

The President "Counted Out."
It is announced in the Washington Chronicle that the Radicals do not intend to ask the President to sign the new constitutional amendment. "It seems to be generally conceded," remarks that sensation journal, "that the President's sanction to the measure is not requisite." And why not? The Constitution expressly declares that every bill and every resolution which requires the concurrence of the two Houses of Congress shall be presented to the President for his approval or disapproval. The argument that the same third vote which originally passed a constitutional amendment can easily pass it over a veto, and therefore to ask the President's signature is an unnecessary and unmeaning ceremony, is not a good one. The President may present such objections to the measure as will induce some of the members to change their votes. The amendment abolishing slavery was presented to and signed by Mr. Lincoln. We are not surprised, however, to learn that the Radicals intend to carry on the Government without the aid of Mr. Johnson. He has been too lenient with them. When he vetoed the Freedmen's Bureau bill, they covered before his power; but when they saw that he did not follow up this veto by a change of his Cabinet and a dismissal of the subordinate officers who took ground against him openly, they felt that the Executive hand was not to be dreaded. We appreciate the peculiar circumstances which surround the President; yet we think that it is in a large degree owing to his concessions to the Radicals that they are now so potent for evil. One side or the other, in these quarrels, is always sure to strike. If the President had "put down his foot firmly," as Mr. Lincoln phrased it, his enemies would have borne themselves in a very different manner from that defiant one which marks their public conduct. As it is, they take pleasure in thwarting his will and proscribing his friends. A remarkable instance of their truculence occurred in the Senate on Tuesday. A bill was upon granting certain discretionary powers to Secretary McCulloch in regard to the pay of the clerks in his department, when Senators Wilson, Grimes, and others took occasion to declare that they would vote against it because Mr. McCulloch had, in his recent Washington speech, proclaimed his cordial approbation of the President's policy. But for the support of the Democrats, the measure, which was passed by a very small majority, would have been defeated on this very ground. Yet the President is expected to remove none of the friends of these Radical Senators from office. He may possibly be pursuing the wisest course, but it does not appear so to us. He certainly has nothing to lose by at once breaking with those who do not hesitate to avow themselves his opponents. They have made up their minds never to trust him again. There can be no doubt on this point. And what he gains by attempting to conciliate men in whose principles and practices he is free to declare he has no confidence, we cannot imagine.

Admission of Arkansas and Tennessee.
We have repeatedly declared that the southern people should not manifest too much anxiety to secure representation in Congress. The prospect of the early admission of such men as Messrs. MAYNARD and STOKES, of Tennessee, has not by any means changed our opinion. These gentlemen are almost as bad as THAD STEVENS. Before the recent election in West Virginia, they stumped that State in the interest of the Radical party, and exerted all their influence to secure the adoption of the constitutional amendment proscribing every man who had in any way manifested the least sympathy with the south. FORTNEY's paper of yesterday informs us that Mr. STEVENS is said to have expressed himself to the effect that Tennessee "should be admitted"—what an insult such language would have been to a Congress of WEBSTERS and CLAYS—before the adjournment of the present Congress, "which will certainly be not later than the first of August." We suppose that the question may now be considered as settled. THAD'S will be law; and as that will indicate the admission of Arkansas and Tennessee during the present session, we may confidently expect to see "southern representatives" from those States cheek by jowl with the Radicals before the dog-days come. Well! So be it. We must even accept whatever is done, and pray for the time when a better Congress shall have charge of our destinies.

Mr. Raymond.
We would fain hope that Mr. RAYMOND, who is generally supposed to be a puppet in the hands of Mr. SEWARD, is not moved about upon the political chess-board at the present time by the Auburn statesman. The antics of the automaton upon the stage of an organ-grinder's instrument are not more ludicrous than the somersaults which Mr. RAYMOND has recently made. As Mr. LE BLOND told him to his face in the House the other day, it is fair to infer that the "little villain" intends to vote for a measure whenever he makes a speech against it. His latest hobby is a plan to reunite the Radicals and the President upon a platform of non-action. To prove that he is earnest in his desire to make up with STEVENS, his paper denounces HORACE GREELEY because that consistent philanthropist is opposed to punishing Mr. DAVIS. Mr. RAYMOND's conduct has at last exhausted the patience of that staid and stately journal, the National Intelligencer, and accordingly, in its issue of yesterday it indulges in some most caustic remarks upon that gentleman's tergiversations. If RAYMOND has not a conscience's hide, these pointed arrows must certainly penetrate deeply into his flesh. We give a couple picked at random from the Intelligencer's quiver:

"A letter from Washington, signed R., which appeared in the New York Times of yesterday, has created some speculation as to what R stands for. If for renegade and recreant, then the word Raymond is synonymous with both those terms. Their precise meaning, as set down by Webster, is—'one faithless to principle.'"

"We turn over to the Radicals in the House this ineffectual political Judas, this most modern impersonation of all political baseness, mischief, hypocrisy, and perfidy. They will receive him, doubtless, with a warm embrace, but we should not so far forget to say that we do not intend to receive him."

THE PRESIDENT'S OFFICIAL.—Here it is at last. The National Republican of yesterday says: "We have the best of reasons for asserting that the President does not intend to interfere, either directly or indirectly, in the case of JEFF. DAVIS, notwithstanding the strenuous efforts being made by his counsel in his behalf for executive interposition. The President considers the case entirely a judicial question, and will in no event interfere with the course of justice in the case of DAVIS."

ARREST OF CAPTAIN HENRY LEE.—We call attention to our Fredricksburg letter, giving an account of the arrest of Captain HENRY LEE.

SETTING HISTORY RIGHT.—A letter in the New York Tribune, sent from this city, undertakes to give a correct history of the famous negotiations between Mr. Lincoln and Judge Campbell and others which took place just before General Lee's surrender. Here follows a specimen:

"As it happened, the Legislature met, talked treason, proposed to call a convention, and, in fine, were ready to enter on the largest liberty of reconstruction. At this point, seeing that affairs were more rotten than rice, Mr. Lincoln revoked his letter and annihilated the Legislature."

We imagine that the members of the Virginia Legislature will be rather astonished at this statement, which shows that they did a number of acts of which they have no knowledge whatever. As they never met under Mr. Lincoln's call, it is hardly necessary to say that all this story about "talking treason" is untrue.

The Supreme Court of Alabama has decided that those sections of the state law which postpone the rendition of judgment twelve months are constitutional; while those preventing the collection of judgments rendered before the passage of the state law are unconstitutional. —New York Tribune.

The judges who made this decision are on the right track, but missed their quarry by a little slip. A stay law interfering with deeds of trust, or any other instruments (or contracts) which can be enforced without the aid of the courts, is an unconstitutional one in that it impairs the obligation of contracts; but a stay law which merely says that the Commonwealth's officers shall not enforce Mr. Smith's contracts is not liable to the same objection, unless indeed (a plausible plea—but nothing more,) the law providing for such aid be regarded as a part of the contract.

A GOOD RETORT.—The Richmond Christian Advocate, in reply to a northern Methodist paper which had found fault with the name assumed by the Methodists of the south, advises its northern contemporary to make the title of its church correspond with the facts of the case, and suggests appropriate the name, "Methodist Political Episcopal Church."

"TACTICS," in the Columbus (Georgia) Sun, says it was not, as is commonly supposed, RICHARD HENRY LEE that originated the phrase, "First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen," but Chief Justice MARSHALL, who used it in a resolution which he reported to the House of Representatives just one week before Mr. LEE'S speech was made.

THE RESULT of the recent election in Oregon, as published in the Dispatch yesterday, was evidently a mistake, so far as the complexion of the State Senate is concerned. Instead of being Union 14, Democrats 18, it is Union 14, Democrats 8. The blunder was no doubt made in telegraphing.

EVIDENCES OF DISAFFECTION in RICHMOND.—A Richmond correspondent of the New York Times, after writing the greater part of a long letter to prove that the negro is kindly treated in Virginia, winds up with the following slap at this city: "That there is some of all this [disaffection] left is more apparent in Richmond than anywhere else in the State, the people here indulging themselves in the unprofitable employment of cutting off the nose to spite the face. Without capital themselves, these men do not want capital brought here because it will bring men with it, and they are afraid of the 'little leaven that leaveneth the whole lump.' In this spirit, they endeavor to break down every enterprise run by northern capital. They will not patronize the Ballard House because Mr. Maine and Colonel French, the proprietors, are northern men, and the latter gentleman is furthermore guilty of the crime of having been on Butler's staff in New Orleans. Another instance was the Republic, which was warped upon because of the suspicion that it was backed by northern money."

THE NUMBER AND THE PURPOSES of the Radicals in Richmond.—Greely's Richmond correspondent, who may be presumed to know whereof he affirms, gives us the following information as to the numbers and designs of the Radicals in this city: "A census of the loyalists of Richmond would reckon not more than two hundred and fifty sincere and perfect friends of the Government among the natives. Fifty of them would dare to risk their lives for the Union; all would be ready to vote at a fair opportunity for negro suffrage, for no other reason than self-defense and the desire to establish a balance of power. Some of them approve the terms of 'amnesty for suffrage'; others can see no good in any event in giving the franchise to the bitter rebel. They regard the negro as a better citizen to all intents than the white rebel. They think that the black man has rights, certainly; but their need to have him vote is still stronger than their sense of his right to it. They can see a hundred reasons why the Government should allow the freedmen to vote, which they cannot see in the cheap political license exercised now by the rebel who persecutes Unionists and trod on the flag. This sterling class, to which the two Underwoods belong, is of more value to us than ten times their number of the ill-reconstructed."

UNION VICTORY.—At the municipal election in Occoquan, Va., on Monday, the Union ticket was chosen by an overwhelming majority. —National Republican.

Who would have thought it?

ANOTHER BLAST FROM BUTTS.—The City Council committee of arrangements are engaged in perfecting a programme for the celebration of the approaching 4th of July. The Hon. John M. Butts, of Virginia, is to deliver an oration at Patterson's Park. —Baltimore Sun, 15th.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—The House of Commons has passed a bill for the relief of the Richmond and Fredericksburg railroads, which will carry interest from January 1st, 1866, will carry interest from January 1st, 1866.

ALL MEDICINES ARE UNPAIDABLE.
And are only resorted to as a remedial or palliative measure. We have swallowed our share of the world's medicine, and we have never found that of Dr. "RENNOLD'S PILLS" has been the surest, quickest, and most complete. Years ago we carried them as a "pocket companion" in the west, and by their proper use escaped all the diseases incident to that country and resulting from a torpid liver. We used them in the Rocky Mountains, and are very confident had we remained in our country, we would have been a good deal better off. We would have a good showing to live forever, or until we had "dried up and blown off." —Richmond Register, Je 14-15
