BLOOD-THIRSTY CIRCULAR

CHICAGO SOCIALISTS AFTER BOHEMIAN SCALPS.

Threats to Blow Up the Turners' Hall—Protection of the Police Asked.

CHICAGO, ILL., January 30.—The following blood-thirsty circular, printed in the Polish language, was translated this morning. According to the Daily News, similar ones have been scattered among the members of the Socialist clubs throughout the city, and a decided attempt is being made to carry it into effect, it is said. It seems that at a masquerade ball, to be held this evening, the Bohemians are to display signs which are said to reflect on Anarchists and Socialists. This leaked out, and the circular immediately followed. It is understood that upon the assembling of the Socialists at their meeting place resolutions will be immediately adopted to blow up the hall in case the Bohemians refuse to retreat. The circular says:

THE CIRCULAR.

Workmen, arise! Free pass to the Turner Hall. Workmen, the Bohemian Turners of Taylor street will give a masquerade ball for the purpose of entertaining their friends. The programme states that there will be a grand display of "arielotru," and in the programme the Turners have insulted the workmen of the entire continent, reviling them in the most contemptuous and villifying terms. Now, then, workmen, allow them and their guests the privilege of assembling, and then show them genuine "arielotru." We therefore request all workmen in poor circumstances to show up in full force to-night at the hall and there demand that they shall recall their insults. Fine clothes and kid gloves are not necessary. Rough hands and dynamite are all the requirements. The Sixth ward men will assemble at Eighteenth street, and those of the Eighth ward on De-Koven street.

SOCIALISTIC SOCIETIES.

THE BOHEMIAN SOCIETY

sent a committee to Chief Eberrold to ask protection, and Capt. Simon O'Donnell of the Twelfth Street Police Station has been assigned to look after the matter. The word "arielotru" is said to mean "thief," or "robber," or "Socialist."

WHAT SPIES SAYS.

A reporter for another evening paper called on August Spies regarding the proposed display. He said it was not contemplated by the Anarchists originally to take possession of the hall. They only desired to protest openly against the action of the Turners. "Now, however," he said, "since the Bohemians have taken the cowardly step of summoning the aid of the police, there is no surmising what will be the result, and if the police begin to use their clubs or overstep the limit of their authority, the Anarchists will not, to say the least, submit tamely to it. Two can play at that game." The terrorists, he said, had no love for the police, anyway. They looked upon them as a pack of "thieves and rogues," and never lost an opportunity to give them a rap. The Bohemians are determined fighters, Mr. Spies says, and will, no doubt, be fully armed on the occasion. Neither will the Anarchists go empty-handed. The Bohemian Turners are reported to be an offshoot from Socialism, and until two years ago, were in accord with that organization. There is a bitter feeling existing between the two societies, and it was feared a serious affray would result to-night. "Yes, the Bohemians have asked protection from the Anarchists," said Chief Ebersold this afternoon. "We shall have three officers detailed there to prevent the threatened violence; but, if necessary, the entire department can be on the ground at a moment's notice. I don't think there is any danger of serious trouble," the superintendent added; "the Anarchists are not so foolish, I think, as to imagine they can defy the entire police force of the city," and the chief laughed at the idea that there would be serious trouble.

The Louisville Tobacco Corner Ended.

LOUISVILLE, KY., January 29.—The recently attempted corner in certain grades of tobacco has ended, and tobaccos included in the Spanish contract have broken $1 25 to $1 50 per 100 pounds. The decline was caused by a supposed treaty between the Spanish contractor and a New York syndicate, represented here by Sawyer, Wallace & Co. The syndicate was formed to buy up all this tobacco, so as to be able to sell to the Spanish contractors. A contest ensued, and tobacco went up from $1 to $1 75, from which price it has fallen again by the above agreement.

Missing Under Suspicious Circumstances.

LOUISVILLE, KY., January 30.—Jake Kee', colored, who recently received several thousand dollars pension money, is missing from Bowling Green, Ky. When last seen he was being chased by Frank Caldwell, colored, with a drawn pistol and knife toward the river. The two had fought about a woman. Caldwell is under surveillance.

"The Dyspeptic's Refuge."

"I am thirty-five years old," writes Mr. Charles H. Watts of West Somers, Putnam county, N. Y., "and had suffered from dyspepsia for fifteen years. The current treatment did me no good. Listlessly, and without hope, I gave Parker's Tonic a trial. I can give the result in three words—it cured me." It will cure you."

The Mallory Boycott.

GALVESTON, TEX., January 30.—The situation of affairs in the Mallory boycott remains unchanged. The Knights of Labor say the edict will go into active effect next week, and that the present inactivity is for the purpose of giving the public due notice of what to expect.

The Ohio Trades Assembly.

COLUMBUS, O., January 30.—The State Trades Assembly, before adjourning, adopted a resolution favoring the enactment of an eight-hour law to be observed by corporate companies. It did not indorse the action of the National Federation of Trades, held at Chicago, preparing a strike May 1st for the eight hour system, but recommended legislation on the subject.

Louisville Cement.

PREPARE FOR FLOOD.

Foundations, cellar walls and buildings subject to overflow should be constructed with Louisville Cement. It is the standard.

Protracted Fight Between Mexicans and Cowboys.

DURANGO, COLO., January 30.—The mail carrier from Farmington, N. M., reports that a protracted fight recently occurred between Carlisle's cowboys and some Mexican sheep-herders on the lower San Juan river, near the Navajo reservation. The trouble grew out of an effort of both parties to occupy the same range. The sheep-herders drove their flocks where the cattle were feeding, and the cowboys attempted to drive them off. The Mexicans proved too strong for their assailants, and forced them to take refuge in a cabin. They then burned all the other buildings belonging to the cowmen and held the latter as prisoners in the cabin for two days, during which time they drove their sheep away and then left. One Mexican was killed during the affray.

THE APPEAL.

What Our Contemporaries Have to Say About Our Change of Form.

Memphis Record: "On Wednesday last the APPEAL banished its old blanket form by appearing as a seven-column quarto. We are pleased to see this evidence of enterprise and prosperity on the part of the Old Reliable for two reasons: We want to see it continue advancing toward the front rank of journalism, and we are glad to be relieved of the necessity of climbing upon the roof to secure enough elbow-room and hiring a small boy to help turn the paper, which the old blanket form required."

Little Rock Gazette: 'Having abandoned its 'blanket sheet,' to the utter discomfiture of the old-timers whose memory runs back to the birth of that journal in 1840, the Memphis APPEAL now reaches us a large, handsome, eight-paged sheet, cut and pasted like the Gazette. The change adds much to the attractiveness of our able contemporary, which long ago earned its right to a place among the foremost of Southern journals."

LITERARY NOTES.

THE INLAND ARCHITECT AND BUILDER is one of the handsomest publications that the press of the United States can boast. The matter is always full of technical interest and the drawings prove the capacity for adaptation and artistic taste in selecting or preparing or making designs. Architecture is taking its place in this country as one of the fine arts, and has awakened in the people every where an appreciation that is the true artist's best recompense.

DOUBTLESS many of our readers have read Gen. W. S. Lytle's fine poem, "Cleopatra," written the night before the battle in which he was killed. The Pittsburg Leader relates the romantic circumstances under which it was written. They were told by the late Col. Beall to a gentleman. He spoke of the night before the battle at which Gen. W. S. Lytle fell. The two (Beall and Lytle) lay together in the general's tent. They were both given to writing po try at such times, and each had an unfinished poem on hand, and they read and criticised each other's efforts humorously for some time, when Lytle said: "Beall, I shall never live to finish that poem." "Nonsense," said I, "you will live to write volumes of such stuff." "A feeling has suddenly come over me," continued the general solemnly, "which is more startling than a prophecy, that I shall be killed in to-morrow's fight. As I spoke to you, I saw the green hills of the Ohio as I stood among them. They began to recede from me in a weird way, and as they disappeared the conviction flashed through me like the lightning's shock that I should never see them again." I rallied him for his superstition, but the belief had become strangely impressed upon his mind, and he succeeded in so far thrilling me with his own unnatural fear that I begged him to finish his poem before he slept, that such fine work should not be lost to the world. In the small hours the general awakened me from a slumber into which I had fallen to read to me the beautiful poem, which must live as long as our literature survives, beginning:

"I am dying, Egypt, dying!
Ebbs the crimson life-blood fast"

He was killed in battle the next day.

A Mystery.

How the human system ever recovers from the bad effects of the nauseous medicines often literally poured into it for the suppositive relief of dyspepsia, liver complaint, constipation, rheumatism and other ailments, is a mystery. The mischief done by bad medicines is scarcely less than that caused by disease. If they who are weak, bilious, dyspeptic, constipated or rheumatic, would oftener be guided by the experience of invalids who have thoroughly tested Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, they would in every instance obtain the specific and derivable from rational medication. This medicine is a searching and at the same time a thoroughly safe remedy, derived from vegetable sources, and possessing, in consequence of its basis of pure spirits, properties as a medicinal stimulant not to be found in the fiery local bitters and stimulants often resorted to by the debilitated, dyspeptic and languid.

HOLLY SPRINGS, MISS.

A Stock Law Needed—Visitors to Memphis—The Courts—Personals.

[CORRESPONDENCE OF THE APPEAL.]

HOLLY SPRINGS, MISS., January 29.—One of Marshall county's oldest and most valued citizens, Mr. Anderson Arnold, recommends the passage of a "stock law." Mr. Arnold is an intelligent and practical farmer, and in a recent letter to the Byhalia Journal he makes a strong and practical argument in its behalf. He refers to the bitter opposition a similar law met with in North and South Carolina, "but after its successful operation the people became a unit in its favor," and he is of the opinion that the same results will follow here—if it is once tried we will never dispense with it.

Chancery Court convened Monday. Judge B. T. Kimbrough presided over it in his usual courteous and dignified manner, and dispatched the business of the court with such promptness that he dismissed his law class this afternoon, and returned to his home in Oxford.

Visitors to Memphis this week: Gen. W. S. Featherston, Capt. Geo. M. Buchanan, Mr. John Burton, Mr. and Mrs. John L. McGowan, J. M. Crump, J. E. Anderson, Ben Baer and Misses Dena and Millie Baer and H. S. Dancy and wife.

Care of Animals in Winter.

The American Humane Association offers the following suggestions relative to fowls, horses and cattle to persons having these in charge, in the northern latitudes, during the winter months. Do not compel domestic fowls to roost in trees. Aside from danger of being captured by owls and other enemies, the swaying of the branches upon which they are sitting will prevent them from getting rest; while in the severely cold weather, thus exposed, feet and combs are frozen and the bird is so benumbed as to make it impossible for it to be of much profit on the farm. Securely sheltered from wind and storm, and allowed to sit on a broad roost, feet are thus kept warm, refreshing rest is obtained and the fowl is much stronger, healthier and more profitable to its owner.

Do not clip horses during the winter months. With the same propriety we might cut the hair from a dog or shear a sheep at this season of the year. The argument in behalf of the practice is that the horse in perspiration will dry more quickly if the hair is short. If the animal is thoroughly blanketed and kept in a sheltered or warm place, after being driven, no danger results from perspiration, whatever the length of hair; while the horse that has been deprived of its coat in the winter time suffers perpetually while being exposed to the cold.

It is a cruelty inflicted upon beautiful carriage horses for the purpose of style. Blessed is the ordinary work-horse, in the winter time, for, however much it may perspire, it is allowed to carry its full growth of hair during the cold weather.

Do not leave cattle to stand shivering, while extremities often freeze, in the snow-storms and severe winds of winter, when a little time would suffice to construct of boards, rails or poles, a support upon and around which may be placed hay, straw or weeds, thus making a shelter that may protect them. Cattle, kept in fairly warm condition throughout the winter will, as milkers, give a larger and better yield of milk, and as beeves will take on flesh much more rapidly than if left exposed to inclement weather.

Aside from a question of humanity, the more attention and care that is bestowed upon animals, with a view to their comfort, the more will they be of service and a source of profit to their owners.

A Washington Street Scene.

Cleveland Leader: Some of the street-car scenes of Washington are worth as much as the theaters of another city. The greatest of the great men ride in the street-cars, and it is not an uncommon thing to find yourself wedged in between a Senator whose presence would bring thousands to hear him speak, and a general whose deeds will live in history as long as time lasts. To-day your companion may be a noted lawyer, to-morrow you may sit beside a distinguished literateur, and on the next day you may hobnob and chat, if you will, with a Cabinet minister. I rode home from the Capitol last night in a car in which there were half a dozen justices of the Supreme Court, and when off the beach I can tell you you will not find a jollier set of fellows anywhere. They had left their gowns in the dining-room, and came into the car in overcoats and mufflers. Stanley Matthews led the procession, and he took his seat way up near the fare box, where, during the whole trip he bobbed up and down putting in fares and getting change for the people behind him. Just opposite him sat Judge Miller, and at the side of Matthews was the Chief-Justice. After the car had gone a block or two, a little ruddy-faced boy of perhaps six years got in the car but failed to find a seat. Chief-Justice Waite took him by the hand, and said: "How do you do, my little man; let me have your fare, and I will pass it up." Stanley Matthews put the boy's fare in, and Justice Miller got hold of the boy's hand, and drawing him in between his big, fat legs, gave him a seat on the edge of the bench, and made much of him during the whole ride. Strangers who came into the car asked questions of the great judges, whom they did not know, and were kindly answered, without condescension. Poorly-dressed women came in, and these $10,000-a-year Justices squeezed themselves into uncomfortable positions to give them room. In short, their whole manner was so democratic and simple that it would have delighted the heart of a Ben Franklin. I find this to be the case with all of those who are really great. Such men are not ostentatious, and they feel their failings more than their virtues. They do not forget that they were all babies once, and that they will all be corpses by and by.

Of Interest to Athletes.

James Robinson, trainer of athletes at Harvard and Princeton Colleges, writes from Princeton, January 24, 1885. "For cuts, bruises, strains, rheumatism and colds, I always use Allcock's Porous Plasters for myself and pupils. Never have known them to fail in over 100 cases. They strengthen the muscles and give instant relief. They are the only external remedy used by our athletes."

A STATEMENT

Of Facts for the Public to Consider.

ATLANTA, GA., January 21, 1888.

Emerging from a severe and long spell of typhoid fever, I discovered that the fever had settled in my right leg, which caused it to swell to an enormous size, remaining so quite three years, resisting all treatment. A small ulcer finally made its appearance a little above the ankle, which refused to heal to any and all external application and the use of the most noted blood poison remedies.

The ulcer continued to enlarge, frequently discharging, perhaps, as much as a cupful of pus or matter per day. The size of the ulcer was about two inches in diameter, extending to a depth near the bone. At one time it appeared that the flesh in all contiguous parts would surely become a running sore, as its peculiarly flabby, spotted and unhealthy condition clearly indicated, and it was intimated that I might lose my leg. My condition becoming so critical, and the ulcer enlarging so rapidly, we sent for Dr. J. P. Dromgoole, who made a thorough examination, and said that the flesh on my leg for six inches around the sore would soon slough off if not remedied; that I must have my leg bandaged daily and commence the use of B. B. B.

I acted according to his instructions, and after using the second bottle the ulcer looked fresh and healthy and commenced healing. I continued the use of B. B. B., and to the great astonishment and satisfaction of myself and friends, the ulcer continued to heal rapidly and is now entirely well, and I am attending to my business at W. H. Brotherton's store. I do not hesitate to recommend B.B.B. as a wonderful, speedy and effectual blood purifier, far superior to anything else I ever used.

I refer to W. H. Brotherton, W. B. Cone, Maj. D. A. Cook, Dr. Park, Dr. J. L. Pinson and others of Atlanta. W. M. CHESHIRE.
