A Young Hero.-The Madison (Ind.) Daily Argus, relates the following story. As a case of moral heroism, it exceeds that imputed to Knud Iverson, heroism, it exceeds that imputed to Knud Iverson, the young Norwegian:

"A beautiful, fair-haired, blue-eyed boy, about nine-years of age, was taken from the Orphan Asylum in Milwaukee, and adopted by a respectable farmer of Marqueette, a professor of religion and a member of the Baptist persuasion. A girl, a little older than the boy, was also adopted into the same family. Soon after these children were installed in their new home, the boy discovered criminal conduct on the part of his new mother, which he mentioned to the little girl, and it thereby came to the ears of the woman; she lipdignantly denied the story to the satisfaction of her husband, and insisted that the boy should be whipped until he confessed the falsehood. The man—poor, weak higot—impelled to a sense of religious duty, proceeded to the task assigned him, by procuring a bundle of rods, stripping the child naked and suspending him by a cord to the rafters of the house, and whipping him at intervals for over two hours, till the blood ran through the floor, making a pool upon the floor below; stopping only to rest and interrogate the boy and getting no other reply than "Pa. I told the truth—I cannot tell a lie;" the woman all the time urging him to "do his duty." The poor little hero, at length released from his torture, kissed him and said, "Pa, I am so cold," and died. It appeared in eridence, upen the trial of this man and woman for murder, that the child died tell the truth; and suffered death by slow torture rather than tell a lie. The age of heroism and marityrdom will not have passed till mothers cease to instill holy precepts into the minds of their infant offspring. The man and woman who murdered this angel child, are now in the Penitentiary at Waupun, to which they were sentenced for ten years."

JENNY LIND .- A lady, formerly of Charleston but now a resident of Dresden, writes as follows with regard to Jenny Lind. We find the letter in the Charleston Courier:

"Jenny Lind, whom I believe I have already "Jenny Lind, whom I believe I have already mentioned as living opposite to us, has a little son, she nurses him herself. On the doctor's remonstrating with her, and by way of persuation, assuring her that her voice would suffer—nay, that she ran the risk of losing it if she pursisted in fulfilling this maternal duty, she said—'Pcut n'importe je nemplira les devoirs d'une mere a mon enfant'—really a sublime sacrific on her part. She lives perfectly sechuded; she sees no one; her husband she has converted, or to use her own words, 'he is baptized by the grace of God.' She says that the idea of her having been upon the stage will be a cause of remorse lor life, for which she can never forgive herself. The good Germans think on the subject of religion she is more than an enthusiast. She made so noble a use of her powers whilst a public singer, that I am sure she should view it in a different hight. I am told she has not much of a fortune, as she would prefer living in England; but on account of the expense, has chosen Dresden as a place of residence."

A REMARKABLE SCENE.—Died in Strong, Me., of the malignant throat distemper, which baffled all the skill of physicians, on the 20th of November, Thomas Henry, aged nine years; on the 26th, Abby Josephine, aged 6 years; on the 27th, Nancy, aged 11 years; and in five minutes atterwards, Jane, aged fourteen years—all children of Mr. Thomas Kennedy. During the scene a little infant daughter was added to the family. The three deceased daughters, after being placed in coffins, were each in turn brought to the bedside of the sick mother, at her carnest solicitation, for a parting look, after which they were deposited together in the grave.—What a change in one short week.—Farmington Chronicle.

Two More Chapters in the Kissane Cash.—
The unfortunate Kissane may well think that misfortunes "come in battalions." J. B. Clarke, a lawyer from New Brighton, and the man who held the side court at the hotel, for the examination of witnesses during the progress of the famous Martha Washington ease, has brought suit against Kissune for his services. Clarke's bill is $1,021 67, the balance claimed as due $496 67. The trial of the case will "open up" further strange developments regarding the startling events in this young man's life.

A Mrs. Pellock, of Cincipati, has been held to

A Mrs. Pollock, of Cincinnati, has been held to hail upon the charge of swindling Kissane out of $2,000. The mother of Kissane entered the com-plaint, and swore to the fact that she paid Mrs. Pollock on request of Mrs. P. $2,000, having been told by Mrs. P. that with that sum the release of Kissane could be effected. Mrs. Pollock has here-tofore sustained a good character, and has been noted for her efforts of benevolence.—Cleveland Herald.

Astronomical Explorations.—Within, comparatively, a short period of time, twenty-three small planets, in addition to Ceres, Juno, Vesta, an small planets, in addition to Ceres, Juno, Vesta, and Pallas, have greeted the eyes of our astronomers; and the conviction is beginning to prevail that the number of these minor planets is incalculable.— The idea, too, is strengthening, that all our stars have a plenary character; for it is found, on looking at certain parts of the heavens which were accurately mapped a few years ago, that the feveral objects are no longer in the relative positions assigned to them on the maps. Here is a new theme for speculation. Will the searchings of science ever unravel the secrets of these mysterious orbs?

HORRID MURDER NEAR WHEELING, VA.—Mr. lex. Garden, of Wheeling, was brutally murder I on Sunday last, while returning from Woods action of wheeling, was britarly murdered on Sunday last, while returning from Woodsfield, where he went on Saturday to pay his taxes, and near where he owned a farm. He was riding along in company with several neighbors, a portion of whom proceeded ahead at a brisk pace, leaving Garden in company with a man named Henry Craig and another man who was much intoxicated. Garden remarked that he would soon overtake them. When the men in advance reached the river they waited for some time, and Garden not coming up, they returned and found him lying dead on the ground, wettering in blood, with his skull horribly beaten and mangled by a blow from a stone; his brains scattered for several rods around; one of his eyes knocked out, and his body awfully mangled. Craig was lying on the body, and the other man, whose name we did not ascertain, on the ground nearby, with the bridle of one of thehorses on his arm. The Wheeling Intelligencer says:
"No cause is assigned for this terrible murder."

Craig pretended to be so drunk that he did not know what he was doing. Trails of blood were traced for some distance, as if Garden had attempt d to escape after he was first struck. Appearances in some respects, indicate that Craig was divested of all his clothing except his pants. This, however, is a mere surmise, as there was no evidence of it elicted at the examination. Craig is a single man, and had been in the employ of Judge Elihu Morris. He was committed to jail."

GRANULATED GUM.—
This beautiful article, used for securing artificial teeth on their plates, surpasses every attempt at imitating the natural gum, with somewhat similar preparations, whilst its strength is so great that I have yet to hear of the first set of teeth in which it has been broken, by accident or by use.

My Gold and Silver Fillings are much admired for their smoothness. This evenness of surface prevents the lodgment of food about them, which would render them worthless; besides, my plugs will retain the natural teeth through life, as they never come out. After a long course of experiments, I have secured a compound for weak teeth, that can be used when it is impossible to use any kind of metal.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH—
GREAT AND IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENT.—The undersigned have purchased the right to use Da.
ALLEN'S PATENT IMPROVEMENT in the mode of inserting ARTIFICIAL TEETH, which is one of the greatest and most important inventions ever made in this branch of the Dentist's art.

The improvement consists in the employment of a metal superior to gold in purity, and in the complete surion of all the teeth by a silicious compound, which at the same time forms the most beautiful and natural looking gum, and filling up all crevices and irregularities, and rendering it impossible for the teeth to become unpleasant to the wearer by the accumulation of particles of food or other substances between them. No other mode of mounting artificial teeth is comparable to this in any respect.

Persons wearing teeth (inserted in the ordinary way, and not giving satisfaction,) are invited to try this invention, which they can do at but little additional cost.

We shall be pleased to show specimens of this kind of work to any persons who will call at our office, whether they want artificial teeth or not WAYT & MAHONY, Dentists, office, 203 Main street.

A GUE AND FEVER CURED IN 6 HOURS,—NEGATIVE ELECTRIC FLUID.
—Dr. Seat: I have tried, and given to be tried, your fluid, which you attribute the property of breaking fever better than Quinine. The results of the trials made here in the fall of 1852, were in about 90 cases—none of them light—have been radically cured with from 2 to 4 doses of the Fluid. Among the cases, there are three that are extremely remarkable. The first case had resisted various treatments and physicians for 15 months, and was cured entirely in one month with the Fluid. The second case had resisted enormous doses of Quinine during 2 years, and was cured with a few doses of the Fluid. The third case, the patient had the fever for 3 years, had been stiffed with Quinine to no purpose, and was cured with a few doses of the Fluid. The COMPTE, Apothecary, Rue Royal, 66 C'ss a Tours.
