

The Scrap Book

A Frightful Ordeal.
In the reminiscences of Mrs. E. M. Wood is a story of the eccentric Lord Crewe of mid-Victorian days: "Mr. G. S. told me that on one occasion when he was staying at Crewe Hall he was awakened in the morning by the most blood-curdling shouts and screams. The sounds were so dreadful and so hideously suggestive of some one being murdered that for some moments he was too overcome with horror to move. Finally, however, he pulled himself together and, arming himself with a poker, cautiously opened the door. Outside in the passage was a white faced valet carrying a jug of hot water."

OPENED THE DOOR. he pulled himself together and, arming himself with a poker, cautiously opened the door. Outside in the passage was a white faced valet carrying a jug of hot water. "What in heaven's name is the matter? Mr. G. S. inquired through his chattering teeth. 'Is anybody being killed?' "No, sir," the trembling valet stammered; "it's only my lord taking his bath."

The Conqueror.
It's easy to laugh when the skies are blue
And the sun is shining bright;
Yes, easy to laugh when your friends are true
And there's happiness in sight.
But when hope has fled and the skies are gray
And the friends of the past have turned away,
Ah, there in deed it's a hero's feat
To conjure a smile in the face of defeat!

Queer Place For Her Foot.
The gaudily dressed lady street car passenger had just placed her bag of freshly popped corn conveniently at her side and opened a novel that she might read and eat simultaneously when a big son of the Emerald Isle swung into the car and plumped himself directly down on the open bag. "Sir," she cried, slamming shut her book and casting dagger-like looks at her offender, "you're sitting on my corn!" "Sure," ejaculated the Irishman, jumping to his feet, his face suffused. "O! beg yer pardon intirely. On me word of honor, ma'am, O! niver expected ye had yer foot shtuck up there."

Save Your Dynamite.
This Safe Is Not Locked.
Turn Knob and Open.
"I don't know what their little game is," he said, "but I'll just see if it really is unlocked."
He grasped the knob and gave it a turn. Whereupon he received an electric shock that nearly floored him, an alarm bell rang loudly, the office became flooded with light, a door in the wall flew open and a big dog sprang at him. "Damn my fool hide!" he exclaimed an hour later as the door of a cell in the police station closed on him. "I know what's the matter with me! I'm too trusting!"—Chicago Tribune.
