[COMMUNICATED.

To the Editor of the State Journal, To the Editor of the State Journal.

In the Washington Chronicle of September 14, I noticed a communication from a correspondent, who uses the signature "More Anon." Why this writer chooses the Washington journal as his medium, is plainly apparent to all who know the importance to a certain party, of guarding his position, at the Capital, and the possible consideration he may receive for his side thrust at a gentleman, who has exhibited a similar degree of moral courage to that shown by General Longstreet, and other ex-Confederates.

This correspondent speaks of his own other ex-Contederates.

This correspondent speaks of his own position in the highest style of self-gratulation. "As for us, we plant ourselves as being Republicans pure and unalloyed."

It is not possible that he is like some other "pure and unalloyed Republicans," planted like a post, holding his own position, but neither increasing, nor the cause of increase; instead of planted like a thrifty tree, not only growing himself in strength and usefulness, but drawing to him and sheltering weaker plants. I would commend to "More Anon" a careful study of the 18th and 20th verses of chapter 2, Gen-ral Epistle of James.

Republicans in Virginia must show their faith by their works, for "faith without works is dead." Instead of hunting up musty records as to what men have been, make a careful study of what they now are. The patriot who doffed the grey and honestly works for Republican principles to-day, is more valuable to his country and party, than he who were him and party clothes than he who wore blue, and now clothes himself in the conservative color, so pleasing to the popular eye.

> [From the Norfolk Day Book] Who Shall Rule Virginia?

Surely fthe "new departure" makes it very easy sailing for the Old Line Whigs to very easy sailing for the Old Line Whigs to come over at once, join the Republican party and take charge of the political power of the State, in opposition to the Democrats, and their old political opponents. By the "new departure," which is entirely a Northern Democratic notion, it is proposed for the Southern Democrats to conciliate the colored vote and secure it for the Democratic notion. the colored vote and secure it for the Demo-cratic party—not for the Conservative party or for the Whigs, but for the Democratic party. It is designed to add that vote to the Democratic party for the purpose of giving that organization the political power in the South, and if any observe or form the colored vote and secure it for the Demosupposes it is intended in any shape or form him or men of his former party nies he is vastly mistaken. The sympathies he is vastly mistaken. The Democrats work for themselves exclusively, and they do not divide spoils with any but of their true faith.

What acquisitions of strength or power they can gain to their so-called Conserva-tive organization at the South, will go to the credit alone of the Democrats, who are suffered to manage that organization and who are members of the national organization, which the Old Line Whigs of the South are not, of course. So that the Whigs will find they are throwing their abor away when working for the success of the so-called Conservative party.* There is no such party considered in national circles. How was it a few months ago, when the Democratic press of this State was calling so lustily for a Democratic organization is the State and obusing the Old Line. Whigs as being untrustworthy? They changed their tune only because Taurmany told them to continue as they were until they could fleece the people of the Legislature and put it down to the discredit of the Conservative party. It would not or it could not in that case be charged against the Democrats, because it would be under the Conservative organization the stealing measures are to be passed. But let us say, precious little of the stealing will ever be suffered to find their way into any but Democratic pockets. That's a sure thing; though the Conservatives will have to bear the blame.

We are astounded at the infatuation of some of the old Whig newspapers of the South and at old Whigs also, when we hear nem complaining and growling about "carpet-baggers, scalawags, and negroes filling the offices, to the exclusion of better men," Now, we want to know who is a greater "carpet-bagger" than Gilbert C. Walker? and he was elected to the position of Gov-ernor of this State on the declaration that he was a Republican and was in accord with the government at Washington. And we want to know if there is anywhere in the South a "carpet-bagger" who has managed and is managing by hook or by crook to fleece more money out of the people than he is, by his funding bill and other swindles of which he is the acknowledged head dles, of which he is the acknowledged head

The true state of the case is just this :-The war has upset the political status of the people of this State, and the Democrats know it, but the Old Line Whigs don't seem to know it; and the Democrats finding themselves in such a small minority are striving hard to "pull the wool" over the eyes of the Whigs in order to get the control of affairs. In the meantime, the Republicans have the numbers and control matters generally their own way; but as they lack intelligence, through the refusal of their former party adherents the Whigs, holding aloof from them, they appoint the best men they have, to positions, and say to the Whigs, "if you don't like the carpet-baggers, scalawags, and negroes to rule over you and hold offices, all you have to do is to come over and join your old party, the Republicans, and we will allow you to hold the offices and rule the land; but if you won't do so, we don't design that the Democrats shall have the honors; there-fore, we will give them to the carpet-bag-

This is the true position of matters, as is given out repeatedly by the voice and press of the Republican party; and if the Old Line Whigs of our State are so far sunk into subjugation to the Democratic party as they cannot separate themselves from that party, even now that the designs of the "new departure" policy are made plain to them, we pity them in the extreme; for here is a powerful party that really awaits them and solicits them to come forward and take command of it, and which refuses the similar advances from the Democrats, and still they are unwilling to move, unless they move tied to the tail end of the locofoco

It is useless, it is folly, for the Old Line
It is useless, it is folly, for the Old Line Whigs of our State to stand aloof and re-fuse to take hold by allying themselves with the Republican party. Whatever of evil may befall our State, now after we are in the Union and we should again place our citizensfully in accord with our government, will be justly laid to their blame, whether that evil flows from Republican or Demo-

PROFITABLE INVESTMENT-A Lesson for Richmond Capitalists,—The Petersburg Index of this morning devotes considerable It seems that, on Saturday last, Mr.

Jacob Harper went down to Frankfort, and, it is thought, drew five hundred or a thousand dollars out of bank. Upon his return to Midway, he offered to bet large amounts on the Longfellow race, and exhibited more and this came to the knowledge of a clear profit of $30,356.36—equivalent to on the Longfellow race, and exhibited money, and this came to the knowledge of the assassims. THE LIME TRADE.—Before the damage to the canal, one year ago, an active and, to some extent, new interest was springing up in the lime trade, through the energy industry of Messrs. Dillon & Ellett, of this city. The largest kilns for burning ever erected in Virginia were built by them near the canal in the county of Botetourt. Suspension of transportation destroyed for the time being this enterprise, which had grown into large proportions, but now that it is restored, the proprietors of the works recommence operations for the purpose of developing, on a large scale, this element of our resources. In Alabama, North and South Carolina, and a large portion of Virginia, this lime has come into general favor for agricultural and building purposes. The lime trade and many other valuable pur-suits will receive a fresh impulse in conseuence of the restoration of the canal to the Valley.

THE RICHMOND CITY RAILWAY.—

Its Difficulties—Forcible Ejectment of Mr.

The excellent structures now in process of erection in different portions of the city for city railway is kept alive at an annual cost to the stockholders of several thousand dollars. It is a great accommodation to those who have a long distance to travel, and in science. These buildings have been considered in the consideration of the light appreciation which our people have for the cause of literature and who have a long distance to travel, and in us to leave a car, because a colored woman or man was in it alone, and that would permit us to remain, provided that individual was lucky enough to have in charge some white gentleman's baby. Not of this class are we; but there are a number of silly persons who do entertain such prejudice, (for it can be nothing else) and it is confined principally to weak-minded women.

The city cars must be supported, and if they are not, then their owners will sell them and nobody can ride. The question then is, shall we have them at all? So long as this prejudice lasts, the colored people must submit to such regulations as are adopted, or failing to do this will subject the company by suit or otherwise to such loss as will induce them to sell out the commander that the present regulation of distinguishing cars, provided for white and distinguishing cars, provided for white and colored persons, was adopted, and so ordered as perhaps the easiest solution of the difficulty. The colored people do not support the cars assigned to them, equally with the whites; if they did, and more cars were required for their accommodation, they would be furnished by the company.

The question of a colored man's right to ride in any of the cars need not be considered.

If colored people were permitted to ride in all of them, the poor fools, of less mind than solid matter, who compose the principal patrons of the road, will withdraw their patronage, thus robbing the whole in the city, of the benefits of a city railway. These silly notions will and must soon be absorbed in questions of more importance, and we trust to live to see the da

Office R. And Perensburg R. R. Co., Richard, N. V., Sept. 14th, 1871.

David J. Burr, Esq., President Chamber of Commerce, Richmond, Va.,

Dear Sir—If I understand correctly the complaint against this railroad company in the letter of H. C. Calisher, of Louisburg, N. C., which was read before the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, it does great injustice to this company. He states that by the Richmond and Petersburg railroad the cost per load of flour and salt from Richmond to Louisburg is $70; and further, that the charge from Petersburg to Louisburg being only $42, leaves $28 for twenty-two miles—thus intimating that the last named amount is received by this railroad. If am correct in my rendering of his letter, I have to say that somebody has made a mistake, and to assure you and all others who are interested in the matter that this company has for years charged seventy-four cents per barrel and $51.80 per car load on flour, of which this company received $8.40, and for salt fifty-four cents per sack and $31.50 per car load, of which this company receives $5, and we will defy any one to prove to the contrary.

Inviting your committee, to whom the letter was referred, to make a therough investigation of the subject, I have the honor to be, with the highest respect, your obedient servant,

Thus. H. Wynnr,

President R. and P. R. R. Co.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL BUILDINGS .-

The outside will not be materially altered, but will be simply painted over. In front of the building there will be a neat picket fence with a double-arched entrance.

The old Lancasterian school-house, now known as the "Valley School," is also in process of renovation. On the first floor there will be two partitions, making three school rooms, same on second floor, making in all six school rooms, with a capacity, estimated by Superintendent Binford, of seating 350 scholars. The exterior will be stone-color washed. There will be three entrances, one for the girls and two for the boys. The play ground is large and well shaded. These buildings have been purshaded. These buildings have been purchased by the city and turned over to the School Board. The time for the opening of the session is fast approaching, and the scholars will find upon their entering, that everything has been provided for their pleasure and comfort.

THE RAIN .-- We trust we shall hear no more complaints from any section of the State of droughts, dry weather, &c. In case we do, we respectfully recommend a flying visit to Richmond and a view of the noble "Jeems," hereabouts, each bearing evidence, the latter soon to do so, of the plentiful supply of water which has fallen since yesterday morning. Our streets have had running through them, in miniature form, rivers and creeks.

Last night it rained without ceasing, and as we write—11 o'clock A. M.—the dark-ened heavens give evidence of the coming of more. New shoes that don't leak are in demand. In Henrico, at the residence of her husband, HELENA KUHN, consort of John Kehn, at the age of 48 years, after a short and painful illness. When she, whose presence and example gave precept to those most dear to her, departs this life, we feel that there is a void which it is impossible to fill. We miss her!—and words fail to express the intensity. Well can we remember how kind, charitable, true and consistent was she in all her views; especially in regard to christian charity, and a kind, conciliatory and loving disposition to every one; of such a nature that neither discord, ill-will nor envy found an abiding place in her dwelling—one whose vacancy it will be impossible to fill. While we mourn her as one who has only gone before, we are assured that she will receive that reward which such christian spirits will surely receive; and we accept the dispensation of that Creator, whose decrees are always just and irrevocable.

Her funeral will take place TO-MORROW MORNING, at 10 o'clock, from St. Patrick's church on Twenty-Fifth street, The friends of the family and of F. Laube and Jno. Steinbrecher are respectfully invited to attend.

THE KENTUCKY MURDER. The Family of Old John Harper Killed in their Beds.—Their Heads Split Open with a Hatchet.—A Horrid Work.

The Louisville Courier-Journal of Tuesday gives the details of the terrible murder

Harper, the owner of Longfellow, were murdered in their beds, at their residence, in Woodford county, just before daylight, yesterday morning. Who did the terrible yesterday morning. Who did the terrible deed is not known. Mr. John Harper and his old bachelor brother and maiden sister were the only white persons who lived on the place. They were born there, and had lived there together until the youngest was over seventy years of age. It was an immense estate—one of the largest—and the owners the most wealthy farmers in Kentucky. It is about three miles from Midway, and fifteen miles from Lexing-ton, adjoins the great Alexander stockfarm, and is in the heart of the Blue Grass region. Mr. John Harper was not at home on the fatal night. He had gone to the Lexington races, at which the famous Longfellow and several others of his horses were to run. Mr. Jacob Harper and Miss Betsy Harper were the only ones at home, except about twenty or thirty negroes, who are employed upon the plantation.

DISCOVERY OF THE MURDER. this Mr. Harper's man servant went in to wake him. He first called, and then took hold of the old man's shoulder, but still noticed nothing except he was unusually hard to wake. He then left the room. The first discovery was made by the woman servant, The woman ran out screaming and the alarm was given. Word of the terrible is now the problem which is vextragedy was sent through the neighborhood and soon excited people began to tlock from all directions. Mr. Harper was found with his head almost beaten to a july and dead a gnat and swallowed a camel" has been all the strength of the residents along its base. The man who "strained at a gnat and swallowed a camel" has been all the strength of the residents along its base.

was not dead at noon yesterday. ARRIVAL OF JOHN HARPER. A messenger was sent to Lexington for Mr. John Harper, and he arrived about 9 o'clock to find his beautiful home in an uproar, and his aged brother and aged and feeble sister the victims of a crime so horrid and brutal and bloody that the shock of it almost overcame him. The whole neighborhood had assembled and crowded the rooms and the balls in mute horror. The rooms and the halls in mute horror. The negroes stood around the doors weeping, and the old house-servant, the nurse of Miss Betsy, knelt at the bedside of her old mistress, crying as if her heart would break. What a reception for the man of 70 years! His grief, it is said, was inde-scribable. He cried like a child. It was a terrible moment, and many who had feared the consequences of his arrival, now be-lieved that he would not survive the shock. OBJECT OF THE ASSASSINS.

murder, but whether the murderers obtained any or not, is not known. A pocket-book that Mr. Harper generally carried was missing from his body, though nothing else about the house was disturbed. The murderers forced their way into the house through a window. The weapon used was a hatchet. Mr. Harper's head was cut and beaten to a jelly. Miss Betsy received seven frightful gashes over her head and face, and the back part of her skull was crushed in. She became conscious on Monday, but was unaware that anything had happened. Upon being asked anything had happened. Upon being asked who had been in the house during the night, she replied nobody. Who struck her; nobody. Who killed Jake; nobody. She was concious of everything except the terrible deed which had been so fatal to her. Physicians say that she may live for eight or ten days yet, but that she is so old and feeble that she can hardly recover.

Subsequent developments point with strong suspicion to several negroes, as the murderers and they have been arrested. OMINOUS EXCITEMENT. The whole bluegrass region was in a terrible state of excitement yesterday. About Midway and in Lexington people quit work so greatly was the whole community appalled by the horror of the thing. It is hoped that there will be no lynching or Ku-Kluxing, but the people are excited and there is no telling what may come of it all.

Mr. Harper has telegraphed for several of the shrewdest detectives in the country, and the matter will be sifted to the bottom. It is as appalling as the famous Nathan murder, and more bloody. The victims are among the most wealthy people in the State of Kentucky, and the murder, from its cruelty, will attract the attention from the close connection of the constant of the constan the close connection of the murdered with a
