LADYSMITH, Oct. 30 .- [5:20 a, m.]-Firing has just commenced. The Boers opened with forty-pounders, which the British silenced, after several shots had been fired. The Boers are now advancing on the British left flank.

PARIS, Oct. 30 .- The "Echo de Paris" prints an interview with Dr. Leyd, the Transvaal agent in Europe, who expressed the opinion that the action at Ladysmith would be a decisive one. Although Europe sympathized with the Boers, he was aware of the fact that the powers would not intervene if the Boers were beaten.

CAPE TOWN, Oct. 30 .- A Kaffir spy has reported that in the recent fight at Tuli between the Boers and Colonel Plummer's forces the Boers lost twelve men. Many more are said to be dying in Rhodes' drift.

A despatch from Kimberley says that Cecil Rhodes complimented the troops after the recent fight there. He said that if there was one man whom the Boers would like to capture it was himself, but he felt perfectly safe in Kimberley.

Dr. Jameson has arrived at Durhan.

AVERSE TO AIDING ENGLAND. An Unfriendly Spirit in French-Canadian Circles. MONTREAL, Oct. 30.-When the steam ship Surdinia, with the Canadian troops for the Transvanl on boad, sails from Quebec on Tuesday, she will carry from the native shores considerably less than 100 French-Canadians. The total strength of the contingent is 1,000 men, but though the French-Canadian population is fully three or four times as large as the British, the latter has had to fernish over 900 of the olunteers. This Colonial contribution to Britain's defence was intended as something of an object lesson of the unity of the empire. So far as Canada is concerned, however, it has only shown once more the very wide guit which senarates English and French in the Dominion, and must have given cause for serious reflection to Canadian statesmen who have believed that a united Canadian nationality was gradually being built up in British North America. The rank and file of the French-Canadian press of Quebe have become almost hysterical, and not ports the arrival of the hospital ship Re-even an Irish nationalist meeting could lief at Manila. French-Canadian paper which possesses great influence among quite a large circle of readers, and it enjoys a certain prestige as being to some extent the organ of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in Quebec. In its issue of the present week the paper said: "This sending of a contingent to fight England's South African Boers is the entrance of the thin edge of the wedge. I is the recognition of a dangerous principle. By their action the government has recognized the false principle that Canada is obliged to assist the empire in its wars, which do not interest us. This principle is of menace. It may bring us to civil war. The vigorous opposition among French-Canadians to the despatch of the contin-gent was very strikingly illustrated in this city when the members of the Montreal contingent left to take the steamer at Quebec. Not a single bugle note sped the volunteers on their way; not a single member of the city council was present at the station to give an official aspect to the occasion, and not a flag or streamer floated from any of the city buildings.

Many of the Ontario and Western papera are commenting in a very outspoken man-ner on the lack of loyalty of the French-Canadians, as illustrated in this latest in stance, and the French-Canadian press is replying in kind. Whatever may be the effect in a political sense on the approaching general elections, the incident has certainly stirred up another bitter race con troversy in Canada

OBSEQUIES OF A GENERAL

Guy V. Henry Buried With Full

Military Honors.

President McKinley and Secretary Root Attend the Services at St. John's Episcopal Church-Many Tributes to a Brave Man's Memory. The Bearers and Gaard of Honor.

The body of Gen. Guy V. Henry was ommitted to the earth at Arlington to-Many men who had fought under him and with him followed the body to the tomb, and many tributes in tears and flowers were paid to his memory.

From the time of the arrival of the body at Washington last evening until the funeral cortege was about to move at noon today the remains of the dead soldier lay in state before the sanctuary of St. John's Church. Throughout the night and morning a guard of honor stood around the casket. Sad-faced persons entered the church bearing flowers. A wreath of white chrysanthemums, ivy, and palm came from the White House. Through the green and white there was twined broad bands of purple ribbon. Half-hidden in the ivy leaves was the card of the President of the United States. On the flag-covered casket rested a wreath sent by Ransom Post, maining trunks. Everything in the Rhode G. A. Gloom filled the silent church during the forning hours. The grey light of the stnless day was further dimmed, as it entered through cathedral glass. Sacred pictures looked down upon the solemn scene.

At 10:30 light broke upon the scene. hundred incandescent lamps burned forth. Then the silver cross and Communion cups upon the altar sparkled; the gay colors in the sacred pictures flashed, and the gilding in the fresco glittered.

The music ceased. Then there entered Bishop Satterlee, accompanied by the Rev. Dr. Mackay-Smith. The bishop was reading, 'I am the resurrection and the life, saith the Lord; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live, and whoseever liveth and believeth in me shall never die."

Then, taking his position in the sanctuary, he read the service. At the close of the ritual the body was removed from the church through the south door. A caisson stood at the exit. Troop I, Third Cavalry, was drawn up in H Street, with the right resting on Lafayette Place. At a command the cortege took up the march to Arlington.

While all was hushed within the church, there were many sounds without. Cavalry could be heard clattering over the concrete. There were hourse shouts of oficers, and then their orders would be heralded on the bugie. By this time the church was filling up. President McKin-iey, accompanied by Secretary Root, had come and they had taken seats in a front pew and next to that occupied by the family of the deceased. Secretary Hay had also come. Among the other persons in the church were: Gen. Fitzhugh Lie, Adjutant General Corbin, General Schofield, General Gilmore, General Boynton, Perry Heath, and Senator Hawley. The organ was pealing, and the sad and weird strains of Chopin's Marche Funubre stole through the church.
