FORTY-FOURTH YEAR.

M'KINLEY THE MAN

And the Only One, Who Can Knock Out Foraker in His Race for

THE FOURTH NOMINATION

For an Office to Which He Has Been Twice Elected.

THE OPPOSITION CANNOT CONSOLIDATE.

Unless the Governor Should Decline at the Last Moment, He is Called Surely the Nominee - General Dawes Gaining Ground-McKinley Receives an Ovation in the Convention-The Name of Fornker Also Evokes Applause-Fornker Says His Party Owes Him the Nomition Without a Contest-No Combination of the Opposing Forces New Considered Pessible.

The first day's session of the Ohio State Republican Convention developed the fact that Governor Foraker is yet the strongest candidate for the nomination as head of candidate for the nomination as head of in convention assembled, that while we mourn the State ticket, but that if Congressman the loss of this admirable woman, a typical McKinley chooses to allow his name to go before the convention he could secure the ford R. Hayes, in this their great affliction, we yet recall her many virtues and lovable qualinomination even from Foraker. The other candidates could form no combination in opposition to the Governor.

PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 COLUMBUS, O., June 25 .- The preliminary work of the Republican State Convention was disposed of this evening and the machinery is ready for operation to-morrow morning when the convention meets for the nomination of a State ticket. The committees have all been appointed and are at work this evening agreeing upon a permanent organization, and it is probable that Congressman McKinley will be selected as Chairman. The Committee on Resolutions will likely be in session to a late hour, preparing a platform which will meet with the indorsement of the convention.

Fernker's Strength Very Evident. The first session of the convention this evening was strongly indicative of the strength which Governor Foraker has among the delegates, and is the best indication that he will be nominated to-morrow. In the speech of the Temporary Chairman, Mr. Cooper, the name of Foraker, when mentioned, brought the delegates to a wonderful state of enthusiasm, as did also the mention of the name of McKinley. It is believed that McKinley is the only man on compassing the deteat of Foraker for the nomination, but McKinley says he is bonest in his statements, and that he cannot accent the nomination under any circumstance.

No Opposing Combination Possible There have been several efforts to-day to form a combination against Foraker which might secure his defeat, but the regular candidates have found, when they got together, that each thinks he has so much strength that no one of them will get out of the way. The result of this will undoubtedly be that Foraker will carry off the prize. Keifer, Butterworth, McKinley, Grosvenor and Thompson are opposed to Foraker, and will do what they can to prevent his nomination, but on account of the apparent certainty of his selection, they do not care to place themselves in the position of making an open fight against him.

Fornker Yet the Master of All. There is no important change from the situation of last night, which was and still remains that Foraker is master of the situation and will not likely be defeated, but will head the ticket, unless he chooses at the last moment to get out of the way himself. He is reported as having said to-day that be thought the convention owed him the nomination, and that he should not be compelled to make a contest for it. The other candidates are holding up well, and will make the best showing possible in the convention. They are now each proceeding upon the theory that Foraker may finally conclude not to accept, and they will the state of the same time reducing the rate of taxation to a figure lower than it has been for half a century, entitle him to the gratitude of the people, and mark him as one of the most brilliant of our Governor. The speeches of A. T. Brinsmade, of Cleveland, and Congressman Cooper were both of the radical order, and consisted of reviews of the work of the party in the State and nation, and what it was proposed to do in the coming contest. Mr. Cooper revived the Payne Senstorial election, and insisted Democratic Editors See in Cleveland De that the Republicans would make it unnecessary for another such performance in the future. The resolution on the death of Mrs. Haye was received with much feeling

Routine of the First Session

The following is the routine report of the day's proceedings: The convention assembled at the Metropolitan Opera House at 4 P. M. The stage was elaborately decorated. In addition to the 828 delegates there were over 1,000 spectators. Congressman Mc-Kinley's appearance as a delegate from the Eighteenth district was greeted with enthusiastic applause. Rev. Francis E. Harsten, of Columbus, opened the the convention with prayer. Hop. Allen T. Brinsmade, of Cleveland, read a communication from Hon. William Monaghan, of Columbians county, announcing his inability to be present and act as Chairman of the convention, on account of a previously arranged business trip to Mexico.

Mr. Brinsmade, in a happy manner, introduced the temporary chairman, Hon. W. C. Cooper, of Mt. Vernou. Mr. Cooper made an address touching upon the tariff, pensions, and civil service reform, as well as matters of State interest. His remarks favoring civil service were not enthusiastically received. The mention of Governor Foraker's name called for an expression from the convention that indicated the sentiment on the probable nominee for Gov-

A Grent Demand for McKinley. At the close of Mr. Cooper's address there was a universal call for McKinley, but that gentleman did not respond, and the convention resumed business. The secretary, Henry Rehse, of Cincinnati, announced the assembled, hereby announces the following platform of principles: First-We renew our adherence to all the principles so clearly and strongly enunciated by the Republican convention of 1889, and especially to the principles of protection in its two-fold meaning and operation: pro-

American citizen in the exercise of its pointical rights and privileges; protection to American industry and labor against the industry and labor of the world.

Second—We heartily approve and indorse,
the administration of Benjamin Harrison,
President of the United States, and pledge him our cordial support in the discharge of the duties devolving upon him as the Chief Magistrate of the nation, and executedly do we commend the just and liberal the pledges of the loyal people to the soldiers of the Union.

Third—We favor the passage by Congress, at its next session, of a proper and equitable service pension bill for all honorably discharged Union soldiers and seamen of the late war.

Fourth—We demand adequate and full protection for the wool-growing industry, which will in due time give to the American woolgrowers the American market for all the wool required by American wants. We indorse the provisions of the bill on the subject passed by the Senate at the last session of Congress.

Fifth—We heartily indorse the decision of the Secretary of the Treasury, whereby the duty on worsted is made dutiable at the same rate as upon woolen goods, thereby benefing and on worsted is made dutinate at the same rate as upon woolen goods, thereby benefiting our manufacturing and woolen industry.

Sixth—We congratulate the people of Ireland on the progress of their struggle for home rule, and in this convention we indorse the course of President Harrison in selecting for honorable positions in the diplomatic service worthy and representative Irish-American citizens.

THE END NOT FAR OFF.

eneral Cameron Passes His Most Trying Day-His Vitality at Last Shows Signs of Succumbing-Not Expected to Survive Another Day. PERCHAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1

Mr. Joy. June 25 .- This was the most trying of all the days at Donegal Springs since General Cameron was stricken down with paralysis. His vitality began early in the day to show signs of succumbing at last. He still took no nourishment, and the end was looked forward to from moment to moment. Dr Bachman drove over from his house in May town last night, arriving at Donegal at 11:20 o'clock. His horse and wagon were put up and he began his watch at the General's bedside as usual. Ex-United States Attorney General MacVeagh joined him. The General was very low and the physicians had only small hopes of his pulling through the night. He slept with seeming comfort, however, and when daylight dawned and he awoke, he appeared to be in a degree refreshed. There was no sign of any return of strength, however. On the contrary, he was weaker. Dr. Bachman left at 8:30, and the vigil of the sick room was continued by Mrs. MacVeagh and Mrs. Haldeman, his daughter and his granddaughter. The General's mind is still clear, as manifested by his observation of the people was manifest that his strength had sunk | Said he: lower than it had been, and that his end would be a matter of a very brief time. The day, which broke in clouds, turned raw, and later a dismal rain set in and continued throughout the day. The patient was made as comfort able as possible, though there was no evidence that he had felt any discomfort. ' His eyes were less expressive than at any time during his illness, and his whole appearance was that of extreme weariness.

Many inquiries came to the house during the day, and the reply was that the General was not expected to survive the night.

ALL CAUSED BY A COW. A Fatal Wreck on a Bridge of the St. Louis

Arkanens and Texas Rallway. PINE BLUFF, ARK., June 25 .- The north-bound passenger train on the St. Louis, Arkansas and Texas Railway struck a cow just at the trestle bridge across Crooked bayou. The engine was thrown from the track, and went thundering across the ties and shattered the bridge to pieces, the express car, baggage car and mail car and two passenger coaches going into the bayou 28 feet below, the sleeping car "Oneida" and engine only remaining on the track.

S. C. Stafford, route agent of the Souther Express Company, was killed instantly, being fearfully mangled. Postal Clerks Jackson and Sanginan were terribly bruised up, and will probably die. A lady, name unknown, suffered from several contusions about the head, while a large number of peo-

Painter, was alone in his private office counting up the day's business, three masked men entered with revolvers in their hands. The leader at once demanded that all cash be turned over to them. Being alone and unarmed, the frightened cashier allowed one of the gang to enter behind the counter and with the aid f a toy shovel fill his bag with all in sight. Having secured the money the party made their way to the street, where they mounted their horses and departed for the mountains An alarm was at once given. It was found that the robbers had taken $20,750. A teleram received here late this afternoon says the robbers are between the Trout lakes and the big bend of the Dolores river. A posse is in hot pursuit.

ernard Stalter Receives a Fatal Hurt in the Midnight Explosion.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. Youngstown, June 25.-Bernard Stalter, one of the victims of the boiler explosion at Remer's brewery last night, is sinking, and will probably die before morning. One of his broken ribs was driven through his right lung. The other men are resting as comfortable as possible, and will recover. Richter, the dead engineer, had his head blown clear off. The residences near the brewery look as though they had been bom-barded by shot and shell from the pieces of boiler and bricks being hurled through them. In the house of Peter Kelly, a bed on which two children were sleeping was splintered by a large section of the boiler, but the occupants escaped.

The loss will not fall short of $80,000, on which there is an insurance of $45,950. The brewery will be rebuilt as soon as the insur-

A BOLD CATTLE THIEP

Secures 20 Fine Animals and Succeeds in Selling Them.

KANSAS CITY, June 25 .- A bold cattle theft last Thursday night, on the ranch of Edward Dicus, near Lamar, Mo., has just been reported. On the night in question Dicus' ranch was entered by a cattle thief pen to Lamar, where the thief took out a bill of lading and consigned the stock to Kansas City. Arriving here he sold the cattle to James H. Campbell & Co. for $805, and escaped with the proceeds of the sale.

Dious traced the cattle to this city and has brought suit for the recovery of the stock, which will be pressed unless Mr. Dicus succeeds in recovering the eattle from their latest purchaser, a stockman in Leavenworth, whither Dicus' lawyer has gone to commence a replevin suit.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 PHILADELPHIA, June 25 .- THE DIS PATCH correspondent was to-day furnished by an ex-member of the Clan-na-Gael with an important statement, which includes its initiation ceremonies. This statement was furnished to Archbishop Ryan, and it is now published for the first time. Here is about him and things that went on, but it the method used to secure new members.

"You are indirectly approached by a member of the order, who intimates to you that he knows of an organization working in favor of Irish liberty, and informs you he can secure your admission therein; but no further information can he impart until you become a member of the order. After having signified your willingness to join you are brought to an ante-room. You are there asked a series of questions, of which the following are the salient ones: Name, age, place of birth and occupation.

"You are then sworn to the effect that should you now or at any other part of the proceedings become a member you will never reveal any part of the workings made known to you. The conductor, sword in hand, enters from an inner room.

INITIATION CEREMONIES "You are then blind-folded by the person who secured your election therein, and acts as your escort during the initiation. The conductor, with sword in hand, knocks on the inner door three times in succession, and the sentinel inside hails: 'Who comes there?" The conductor replies, 'Friends of Ireland who wish to join us in the cause.'

"The sentinel hails presiding officer, who is known as Senior Guardian, with the exression: 'Friends who wish to join with us in the Irish cause of Irish freedom; shall we admit them?' The Senior Guardian answers: 'Admit them.' You are then admitted and marched three times around the room, when you are brought before a man, who occupies a seat in the middle of the room. He is known as the Past Guardian, and asks such questions as pertain to secrecy. These questions have escaped my memory. You then proceed to the Junior Guardian, who sits at the entrance and who addresses you as follows:

My friends, you are now within these secret valls. The men who surround you have all taken the solemn obligation of our order upon are you willing to take the obligation? THE SOLEMN OATH.

"Should you answer in the affirmative you are conducted to the altar, where all the members stand up and you hold a prayer book in your hand while the Senior guardian administers the oath. The following is the oath, as near as I can remember it: I, of my own free will and accord, and in the ce of Almighty God and of this camp of United Brotherhood, do solemnly and sincarely swear and will labor while life is left to establish and defend a republican form of government in Ireland, and that I never will reveal the secrets of this organization to any person or persons in the world, nor write or co be written anything pertaining there-to by which its affairs may be made known to any persons not lawfully entitled to know them; that I will observe and obey the constitution and laws of this organization and preserve its funds for revolutionary purposes only, and if an officer thereof I will faithfully guard all books, papers, etc., intrusted to my in office when duly appointed, or to my superior officer when ordered to do so; that I will obey all orders coming to me from the Executive to the best of my ability, whether known or unknown to me, and finally I swear I take this obligation on me without hesitation, me reservation or any undue influence brought to bear on me, and that I will not hereafte come a member of any other secret Irish revolutionary society so long as I remain a member of the United Brotherhood, so help me God.

AUSTIN, TEX., June 25 .- The killing of Red Gibson at Wharton last Saturday by Kyle Terry has stirred up bad blood in Wharton and the adjoining county (Fort Bend) and there are grave fears that the opposing factions will clash and much blood be shed. The Governor has received the following telegrams in reference to the trouble, which has been brewing for over a year:

County Attorney J. H. Meek is authorized to report that, as Sheriff of Fort Bend county, I am unable to enforce the law without a conflict of arms, and to ask assistance from the State to disarm the community and enforce obedience to the law. The feud is a political one, but is not confined to Republicans on one side and Democrats on the other; but is a mixture, of Democrats and Republicans, being on each side. Terry, who killed Mr. Gibson, is a son of Colonel Terry, of the famous Terry Rangers, and has a strong following. Gibson, who he killed, was a prominent man, and had scores of friends.

A MOST BRUTAL MURDER.

Human Form.

MEDINA, N. Y., June 25 .- One of the nost horrible murders that ever occurred in Orleans county, took place near Oak Orchard, a small village seven miles north of Medina, last evening about 5 o'clock. The facts are as follows: Eugene Emery, a farmer employed near Oak Orchard and aged about 40 years, has been paying attention to Cora, the 13-year-old daughter of James Grimes, a well-to-do-farmer of that place. The young girls parents forbade Emery going with her and last evening when her father and mother were away and only Cora and her little brother were home, Emery entered the house and with a large club of wood, commenced an attack on the defenseless female and beat her until life was extinct. The little brother immediately summoned bis parents, who telegraphed to the Medina police and Coroner Munson, who arrived shortly after midnight. Emery had escaped, however, and was not arrested until about 9 o'clock this morning by Sheriff Searle at Albion. Great excitement prevails.

TEPECIAL TELEGRAN TO THE DISPATCH. CLARION, June 25 .- The oil field is hold ing up production remarkably well considering the close proximity of the wells to each other, showing the oil rock to be unusually prolific in this field and of lasting qualities. The Lucinda field is again attracting attention. Cadwallader and Leeper, Piper & Co., and the Local Oil Company, are very sanguine, as are also Ritts, Shoup & Co., of finding paying wells on Lucinda's skirts. The Local Company will drill on the A. Newland tract northeast of Ritts' well on the Kribbs farm; Piper & Co. southwest on the Pfendler purchase Ritts & Co. east of their well, while Green lee and Bolord will drill southwest of the old spouter.

The daily production of the Clarion field proper at Clarion, Pa., is 512 barrels, that of Lucinda 52 barrels from four wells. Cadwallader & Leeper are drilling near Helen Furnace in Highland township.

CHICAGO, June 25 .- Camp 20, the State's Attorney learned to-day, has within the last week been disbanded. Edward Spellman, Fresident of the Whisky Trust, who was the principal officer of the Clan-na-Gael for Illinois and Michigan, was summoned to give a reason for the disbandment. The break-up at this time is not pleasing to the State's Attorney.

> FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] JOHNSTOWN, June 25 .- The citizens me this afternoon to decide on what plan the money in the hands of the Finance Committee should be distributed. Mr. A. J. Moxham acted as Chairman. He stated the committeee had originally $200,000, but $25,000 had been expended for necessary work and a similar amount would be held, leaving $150,000 for distribution among the people. Mr. Moxham moved that the money be divided on a pro-rata basis and give each person $10 apiece, assuming there are 15,000 sufferers.

The motion was passed with some dissenting votes, but many of the people did not understand the matter, and since thinking over the plan they

DO NOT APPROVE OF IT.

Rev. Dr. Beale is one of these men. He was in the rear of the room when the motion was made, and was on the point of making the suggestion that three or more good men in each ward who know the people should be appointed to distribute the money among the sufferers according to their losses and present needs.

As it is, the rich and poor alike will get $10 apiece. It is expected that the wealthy will be generous enough to hand over their portion to their needy neighbors, but Dr. Beale is not sure that they will do it. He Beale is not sure that they will do it. He hopes that some better plan can be adopted to distribute the great body of the funds collected for the people. The idea in giving each person $10 at present was that it would put that much money in the market, and give impetus to trade.

Polling places will be opened in each district where all the professional in each district where all the profession in the contract of the contract o trict, where all the sufferers will be record-ed. A motion was carried to appoint a committee from each borough and township for the purpose of forming some SCHEME OF CONSOLIDATION. The citizens of each place will meet at 3 o'clock Saturday to elect the committeemen. The committeemen chosen will meet on Monday afternoon at Waters & Brother's

The Board of Inquiry has formulated the following plans: The territory has been divided into 20 districts, and the citizens will be asked on Saturday to elect six men of their number, and these men will select three to act as a Board of Arbitrators and assist the clerks of the Inquiry Board in collecting the data. The board will hold etings in two or three districts in a day if necessary, to push the work as rapidly as possible. Rev. Dr. Beale is such a busy man, and receives so many letters and telegrams that he is unable to answer them. He states that se will reply to each one as soon as he has the time. A Presbyterian Church in Tren-ton sent him 19 boxes of excellent clothing, which he is distributing among all classes

READY MONEY A NECESSITY As to the distribution of the remainder of the general relief fund General Hastings stated to-day that he did not know what the commission intended to do, but he was sure hey would do what was best for the region, and that they would do it promptly. He suggested that a correct inventory and asessment of all damages sustained by the in-sabitants of the valley be made, and that the remainder of the fund in the hands of Relief Committee be distributed pro rata according to the losses of the indi-viduals thus ascertained; that this assess-ment of individual damage could be barely approximated by the citizens of the valley after they had divided the territory into districts, and by committees receiving applica-tions from those claiming relief carefully scrutinizing their claims, and thereby fixing a reasonable basis for such distribution.

NO TIME TO BE LOST. He urged that no further time should b ost; that now was the hour of their necessi ty, and that the relief should come to them; that it was impossible to think of using this money in building houses and buying food and clothing to any adequate extent, and that the best and fairest way probably was to find out the relative damage sustained by the individual person in the region ar then make a fair pro rats distribution of the money among them and let them expend the money to their own best advantage, as their judgment might indicate.

After an interview with the committee a

An Installment of Portable Houses Not Received With Enthusiasm.

PROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.1 JOHNSTOWN, June 25 .- Ten of the portable houses arrived this morning, and the men are trying to distribute them. One of them, a very small concern, was put together at the Baltimore and Ohio depot, and more than one citizen turned up his nose at it. "I wouldn't live in such a dog kennel," said one dapper female, with a face red from anger and disappointment. "Good gracious," she continued, "I thought they were all to have four rooms, but this house hasn't even one that is decent. Most of the applications call for four rooms. But that is the way of the world. They promise you one thing, and you get another. Did you-ever see such big liars?" and she stamped her pretty foot into the sand with the spirit of an Amazon.

But the lady's wrath was unnecessary. She didn't understand the situation. The other houses were two stories high, and contained the cherished four rooms. There were four of them 16x24 feet, and the remaining six were 10x20 feet.

The carpenters had some trouble at first putting the parts together, but they soon learned how it was done. The houses are bolted together, and iron bars keep the sides in place at the company. in place at the top. The smoke stack is of galvanized sheet iron, and when the houses are located the homeless people will find them well adapted for temporary shelter during the summer. About 650 applications for portable houses have been made up to date.

Two of the portable houses were permanently located in Woodvale. The household goods have not arrived. They are expected soon.

LABORERS UNDER THE WEATHER. Even the Strongest Men Succumb Under the Work on the Wreck.

JOHNSTOWN, June 25 .- One hundred and ten of McKnight's men working on the drift quit work to-day and were paid off. Major Phillips expects to have the river open by Thursday evening. According to Dr. Foster, Assistant Regimental Surgeon, there is considerable sickness among the workmen. Within the last two days the doctor has sent 25 men to eastern and western hospitals. Some of them, poor fellows, are threatened with typhoid fever, and others are suffering from other diseases.

The laborers are pretty strong and tough, as a general rule, but they have endured such privations here that the great wonder s they are not all sick. Their condition i much better since Surgeon General Reid's visit. The camps are kept cleaner, and all things remain of an interesting character to be looked after, the chief of which is the Coroner's inquest. Dr. Evans will begin at 7 o'clock to-morrow evening. The people are too busy working during the day, and this is why the Coroner will convene his jury in the evening.

THE CENTS TURNERS AT GAMES.

Sports and Feasting Make Gay the

Bright Day at Inwood Park. BUTTERWORTH MAKES A SPEECH

And Arouses the Brave Teutons to a Wild

Pitch of Enthusiasm.

HE TELLS OF THEIR PATRIOTIC DEEDS

and Where They Excel Greek and Roman in Their Heads and Muscles.

Ben Butterworth talked to the Turners at Cincinnati yesterday, and showed them wherein they excel the ancients, and are models for the moderns. In the various games the prizes were borne off by the Western people.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) CINCINNATI, June 25 .- Military discipline over the 1,200 (some say 1,600) active Turners, that is, the gymnastic performers, relaxed about 1 o'clock to-day when the grand procession entered in Wood Park on Vine street line to have a general go-asyou-please time at the picnic, In Wood Park is a natural forest on the brow of the crescent of hills that clasp the main body of the city, and it bisects the crescent. From it a view can be had of the city below and of Newport and Covington, Ky., of the yellow waters of the Ohio river, as well as of the far away hills of the Licking River Valley. It is a favorite place for German outdoor festivities. Here a summer night festival was given to Franz Abt, the kepelmeister and composer, when he visited America several years ago. The competitive swimming in the Ohio river was abandoned to-day, because that stream was too fall of West Virginia mud and Conemaugh drift to be safe or comfortable. Early in the morning, before the parade began, the active Turners at the campus were addressed by Colonel Gustav Tafel, the Cincinnati commandant, and by Hon. Ben Butter-worth, member of Congress from the First Ohio district.

BUTTERWORTH SHOWERS COMPLIMENTS. Ben Butterworth made a happy speech. It was a pleasure and an honor to be a parorigin and the objects of the Turners Assoorigin and the objects of the Turners Asso-ciation. The purpose was the harmonious, physical, mental and moral development of men. A strong body to a cultivated mind was like a fitting setting to a brilliant gem. The Spartans prized physical culture ex-clusively; the Athenians mental culture. The Romans combined the two. The modern Turners made a trinity of culture by adding high moral development to the dual culture of the Romans. "In approval of this idea nati Turners were ready to march. He concluded by mention of celebrated German regiments, notably the Ninth, which Mr. Cook called his "bully Dutchmen." Major Butterworth made a great impression as the volume and frequency of the cheers tes-

At Inwood Park there was plenty of beer, wine, music and women, members of Cin-cinnati families and of the families of visiting Turners. There were refreshment stands where waffles and wienerwurst were served, steaming hot, and there was gymnastic apparatus for those who chose to use it.

HONORS FOR THE WEST. The most exciting exercises there wrestling matches that were improvised from time to time. At 8 o'clock to-night there was a distribution of prizes at the park. In the society concests they were awarded arately. There were three groups. The first was composed of societies that repre-sented a membership of over 300. The second of societies of over 200 and not over 300. The third of memberships less than 200. In the first group, in which were represented 24 societies, the South St. Louis Verein took the first prize. In the second group, with 26 entries, West Minneapolis stood first. In the third group, with 18 entries, Dayton, O., ranked first. This shows that 68 societies were active contestants.

In the individual contests there were 58 entries. Emil Goetz, of Chicago, won the first place. In the foot racing, 656 feet, there were four entries. Fred Fashnacht and G. Falz, of St. Louis, tied for first place in 30 seconds; Emil Goetz, of Chicago, was second in 30 3-5 seconds, and William Lang, of Chicago, third in 30 4-5 seconds.

The procession through three miles of streets this forenoon was a splendid affair, but its great feature was the division of

1,600 active Turners in their gray uniforms. About 10:30 to-night a drizzling rain inter-Turners beat a retreat to the "over the Rhine" beer gardens. An excursion by a steamer on a large scale to Coney Island is the programme for to-morrow.

Among the awards made to-night was one to the Central Turnverein, of Pitts-burg, who received a diploma and crown. Diplomas were also issued to the Southside and Birmingham organizations. MR. YARD WANTS A DIVORCE.

His Wife Goes Away With the Husband of
