The Times' Branch Offices.

The Times' "Little News Merchants" sell and secure their supply of Morning and Evening Times at the following branch offices:

WASHINGTON, D. C., DECEMBER 31, 1895

The Times Meets Every Demand of a Critical Community.

It is independent, fair and just. It gives its great army of readers the news of the day fully twelve hours ahead of its slow-going contemporaries.

The circulation of The Times for the week ending December 29, 1895 was as follows: Monday, Dec. 23, 36,273; Tuesday, Dec. 24, 34,887; Wednesday, Dec. 25, 34,482; Thursday, Dec. 26, 35,286; Friday, Dec. 27, 35,739; Saturday, Dec. 28, 36,224; Sunday, Dec. 29, 22,958.

Total 255,829. I solemnly swear that the above is a correct statement of the daily circulation of THE WASHINGTON TIMES for the week ending December 29, 1895, and that all the copies were actually sold or mailed for a valuable consideration and delivered to bona fide purchasers or subscribers; also, that none of them were returned or remain in the office undelivered.

Something Worth Fighting For.

Considerable surprise is expressed here and there at the almost phenomenal success that has attended the operations of the Cuban insurgents during the past three weeks. As a whole inferior in numbers, though in isolated instances meeting the enemy with superior force; poorly equipped and armed as compared with the Spanish soldiers; lacking the systematic drill of regular soldiers, they have performed feats that would do credit to veterans.

Public Library for the District.

All sorts of bills are introduced in Congress in the course of a session. Some of them never get beyond the pigeonholes of the committee to which they are referred; others never ought to leave those hiding places. But now and then a measure is brought forward that has real merit, and it is a pity that this is not promptly recognized and the bill enacted into law.

Not Too Great for Censure.

Commissioner Truesdell has undertaken to read the riot act to a reporter who dared to criticize the refusal of the Commissioners to give out evidence taken by the police star chamber trial board against certain patrolmen. It is not the purpose of The Times to arrogate to itself this particular doxytrix reporter, for the paper he serves is quite competent to take care of itself and him, too.

Probable Offer of Naval Stations.

For the second time within two decades an opportunity is offered the United States to acquire a desirable naval station in the West Indies. In 1868 Denmark offered to sell us the islands of St. Thomas, Santa Cruz, and St. John, and the offer was declined, whether wisely or not, need not here be considered.

Mr. Mansfield's New Play Is Gloomy, Tense and Masterful.

Mr. Mansfield's new play is gloomy, tense and masterful. It is altogether different with the insurgents. Every bullet they fire is sped by a prayer for speedy deliverance from the Spanish yoke; every blow they strike is motivated by the same thought; every plantation that is made to go up in smoke is a sacrifice offered up on the altar of patriotism.

Col. Parker Third Man

Col. Myron M. Parker has been appointed by Chairman Carter of the National Republican committee the third compromise to conduct the primary election for delegates from the District of Columbia to the Republican national convention.

Stove on the Brain.

Johnson's remarkable work at home is spoiled by a dream. This is about a man who put up a stove. It is unnecessary, perhaps, to go further with it. You know in advance just how he swore and tore and spoiled the carpet, and the pipe didn't fit and he skinned his knuckles and cut his finger and spilled soot down the back of his neck and finally went uptown and got six men to finish the job.
