

THE NEW YORK DEMOCRACY AND THE SLAVERY QUESTION—IMPARTIAL MOVEMENT.

A manifesto has been recently issued in New York by one hundred gentlemen, "not in the name or under the authority of any organized body, but as individual Democrats, and under the responsibility of their own signatures. These gentlemen are not members of the Republican party, but, on the contrary, voted at the last State Election for the Soft Shell, or Administration Democratic ticket. Among the signers are several State officers, members of Congress and State Senators of former years, and others who have for years been recognized as among the most earnest, active, efficient, reliable standard bearers of the great Democratic party which rallied round Jackson and Van Buren, and gave the vote of the Empire State to Polk and Pierce.

In reference to the Democratic National Platform of 1852, the renewal of the slavery agitation in 1854, by the passage of the Nebraska-Kansas bill, and the agency of President Pierce in bringing about that renewal, the signers of the manifesto say:

"The application of the prohibitory clause to the bill organizing the Territory of Oregon, to that part of Texas lying north of 36 degrees 30 minutes; the admission of California as a free State; and the acknowledged force and supremacy of the local laws against involuntary servitude in New Mexico and Utah while in a Territorial condition, served in a measure to quiet the apprehensions of the Free States, and prepare the public mind for an acquiescence in the 'Compromise Measures' of 1850. Long and violently agitated as the community had been, it readily sank into repose on the assurance thus held out that the vexed question was finally settled, by concurrent action, against Slavery Extension. The National Conventions of both political parties deliberately resolved against all further disturbance of the subject, and pledged themselves to withstand all attempts at its renewal, 'in Congress or out of it,' on any pretext whatever.

On this platform of abstinence from agitation, the Democratic party elected its Presidential candidate. To the accomplishment of this result, the individuals whose names are hereto subscribed, cheerfully gave their vote and influence; and when they heard the President of their choice, before him Heaven and his assembled countrymen, declare his solemn determination to frown indignantly on any and every attempt to revive agitation, they felt themselves relieved from a responsibility of more than ordinary magnitude, by the assurance that, in no possible contingency, could any aggressive measure escape the order of the Executive department of the Government.

Alas for the mutability of human progress! scarce had the ink of the Inaugural Message become dry before there was concocted a measure of aggression, more bold in its assumptions, more unblushing in its effrontery, than men in power had ever dared to hope for, far less propose. And this scheme, unopposed by any portion of the community, unopposed by any public exigency, the desperate violation of a plighted faith, held sacred by all parties for more than a quarter of a century, the assured harbinger of a sectional strife more bitter and unrelenting than any which had preceded it, received the direct encouragement and official sanction of Franklin Pierce, the sworn defender of the country against Slavery agitation.

Whether through weakness or wickedness, through ambition or cowardice, through chicanery or bravado, this act of treason toward Freedom and a Northern constituency was accomplished, we shall not endeavor to determine. Enough, that through its instrumentality the floodgates of sectional strife have been opened—sufficient, that by it the Democracy of the Free States have been everywhere overthrown—enough that by it the 'Temple of Liberty' is threatened with destruction in the flames of nationality and civil war. History has handed down to eternal infamy the names of men celebrated for deeds of folly or of crime; but if the scenes in process of enactment shall eventuate in fratricidal bloodshed on the plains of Kansas, there will be no more lofty or enduring pilory no name more execrated in all coming time, than his who, with every conceivable motive for fidelity to the peace and prosperity of the country, yet chose to hazard his life, in eluding after continued prerogative and power."

The signers of the Manifesto, it will be seen, all voted for Gen. Pierce.

Speaking of the position always occupied by the Democracy of New York on the slavery question, these influential and well known Democrats say:

"Nor is it necessary that we should trace through successive years the declarations placed upon record by the Democracy of New York, as to the place occupied by them in the controversy between Slavery and Freedom. The sentiment of opposition to the extension of Slavery is too widely spread and universal to be controverted. In this respect, there has been little, if any, want of coincidence between the sections into which the Democratic party has been divided. If they have differed, it has been as to the time when the restrictive policy should be applied, not as to the propriety of the principle itself. On the side of the radical democracy, the whole current of party declarations is in one direction. Even the last National Convention, held in September last, adopted this authoritative exposition of the sentiment of its constituents: 'Resolved, That while the Democracy of this State will faithfully adhere to all the compromises of the Constitution, and maintain all the reserved rights of the States, they deem this an appropriate occasion to declare their fixed hostility to the extension of Slavery into Free Territory.'"

The signers profess to be Jeffersonian, State Rights Democrats. They lay great stress on "the principles of true Democracy." They say:

"Nor is it in regard to the spirit of propaganda alone that we feel impelled to enter our protest. The continued encroachments made by those assuming to speak for the party, cannot be otherwise than alarming to all who have a regard for the true principles of Democracy. The doctrine of Mr. Fremont, a federation of States, depressive of national tendencies, is discarded, and a centralization of power and influence engrafted upon it, which cannot long exist without expunging all State sentiment, and substituting that of a federal nationality. To build up and strengthen the States, as the only possible check to consolidation, was the theory of Jefferson; to build up the Union, as the only check to the States, was the theory of Hamilton. Conventions, by the construction of platforms, have silently changed the very principle upon which the Democratic party was founded, and have now converted it into a pure nationality, ignoring the opinion and sentiments of the people of the States, and dictating dogmas of belief at war with the doctrine of State Sovereignty. Even the right of representation is perverted, and delegates are chosen, not by the people, but by the sentiment of their constituents, but because they agree, or profess to agree, with the opinions and interests of other States and communities. Conventions are no longer allowed to give expression to the views of the private citizen; but, controlled by the retainers of the General Government, are made to echo the dictates of the central power, to which a paramount fealty is proclaimed."

LATER FROM EUROPE.

New York, May 27. The American steamer Baltic, Capt. Comstock has arrived with Liverpool dates to May 14.

There had been no change in the Cotton market since the sailing of the Canada. Trade in the manufacturing districts about the same as previously reported.

A commercial treaty has been concluded between the United States and Persia. Russia demands an explanation of the terms, as well as the reasons for the secret treaty between France, England and Austria, which guarantees the independence of Turkey.

Gen. Walker's battle at Rivas, as well as Central American affairs generally, had excited but little attention in England.

Russia and Sweden, at a conference at Olenburg, had agreed to the proposition of Denmark, in regard to the Sound Dues, if other nations interested will acquiesce.

Affairs in relation to Italy are liberally discussed.

Russia is commencing another campaign against the Circassians.

A San Francisco correspondent of the Baltimore American, under recent date, gives quite a gloomy picture of things in the land of gold. The population of San Francisco, as a mass, have lost much of that energy and enterprising spirit that characterized the early growth of the community. Signs of improvement are no longer visible, and all things are said to bear a shade of gloom, as if some great calamity had befallen the people. Crowds still throng the streets as formerly, but with no other purpose than to be on the look-out for something to "turn up," or to kill time by promenade and sight-seeing. The thousands who flock with high hopes to the mines, many of them having formerly relinquished a comfortable home and support in the East, in a short time return to the city disappointed and disgusted, to seek out a miserable existence as servants and common laborers. The moral effect of the losses and sufferings incurred soon follows. The honest and respectable mechanic, farmer or merchant, lured away from home by visions of a rapidly acquired fortune, becomes eventually a vagabond, or yielding to a temptation which in better circumstances would have found him invulnerable, something worse.

STEAMBOATING.—A correspondent at Washington writes, that one day, a short time since, two members of Congress who were returning home drunk from a campaign dinner, happened, in trying to regain their hotel, to blunder into a room where a steam engine had worked into a tolerable machine. "Choo-choo chiz-zz!" went the machine, while a great drum whizzed around most furiously. "What's that?" exclaimed one of the gentlemen. "A steamboat," said the other. "To be sure it is," said the first, "didn't I know that?" "Boy, what boat is that?" "The Phenix," said the boy, speaking in two syllables. "What's the passage boy?" "One-fifty," said the knowing imp. "Well, here's the money," said the gentlemen; "show us our berth." "Walk aft," said the boy. The gentlemen walked aft, the boy walked forward, and in perhaps still doing so, with a cool three dollars in his pocket.

WASHINGTON, May 26. There is no doubt that Mr. Crampton and the Consuls implicated in the breach of the neutrality laws will, almost immediately, be dismissed.

It is reported in this city that Mr. Brooks, of South Carolina, had challenged Governor Watson Webb, on account of an article in the N. Y. Courier and Enquirer, in relation to his punishment of Mr. Sumner.

Here is a fact worthy the attention of those marvellous patriots among us, who believe in the purity of modern democracy.—Those who "supported Van Buren in 1848," in Indiana are all in the Black "Republican" ranks. In the State of New York all who are not in Franklin Pierce's Custom Houses and Post offices are there also.

DUEL.—The editor of the Montgomery Mail, Joel Riggs, Esq., has been called by one of Ben. Fitzpatrick's forty thousand men, and he has accepted a meeting.

In Alabama, twenty-two papers—four dailies, one tri-weekly and seventeen weeklies, support the American Presidential ticket with hearty good will. This is very well for a State whose whole voting population does not exceed 75,000.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—Peter Mattocks, a colored man, was executed at Moyamensing prison at noon to-day, for the murder of Elizabeth Gilbert.

The cheapest excursion you can make, is into the realms of fancy. No return ticket is required.

Francis P. Blair, Jr., has been nominated for Congress by the Benton democrats of the Fifth District, Missouri, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Hon. G. G. Miller.

St. Louis, May 17.—The Hon. John G. Miller, a member of Congress from the fifth district of this State, died on Sunday last.

Charles M. Waterman has been nominated by the American party for Mayor of New Orleans.

St. Louis.—The majority of foreigners in St. Louis now, is from ten to fifteen thousand. Thomas Jefferson used to call the cities "sorens upon the body politic." We don't exactly think that, but we commend the sentiment to those who believe in the Apostle of Democracy.

The Editor of the Sandy-Hill Herald keeps a daily calendar after this fashion, pleasing himself with seeing how it grows day by day "beautifully less."

PIERCE ALARMIC FOR 1856.—Franklin Pierce's apprenticeship in the White House will expire in three hundred and twenty-seven days, six hours and two seconds from to-day at 10 1/2 A. M.

The national expenditures are running up as rapidly as ever. The appropriations for '56-7 are expected to reach eighty millions. Extravagance is a Democratic characteristic. Thirty years ago, great outcry was made against John Quincy Adams' administration that it expended twenty-six millions in one year.

EXEMPLARY PUNISHMENT.—One Lennear, of Philadelphia, convicted of the homicide of Mr. Hatch of New Jersey, during an altercation which arose between them on account of the former's trespassing and gunning over Hatch's farm on a Sunday, has been sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment with hard labor.

CINCINNATI, May 26. Flour is active at 6.37. Wheat has advanced. Corn improved; sales of 31,000 bu. at 59 1/2. Mess Pork, 300 bbls. sold at 18.75. Sugar 8 1/2. Beef firm. Stocks dull.

WHAT UNITARIANS BELIEVE.—The Christian Register, the New England edition of Unitarianism, says that as opposed to Orthodox, Unitarians maintain that human beings do not inherit from Adam a ruined nature; that there is no transfer of his guilt made to us, inflicting upon us a moral inability; that our relation to God has not been prejudiced by Adam's fall; that life is not a foregone conclusion with any of us when it begins; that we have not been condemned as a race, but shall be judged as individuals; that, whatever be the rank of Jesus Christ in the scale of being, and whatever be his nature, he is not presented to us in the Scriptures as the Supreme God, or as a fractional part of the Godhead—therefore, he is not the source, but is the channel of Divine grace; he is not the object of our homage or our prayers, nor the ultimate object of our dependence and trust, but fulfills his highest work for us when he leads us on to Father; that the Scriptures do not lay the emphasis of Christ's redeeming work upon his death, above or apart from his life, character and doctrine; and that his death, as an element in his redeeming work, is made effective for human salvation through its influence on the heart and the life of man, not through its vicarious value with God, nor through its removal of an abject difficulty in the divine government which hinder the forgiveness of the penitent without further assistance.

A gentleman writing from San Francisco, states that Buddhism has been formally inaugurated on American soil. After many disappointments, the Chinese population of that city have imported a wooden god and all the paraphernalia of their worship for the purpose, and erected them as a permanent institution in its midst. The festival, as it was called, commenced on the 4th, and was continued to the 8th, occupying five days.—The edifice in which it was held was erected in 1853, and is situated in Pine street. It is of a singular style of architecture, the entrance being through narrow and devious passages, having on each side high walls.—A general invitation was extended to the people of San Francisco, through the press, to visit the building, and all who availed themselves of it were treated with politeness.

Queer "institutions," these widows, if we may believe the papers! Here is more about them:

"The widow of an eminent composer having stated, upon the tomb of her husband, that he 'has left his life and gone to the blessed place where only his music can be exceeded,' the mourning relief of a famous pyrotechnist adopted the same idea, and caused to be inscribed upon the marble slab—'He is gone to that blessed place where only his fireworks can be excelled.'"

CREDIT.—Credit is one of the best things man has devised, and about the worst abused. Thousands live on credit, who have no right to do any such thing. None but an honest man ought to be able to pass his word instead of coin—a rogue's word is not worth its face, no matter how rich he may be. No one should have facility to run in debt for the means of ostentatious display or sensual gratification, or of a hazardous adventure. "Earn before you spend" should be the general rule; the credit should be extended mainly to those who use it to fit themselves with means and implements of useful, productive labor.

MORTALITY IN DENMARK.—The people of Denmark are described as pretty regular church attenders, compared with other continental nations; but in Copenhagen the devotions are principally confined to attending the morning services. In the afternoon of Sunday, when the weather is favorable, nearly the whole population resort to the surbs, and indulge in numerous kinds of gay recreations. Yet all is orderly, affording a great contrast with the drunkenness which exists on the Sabbath in the large towns of England, where such extraordinary efforts are made to check every species of amusement.

THE BRITISH PROVINCES.—There is a political crisis in Canada. The Ministry have resigned, and Sir Allan Napier Colborne, the leader of the Opposition, has been appointed to form a new Government. The Governor dissolved the Legislature the other day against the wishes of the Council, whereupon that body immediately resigned.

CINCINNATI, May 26. The city is rapidly filling up with strangers from Virginia, Tennessee, Louisiana and Texas. There is a full delegation here from Mississippi.

Boston May 24.—The citizens held a meeting last evening and denounced the attack upon Sumner.

Among the late arrivals at one of the St. Louis hotels, is one that reads—"E. Smith and four wives, Salt Lake."

The whole party should be rowed up Salt River.

E. G. Eastman, Esq., has been appointed one of the Board of Visitors, for 1856, to the West Point Military Academy.

The rose of Florida, the most beautiful of flowers, emits no fragrance; the bird of Paradise, the most beautiful of birds, gives no song; the cypress of Greece, the finest of trees, yields no fruit.

DEATH OF A CLERGYMAN.—The Rev. David Daily, the oldest minister of the Philadelphia Annual Conference of the M. E. Church, died at his residence at Snow Hill, Maryland, on the 4th instant.

A way says he knows only one thing better than love, and that is to be thrown in to a pond of mud and milk, with the privilege of eating your way ashore.

Fourth of July. Mr. John—Please say to your readers that the present Session of the House of Representatives, the Declaration of Independence will be read, a Fourth of July Oration will be delivered; also, several Speeches by members of the two Literary Societies, and probably an Address by N. W. Harris, M. D., of Greenville.—The lovers of Liberty and Literature are cordially invited.

This young Institution is steadily progressing. The next session will commence Sept. 1. Tuition 100 per session. JOHN H. BRUNER, Pres.

Notice. The Funeral Service of Wm. H. Kew, dec'd., will be preached by Rev. F. K. Mearns, at Ailey's Chapel, Mount county, on the last Sabbath of June next.
