Railroad Policy. There are two kinds of policy of rall roads which are intended to enrich their owners. Of course it is not to be presumed that any policy of corporations is intended for anything else. But, as with individuals, one of the two policies above alinded to proceeds from narrow and contracted heads and bearts, and the other from liberal and comprehensive views. The narrow-gange policy of men of narrow heads and granitive hearts looks to the coming in every day of two cents for every one that is paid out, if possible. The instruction to the superintendent of transportation is to assess the transportation. He is charged to tax what goes over the road as though there could expenses and profits must be made out of course this system, by restraining the increase of freight, verifies the wisdom of the satisfies them of their wonderful forecast.

There could be nothing more fallacious, and little that could be more injurious to provided they are not required to take the the public welfare. It restrains both pro- iron-clad oath upon taking seats in Conduction and transportation, and dwarfs the consequence, usefulness, and prosperity of every road in whose business it prevails. The opposite policy is that of cultivating and inviting freights-of lowerof water, they lift up and bear off to market everything that may be converted into money by being carried to market. This policy stimulates industry, developes the the business and receipts of a railroad in a spleudid timber or a mine of valuable ore. that will induce men of enterprise to un- Was there ever its parallel? dertake the working of the forest or the mine, and an active business is immediately established. Workmen and their families come into the locality-mills and forges are built-villages rise-and the railroad has a a dollar for either freight or passenger is in receipt of thousands. This illustrates enriches railways, increases industry, and swells the general wealth and population of the State.

This last is the policy of wise and liberal sound judgment.

Richmond has been a terrible sufferer from the narrow-minded and selfish policy. She is still a sufferer, and this day her trade is the sport and plaything of men who think alone and most unwisely of their individual interests, and hesitate not to sacrifice the welfare of this community if they deem that by doing so they can add a few dollars to their private fortunes.

repelled by the contracted and avaricious and circumscribed. We have been much encouraged by the railroad games upon the chess-board of late, and do still trust that our hopes are not to be disappointed. Richmond is in the happy situation of fearing nothing that may be worse, and therefore is ready to welcome any change whatever. And what a sad management, indeed, is that of our own people, which prepares us to welcome any alteration of the course of our railway transportation!

Yes; let it come. Anything that will upset the narrow and contracted policiesanything that will relieve us from the system of constriction and parsimony that allows no growth, no increase, and detains Virginia in a condition stationary and despondent, with no hope, no sunshine in the inture.

The Bayonet Spreading. The "instructions" which proceeded from the North are seturning to plague the "inventors." Four thousand troops are sent to New York to see that the "freemen" there do as the Government want them to do. "Freemen" are "played out." " Freedmen" are the soul and spirit of this nation. That name is the major obligato to which all national harmony must now be subordinated. It is very plain here in the South that liberty is ended; and it is but just that this information should become general. It is but just to the Government that those ruled by it should understand its true nature, and respect it accordingly. It is but just that the measure meted out here should be dis-tributed heaping to all parts of the Union. As at the North, before the war, it was asserted that the Union could not exist halt slave and half free, so is it equally impossible after the war that the Union can exist half slave and half free.

The sending by the Federal Government of some four or five regiments to the greatest city in the Union to spy upon and subdue the people is a striking incident of the centralized power of that strong Government. That any portion of the people should be gratified by this manifestation is the repetition of the historical fact that the people are ever betraying themselves and sacrificing their liberties for temporary personal or party benefits. It is also a repetition of the moral story of the selling of gressional Cemetery, over a rough Virginia souls to the devil for temporal gratification. They who play the traitors will find too soon their felly. To-day one party may suffer and another may gain by calling in power to assist in controlling public opinion to the advantage of those who support usurpation. To-morrow the gainers will be the losers, and the whole land may find that through folly and depravity the most precious jewel ever possessed by a people—personal liberty and freedom from the oppression of power—has been thrown away, not again to be recovered.

Had such a movement as this of soldiers to overawe the people taken place thirty years ago, the people of the United States were on hand, the sad ceremony was postwould have risen as one man, and such a storm as would have been then raised would have shaken the continent. The first step which opened the path for all that followed was the rejection of the compromise of '61 and the destruction of State rights by the placing of the bayonet over the South. The North prepared itself for the profession, position, or names of the conquest by rioting over the subjection of parties represented. The whole of them the South, and by continuing measures were submitted to a noted phrenologist and physicogramist of this city for his independent. after peace for the humiliation and oppression of her people. We cannot cease wondering, however, at what we see. The northern people are as simple as the ostrich with its head hidden n the sand and imagining that its body is secure. The heads of such a people must indeed be deluded and obscured. That which is done to secure Republicans in power to-day may be soon done to secure another party in the offices, emoluments, and power of the government, and that usurpation and that tyranny which overawe and disable a party to-day will assuredly enslave the whole nation at a day near at

THE GENERALS .- The telegram announcing the designation of General TERRY to command the troops sent to overawe the New York voters, says that he was selected because the President distrusted General sell to the Orange, Alexandria, and Manas McDowell. STRANGE CASE OF SUSPENDED ANIMATION. A strange case of suspended animation has truth at least as strange as fiction. A young girl, sixteen years old, named Ella Frerrer, a native of Virginia, died, to all appearances, last Thursday, at Hampstead, King George county, Va., of typhoid fever. She was brought here for interment in the Conroad, and when she arrived in this city, and the box was opened, a lady who was fixing her for the coffin noticed a flush to come mation. At last accounts she was undoubtedly dead. The time appointed for the funeral was 3 o'clock this afternoon, but of course, though the carriages and hearse poned. The case causes the greatest excite-

HOUSE OF DELEGATES. THE DEBT OF VIRGINIA AND WEST VIRGINIA.

Mr. Keiley offered the following preamole and resolution :

"Whereas all efforts to procure a settlement of the liability of the State of West Virginia for its portion of the public debt of the two Commonwealths have proved unavailing; and whereas it is essential to the financial interests of Virginia that said settlement should be obtained at as early a day as possible:
"Be it resolved by the House of Delegate

(the Senate concurring), That the Governor of the Commonwealth be, and is hereby, requested and authorized to employ such counsel as he may select to prosecute the claim of Virginia against West Virginia for an equitable apportionment of the public

Mr. Keiley advocated the resolution be cause it was manifest that the authorities, if not the people, of West Virginia were determined to do nothing voluntarily toward the proposed settlement.
