A "Stranger Within the Gates" Succored

While on his way home Friday evening during the heavy downpour of rain, Dave Sutton saw a man lying in front of A. P. Shepherd's residence in the throes of a convulsive fit. He immediately summoned Dr. B. A. Shepherd and others and the man was carried to A. P. Shepherd's, where the doctor injected some quieting sedatives. An automobile was secured and the patient hurried to the Holmes County Community Hospital, where Dr. Shepherd eventually succeeded in subduing the convulsions and the patient regained consciousness. Discharge papers and other documents found in his pocket showed him to be Sergeant James M. Ford of the 2nd Depot Battalion Headquarters, Canadian Expeditionary Forces of Canada, who enlisted from Portland, Oregon, U. S. A., on January 17, 1917, and was discharged from active services at Vancouver, British Columbia, October 18, 1919. The discharge papers gave him permission to retain his uniform and wear it if desired, traveling enroute from Canada to his destination in the United States. It also gave him permission to wear the Honorable Discharge Badge, No. 5787, presented by the Canadian government for honorable service rendered, and also, for identification, having served with the Canadian forces of Canada.

It appears that on his return to Portland, Oregon, Sergeant Ford learned that his mother had died while he was in the war and that the family had moved to New Orleans. In New Orleans he found that they had again moved and had located at Columbus, Ohio. He was on his way to Helena, Ark., and finding that he had been routed wrongly stopped off at Lexington to retrace his course. He left his grip in a barber shop, stating that he would return in a couple of hours after it. During the war he had repeatedly been gassed, which had undermined his constitution and rendered him subject to fits. Feeling one of these fits "coming on" he proceeded to take a brisk walk, having succeeded several times in overcoming them in this manner. But this one proved unusually severe and rendered him unconscious for some time, and he would doubtless have perished but for the timely discovery of his condition and prompt medical attention. He was given the best of care under the auspices of the American Red Cross Society, and left Sunday afternoon for Columbus, Ohio, where members of his family now have their home. He was a courteous gentleman and duty appreciative of the kindness and tender care given him while at Lexington. His case is but an instance of the beneficent mission of the Red Cross Society, which should have the cordial and hearty support of each and all.

Splendid Citizen Passes to His Reward

F. W. Eakin died at his home in the Oregon neighborhood Tuesday night at 10:10 o'clock, from an illness contracted Sunday. He had been in feeble health for a year or more and his constitution was unable to withstand the illness. Funeral services were held at the Oregon church yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. E. T. Mobley and attended by a large concourse of people wishing to pay their last tribute of respect to the deceased, who was held in the highest respect by all who knew him.

Mr. Eakin attained the age of 81 years. He was an ideal citizen in the highest conception of the term and a consistent Christian gentleman, who practiced what he preached. During the war between the states he faithfully followed the banner of the Confederacy and at the time of his death was a member of the Holmes County Camp of Confederate Veterans.

He is survived by his wife and seven children, to-wit: Mrs. Peter Ingold, Mrs. M. F. Herring, Mrs. Clay Herring, J. W. Eakin, J. E. Eakin, Mrs. H. H. Ashley and Mrs. Chas. Bernard, to whom sincerest condolences are extended.
