled the red flag down right away and reported the incident to the county authorities, asking for an investigation.
