Real Pan-Americanism.

Pan-Americanism is gradually coming to realization-not in the shape, perhaps, which the origina! promoters of the idea had in mind, but on a sound er, more enduring foundation. The movement sprang from the desire to form an alliance of all the republics of the two Americas for mutual protection and advantage politically and commercially. The material aspects were kept to the fore. Pan-Americanm became a slogan of the exploiter -Very little was accomplished on that basis. It was found that the counries with which a closer co-operation was really desired were distrustful of our commercial promoters. They came in contact with the seeker for gold, and concluded that the Yankee must be a reckless plunger, ready to stake his salvation here and hereafter on any chance to reap a fortune. Of our more human endeavors they had but little evidence. Meanwhile, Europe taught our sister republics arts and sciences, and established a spiritual alliance whose influence is visible in the cultural institutions south of the Equator.

What are the results of our shortsightedness? By becoming the school master of South America; Europe has firmly established itself in the sympathies of the people. As a matter of course, commerce has benefited. It is the old story: the missionary-unwillingly, perhaps, but none the less sure ly-also the advance agent of trade. Great Britain's commercial greatness is owing, to no small extent to her poli cy of first acquiring an educational leadership.

Argentina, the greatest of the South American republics, has been tutored by France, Germany, and England, particularly France,—this in spite of the fact that both the original consti ution of the Republic, and the organ: ization of the national school system were derived from our own country. Sarmiento, schoolmaster and presilent, was a friend of Horace Mann's. and made a close personal study of our schools and political institutions. It was he who laid the political foundation of the Argentine Republic, and called into existence the present school

Norfolk, May 22 .- While not on a remendous a scale as in the opening weeks, the naval display at Jamestown will nevertheless be maintained in an of Putnam and other makes of organ adequate manner throughout the entire period of the exposition.

The U.S. government has assigned three ships to duty right off the great pier during the seven months and these will be constantly open to the in spection of visitors. Considering that the most popular exhibit at the Fair at Chicago was an imitation battleship built on piles in the lake, the reality of the Jamestown squadron will be of the greatest interest to strangers from the interior. But this is by no means the limit of naval representation; the harbor of Hampton Roads, being a naval rendezvous, is seldom without several war vessels lying at anchor, and the ships of the U.S. navy are con stantly arriving and leaving this harbor. The Navy Yard at Portsmouth, and the great shipbuilding plant at Newport News, are generally crowded with war craft under construction and undergoing repairs, so that no visitor need leave the section without having his curiosity fully satisfied concerning naval matters.

Some of the foreign fleets will not arrive until later in the summer, and an effort will be made to have this government extend a further invitation to the different naval powers to make Hampton Roads a stopping place for their individual cruising ves The Savannah & Southwestern Ry. sels during the period of the exposition. This is a frequent occurrence in ordinary times and with proper representations to the different governments could be made a feature.

This is to correct the impression that the dispersal of the present fleet signifies the ending of the naval disless than twenty five war ships on the nearby waters for the instruction and entertainment of visitors.
