WORLD'S SERIES OPPONENTS IN FINAL WORKOUT

American League Team Still Rule Favorites But Odds Steadily Dropping

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Baseball, America's national sport will arise to the dignity of an international episode tomorrow when the local National American league teams open battle for the 1922 world series championship.

Keen as is the interest that will focus on the Polo grounds, from all portions of North America, when the Giants and Yanks, cross bats, hardly less, surprising are the arrangements made to flash the details of each game from the Polo grounds.

Although lacking international competitive character, the outcome of the play holds international interest. Judging from the preliminary plans announced, the scores and high lights of every contest will be cabled to South America, Europe and Asiatic countries, while ships on the seven seas will learn the outcome from wireless waves. With such world wide interest illuminating the series, the zone of conflict is ablaze with baseball enthusiasm.

New York and its inhabitants tonight apparently had dropped, for the time being, all cares of the work-a-day world. Conversation hinged on whether, "Babe" Ruth of the Yankees would wreck the Giants' machine with his home run bat, or Arthur Nehf, the Nationals' pitcher, would turn back the heavy hitting Yanks in the initial clash of the series.

Telegraph and cable wires radiate from the Polo grounds to all points of the compass. Score boards and player boards with their vari-colored lights glisten from points of vantage in all parts of the city. Thousands of fans who will never see the inside of the baseball coliseum during the series will follow every play from these boards or radio descriptive service to be broadcasted miles beyond the sight of the Giants stadium.

It is the old story of a house divided against itself. East vs. West in a world series and New York roots for the home team, regardless of the fans league affiliations. Tonight, however, the baseball atmosphere is surcharged with the most crackling of all rivalry for internal dissension regarding the ability of the two local teams and their individuals stars have divided the fans against themselves.

Although the American league players still rule favorites to reverse the decision of a year ago the odds are steadily dropping. In place of the 8 to 5 odds prevailing last week, Yankee supporters quote six to five tonight and there is little betting even at these short odds.

Visions of the closeness of the plays twelve months back when the same teams fought for world series honors and thrilling climax in the final contest which gave the giants five games to three, leaves even the most analytic fan shaken in his conclusions. Careful study of the available records and season's averages fail to evolve an outstanding favorite.

Supporters of the American league pennant winners point to the greatly increased strength of the Yanks pitching staff. Giant rooters countered with the claim that the Nationals too, have gained strength since 1921, and in manager John McGraw, the Napoleon of baseball, have a diamond strategist of incomparable calibre.

Whatever the result of the four out of seven games series, the play will lack none of the atmosphere and scenic surroundings which have made the world series, wherever played famous as an American sport contest.

Every reserved seat in stands and boxes has been sold and given fair weather such as the local forecaster heralds for tomorrow, 22,000 unreserved seats should be occupied long before the first Yank batter takes his place at the plate. The huge horse shoe shaped stadium will be affluted with flags and pennants, many of which have seen similar service in past series. Bands will play and dignitaries of national and state and baseball bodies lend their presence and voice to the climax of another diamond season. The advance guard of numerous out of town spectators are already taxing the capacity.

New records in either attendance of gate receipts are unlikely however, for with the return to the seven game series, duplication of the figures established in last season's best five out of nine games appear impossible. Another year, when the Yanks' new park with its 70,000 to 80,000 seating capacity is completed, there may be a different tale to tell, but this season the 1921 total receipts for eight games of $900,233 and the aggregate attendance of 269,977 seems safe.

It goes without saying that both Manager McGraw and Miller Huggins the Yanks' mentor, will send their strongest combinations in to battle tomorrow. In a short four out of seven series victory in the initial games spell an advantage which it is hard to overcome.

The Giants are expected to open with Artie Nehf facing the American club standard bearer, Nehf has won 19 games out of his 37 starts in the National league pennant race this season and is about the Giants pitching ace.

Huggins is expected to send Joe Bush to the mound to secure the initial edge on the McGrawites. Bush

BUSH WILL PITCH FIRST GAME FOR YANKS; MCGRAW CONFIDENT HIS TWIRLERS WILL HOLD OWN

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Managers Miller Huggins, of the Yankees, and John J. McGraw, of the Giants, issued statements tonight:

Huggins said: "Joe Bush will pitch the first game for the Yanks. He has earned the honor and will get it. I think he ought to beat the Giants if the others will give him some help by hitting. Ruth will be a lot of assistance for he is in better condition than last year, and when he is hitting they all hit. I am not making any predichas lost but seven games out of the 38 he started this season and probably will prove a formidable obstacle in the Nationals' rush for victory.

Manager McGraw contends that he has sufficient twirling strength for such a series and predicts that sensational fielding will back up the pitchers and cut down the heavy and long distance batting that the average follower of baseball expects.

Being assured of excellent support from his hurlers, Huggins counts up on the heavy Yank hitters to bat their way through and hold the lead to the end. Much will depend on "Babe" Ruth's ability to hook into the delivery of the opposing league's boxmen. Twelve months ago, he was not in physical condition to do himself justice. Aside from a slightly strained side today, he is ready and Yank fans are hoping that the Bambino will deliver in substantial fashion in his second facing of the Giants' hurlers.

Ruth was out with the Yanks in their final practice which began shortly after 10 o'clock this morning and ended when the Giants ambled out about 11 o'clock. He leaned hard against the pitching, sent a couple from his club into the cooler altitudes and then disappeared.

The teams worked similarly, the regular infield practice as they do before a game and the outfielders chasing fungoes and some of the pitchers and catchers passing the ball.

Batting all around ended the sessions. In the club house later there was an atmosphere of tenseness with little joviality.

Manager McGraw of the Giants did not come out, and Hughie Jennings, first assistant, was in charge. Manager Huggins of the Yanks sat in the stands observing his charges. Both appeared serious and did not attempt to joke.

tions about the length of the series. I simply say that we ought to win it," McGraw said:
"We'll give a good account of ourselves, you may be sure of that. We hear a lot about the strength of the Yank pitchers and, of course, we hold them in high respect, but my pitchers carried us through to the National League pennant and they'll hold up their end against the Yanks. I've got a lot of smart ball players and we'll be out there fighting all the time."

Champion Declines to Predict Outcome of Game With Hagen

PITTSBURG, Oct. 3.—Gene Sarazen declined tonight to predict the result of his 72 hole golf match with Walter Hagen, next Friday and Saturday, but he did take vigorous and violent exception to a statement that the British open champion is the best dressed American golfer.

"I'll spring something at Oakmont Friday that will knock Walter dizzy," said the local youngster, who holds the national open and professional titles.

"More Persian rug sweaters?" Gene was asked.

"Nope—something else," he grinned. Friends of Sarazen insist that he is more partial to ear splitting sweaters than any golfer in captivity.

Sarazen who has been practicing in this district for three days, said he felt fit to participate in a golf match, a style show or both.
