SOCIAL AND GENERAL

Good Times Come at Last.

I been longin' an' a lookin' fer ter see dat happy day
When a man kin mek a livin' an' a little time ter play
An owe no-body nothin' all de blessed year aroun'.
An sell his lates' pickins at eleben cent a poun'.
It look lak I would not be let' ter see dat time arrive.
But, bless de Lord, it done come roun'—an' I am still alive!
An' I's paid up ev' y dollar, an' I owns my little place,
An' now I looks dis big roun' worl' right squar'ly in de face.
We had a hard time, comin', but we kep' a addin' some,
An' layin' by a little fer de "rainy day" ter come.
But now, ez I looks back across de trials uv de way,
I can't he'p feelin' we has gone an' passed de rainy day!
We sits aroun' de fire at night, ez cozy ez ye choose,
An' John he gits de paper, an' he reads us all de news
'Bout Rosenfelt an' Panema, an' Cuby, an' de res'.
Twel I feels de sadustacshun come a-cropin' in my breas'.
An' I hears de chilluns readin' 'bout de worl' a turnin' roun'.
Twel it makes me kinder dizzy ez I stan' upon de groun'.
But let 'er keep on turnin', ef it bring a better day,
When a man kin make a livin' an' a little time ter play.
Ole Marster mighty good to us; de white-folks treat us kin',
An' we aint fergit de favors when we useter git behin'.
Lord, keep us good, an' give us strengt' ter cultivate de groun'.
An' don't let Cotton git below Eleben Cent a poun'!

Dorothy McBee's seventh birthday was an event of happiness for a host of little friends. The spacious dining room was a pretty picture with the airy guests clustered about the magic cake bearing seven candles and symbols of good or bad fortune. The blowing out of the candles led to many exciting experiences. The symbols were cut by Enid Yandell, Mary McGee, Kirby Swinney and William Yandell. After the feast there was a frolic on the lawn. Many gifts were presented the dainty hostess and wishes that bright skies arch over all the days of "seven times one."

Mrs. Barr entertained a large guest party Friday evening in compliment to her visitors, Miss Lucile Jackson and Miss Mabel Jackson, of Kosciusko.

A Kindergarten Verse.
'God help us mothers all to live aright,
And may our homes all love and truth unfold,
Since life for us no loftier arm can hold
Than leading little children to the light.'

Don't You Wish Today Was Yesterday?
The little lad stood at the window
And watched the driving rain,
And heard the weary wind that moaned
Eerily at the pane.
No chance today for outdoor play!
With tiny finger tips
He drearily drummed disconsolate—
Wistful his eyes and lips.
'We had such a good time yesterday'
He shook a mournful head;
Don't you wish today was yesterday?
The plaintive voice soft said:
'Do I wish today was yesterday?
Dear heart, I hardly know:
Mine was a glorious yesterday;
But it seems so long ago!
'When for me this day will pass away,
With all its loss and sorrow,
I shall have only yesterday,
But you will have—tomorrow!'

Those Little Chairs.
Aunt Alice died young, and left a set of the most beautiful doll chairs. Grandma sometimes showed them to her grandchildren, saying mournfully, "They belonged to your Aunt Alice, who died at the age of nine years."

In the fulness of time the grandmother passed away, but all the family felt what a sacrifice it would be to let the little chairs be played with; so they continued to be kept on a shelf, just out of reach of Jack's busy little hands.

Jack was four years old and resourceful, and he loved those little chairs; he used to stand below the shelf and ponder ways and means by which he might acquire them.

One day he came slowly downstairs at lunch time, after a period spent in adoration of the chairs, his family saw an unusual thoughtfulness on his baby brow. Half way down he paused, one hand on the banister.

"Mama," he said slowly, "did drama do to heaven?"

"Yes, dear."

"An did I tam down from heaven?"

"Certainly, my darling."

"Well," with a smile of angel sweetness, "when I was tummin' down from heaven I met dramma doin' up, an' she said, 'Jack, you tan play wiv dose little chairs.'"

"Woman's," Home Companion.

After a Rook party, given by his mother, "the little boy examined the black birds on the back of the cards and asked, "Mama, how do you play 'ciow' an' how?"

A Cure for Misery.

"I have found a cure for the misery malaria poison produces," says R. M. James, of Louellen, S. C. "It's called Electric Bitters, and comes in 50 cent bottles. It breaks up a case of chills or a bilious attack in almost no time; and it puts yellow jaundice clean out of commission." This great tonic medicine and blood purifier gives quick relief in all stomach, liver and kidney complaints and the misery of lame back. Sold under guarantee at Swinney & Stigler's and B. S. Beall's drug stores.

Longaker Sharpe.

The marriage of Miss Louise Sharpe, daughter of Mrs. Marie Louise Sharpe, and Mr. Harry Longaker was celebrated yesterday at high noon at "Linger Longer," the home of the bride.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Bennett. The wedding music was played by Miss Clara Longaker. Before the ceremony Miss Avis Chadbourne sang "All for You," followed by "You and Love."

The service was read in the ballroom beneath a canopy of Southern amilax and white and gold tulle. A huge wedding bell of white roses was suspended from the center of the canopy. The ballroom was attractively decorated with a profusion of palms, ferns and roses. Tall palms and ferns were used in the balcony. Little Pauline Rose and Louis Poindexter, the ribbon bearers, wore dainty white frocks elaborately trimmed with Valenciennes lace.

They formed an aisle of ribbons for the bridal party. The bride wore an exquisite directoire robe of white mesaline satin. The skirt was finished with panels of plaited chiffon outlined with rose point lace. The yoke was entirely of rose point and duchesse lace. The mousquetaire sleeves were finished with frills of the lace. The empire back was embellished with a pearl buckle from which fell a sash of the satin. The skirt was made with the full length train. Her tulle veil was fastened in crown effect with a pearl pin, the gift of the groom. She carried a beautiful bouquet of bride roses tied with tulle. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Mollie Palmer, of Elmira, N. Y., and Miss Isadore Mertsheimer. The groom was attended by Mr. Fred Mertsheimer and Mr. Harry Young. The brides wore similar gowns of white satin fashioned empire. A directoire sash of the satin draped the bodice and fell in tassels of gold fringe at the side of skirt. The yokes were made of filet net and embellished with gold threads. They carried shower bouquets of white carnations and stavia and wore Grecian bands of gold in their hair.

The out of town guests included: Mrs. M. O. Cline, of New York City; Mrs. W. C. Palmer, of Elmira, N. Y.; Miss Mollie Palmer, of Elmira, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Longaker left last night for California and will be at home after March 1, at Linger Longer, 2210 North Tenth street, Kansas City, Kan.—Kansas City Times.

Always have Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup handy, especially for the children. It tastes nearly as good as maple sugar. It cures the cold by gently moving the bowels through its laxative principle, and at the same time it is soothing for throat irritation, thereby stopping the cough. There is nothing as good. Eat What

You want of the food you need
Kodol will digest it.

You need a sufficient amount of good wholesome food and more than this you need to fully digest it.

Else you can't gain strength, nor can you strengthen your stomach if it is weak.

You must eat in order to live and maintain strength.

You must not diet, because the body requires that you eat a sufficient amount of food regularly.

But this food must be digested, and it must be digested thoroughly.

When the stomach can't do it, you must take something that will help the stomach.

The proper way to do is to eat what you want, and let Kodol digest the food.

Nothing else can do this. When the stomach is weak it needs help; you must help it by giving it rest, and Kodol will do that.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today, and purchase a dollar bottle, and if you can honestly say, that you did not receive any benefits from it, after using the entire bottle, the druggist will refund your money to you without question or delay.

We will pay the druggist the price of the bottle purchased by you.

This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family.

We could not afford to make such an offer, unless we positively knew what Kodol will do for you. It would bankrupt us.

The dollar bottle contains 2½ times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is made at the laboratories of E. C. De Witt & Co., Chicago.
