

JOHN D., JR., IS OUT IN FAVOR OF 8-HOUR DAY

12-Hour Day and Seven Day Week Condemned by Son of Oil Magnate

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(By the Associated Press)—A sweeping statement declaring his personal stand for the eight hour day in industry and condemning the 12 hour day and the seven day week as "unnecessary, uneconomic and unjustifiable" was issued today by John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

The statement appears in the form of an article signed by Mr. Rockefeller in the current issue of the Survey Graphic and follows an arraignment of working conditions in certain oil fields of Wyoming in the same magazine by R. S. Lynd, who spent three months investigating conditions.

The statement today is the second within a week that Mr. Rockefeller has given out in behalf of the laboring man. The previous one, issued last Wednesday, took up the cudgel in the interest of coal miners on the Somerset count, Penna., and particularly those employed by the Consolidation Coal company of which he is a stockholder.

"I believe that generally speaking, the 12 hour day and the seven day week should no longer be tolerated in industry, either from the viewpoint of public policy, or of industrial efficiency," the oil magnate says in his most recent statement. "I believe that both have proven to be unnecessary, uneconomic and unjustifiable."

"While the adoption of these standards may, and doubtless will at first entail increased costs of production, I am confident that in the long run greater efficiency and economy will result and that from the outset public opinion will support any industry which installs them."

With regards to living conditions even in isolated localities like oil camps, Mr. Rockefeller declared that it is not only possible but necessary to make reasonable provisions for the health, comfort and contentment of those who labor there in behalf of the entire community.

The article of Mr. Lynd, which called for the Rockefeller statement, is an intensive study of conditions in the Elk Basin crude oil producing field of Wyoming, where, according to the author, one man in three works 12 hours a day and seven days a week, and all other classes of labor including office personnel, work nine hours a day, six and a half days a week.

U. S. Soldier Kept Fiancee Bound and Gagged in Chamber

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27.—After having kept his fiancée, Ruth Sellers, bound and gagged in a room since early Tuesday, while he maintained a guard over her, Charles Robair, a corporal in the United States army swallowed poison when the police broke into the room.

Robair died later. The girl broke from her room today while Robair was absent for a few minutes. She called the police from a friend's room. Detectives who broke into the barricaded room found that Robair had taken poison. He died soon after.

The girl said she had known Robair since last April. Robair enlisted in the army two years ago in Wisconsin.

CHANGE OF LIFE WOMAN'S TRIAL

Proof That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is of Great Help at This Period

Metropolis, Illinois.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it is all it claims to be and has benefited me wonderfully. I had been sick for eight months with a trouble which confined me to my bed and was only able to be up part of the time when I was advised by a friend, Mrs. Smith, to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was so much benefited by the use of these medicines that I was able to be up and about in two weeks. I was at the Change of Life when I began taking the medicines and I passed over that time without any trouble. Now I am hale and hearty, do all my housework, washing, ironing, scrubbing, and cooking, all three to do about a house, and can walk two or three miles without getting too tired. I know of several of my neighbors who have been helped by your medicines."

Mrs. EMMA CULVER, 705 E. 7th St., Metropolis, Illinois.

Depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Nervousness, irritability, heat flashes, headache and dizziness, are relieved by this splendid medicine.

MAROONED WITH ESKIMOS; ARE READY FOR FLIGHT OVER POLE

By Robert B. Bermann
SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 27.—A winter with only one white couple for companions. A diet of whale, walrus and reindeer meat. And never a sight of the sun during the whole period.

That is the program of Captain Roald Amundsen, south pole discoverer, and his Norwegian flyer, Oskar Omdahl, while they are spending the coming winter at Wainwright, Alaska, pending their attempted flight over the top of the earth.

Amundsen and Omdahl plan to hop off next spring for a non-stop airplane flight over the north pole. This is a reconnaissance mission for Amundsen's schooner Maud, now frozen in the arctic ice and well started on its five year drift through the polar basin and across the north pole.

Brings Last Word
The last word that will be received from Amundsen before he hops off on his death-daring flight was brought to Seattle by E. J. Ward, of the federal Bureau of Education, who has just returned from Wainwright, where he was government school teacher until relieved by Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Crandler.

It is Mr. and Mrs. Crandler who will spend the winter with Amundsen and his aide. Otherwise, their only companions will be some 200 Eskimos, comprising the population of the entire community of Wainwright and two adjoining villages.

"It won't be so bad, though," said Ward. "They'll have plenty of food. The Eskimos recently killed two big whales and a number of walrus, and buried in the ice, this food will keep indefinitely. Also, there's the herd of 4000 reindeer, which the natives maintain."

School Serves Them
"And when he wants anything—"

well, all he'll have to do is go to the school house. The government school in Alaska, you know, is the center of everything. It's the store, the postoffice, the hospital—everything."

People are brought into life in the school. They study there and later work there. They get married there too—and then, when they die, their funerals are held in the school."

Ward brought back the first explanation that has been advanced for Amundsen's decision to hop off from Wainwright, instead of Point Barrow, as originally planned.

"Some people think," said Ward, "that it was because Wainwright is on the same meridian as Spitzbergen, his destination—making it possible for him to fly absolutely straight—due north and then due south, straddling the meridian."

The real reason, in my opinion, is the fact that flying from Wainwright will give him from 50 to 70 miles of grace from death. By taking a northeasterly course, he can follow the coast until he reaches Point Barrow—and thus have an opportunity to land safely if engine trouble develops early."

If Amundsen is successful, news will be flashed immediately from Spitzbergen. But the world will not know for two months and more if he falls and is killed.

"Wainwright," says Ward, "is so cut off from the rest of the world that even in summer time it takes two months for mail to reach the coast of the Bering sea, the nearest point from which any news can be broadcasted. Nushunginya, the Eskimo mailman, has the longest mail route in existence. It extends from Point Barrow to Kotzebue, 750 miles, and is covered only three times a year."

Plans to Stop

"Even if man happens to leave the very day of Amundsen's departure, the world won't know that he has left for weeks and weeks. If, by the time the news of his departure reaches civilization no word has been received of his arrival in Spitzbergen, it can be safely said that he is dead."

Ward said Amundsen is waiting until he can make the entire 1700 mile trip in daylight—and this season lasts only from May 10 to August 5.

"He can't possibly leave until June however," Ward went on, "as weather conditions are so bad. Last July for instance, there was only four days when a blizzard wasn't raging. If he's lucky though he may get off by June 1."

WILDCATS WILL STRUGGLE TODAY ON FRISCO GRID

Team Reported in Good Shape For Clash This Afternoon With Santa Clara

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Oct. 27.—The Arizona Wildcats, 25 strong, arrived here this morning from the University of Arizona and worked out today in preparation for their game tomorrow afternoon with Santa Clara college.

The "Cats" will enter the game in much better condition than when they played Southern California recently. The team was handicapped by the fact that the game with U. S. C. was Arizona's first this season, and one of the hardest it has ever played, as well.

The team went through a short but snappy work out in Los Angeles on the way here. Accompanying the team are the two coaches, McKale and Pierce, Trainer Levy and Graduate Manager Slonaker. The team will line up the same as for the U. S. C. game: Witten, c; Barkley and Puett, g; Clark and La Shelle, t; McClelland and Jacobson, e; Gilliland and Thomas, hb; Hobbs, captain, fb; and MacMillan, qb.

This game should prove to be a good drawing card due to the showing that the two teams have made against stronger teams. Arizona held Southern California 15-0 the Trojans getting two touchdowns in the last quarter. Santa Clara held Stanford 7-0. According to the dope U. S. C. is stronger than Stanford so that Arizona and Santa Clara should be equally matched. The game will be played on Ewing Field in San Francisco, California will be in the south at Pasadena playing Southern California while Stanford will be in the northern part of the state with a game with one of the Oregon teams.

This means that the Arizona-Santa Clara game will be the only attraction that will amount to anything around San Francisco.

STATES BURNS SOUGHT TO GET RID OF WOMAN

Riding Companion Reports Alleged Offer by Burns to Be Free of Wife

CLEVELAND, Oct. 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Cleveland police made an effort late today to break through the barrier of mystery which has closed about the murder of Mrs. Hazel Burns, whose body was found late Wednesday buried in a shallow grave near Painesville by summoning to police quarters a man who is said to have heard an argument between the murdered victim and her husband, Henry J. Burns now held on a charge of first degree murder. The argument it was said, occurred two days before Mrs. Burns' body was found and was over the possession of a revolver.

This man told police of riding with Burns from the latter's home at Mentor Monday evening and was asked by the officers if he would recall any of Burns' conversation relative to any alleged offer to get money to "get rid" of his wife.

The Cleveland officers said they were now working on theory that a hired assassin may have committed the crime.

"We had been talking about the argument that occurred when Mrs. Burns took her husband's revolver from his hiding place and of the quarrels they had over his attention to 'other women' was his reply to the officers' questions. 'I asked Burns why he did not give his wife $2,000 or $3,000 and get rid of her that way if he wanted to be free.'"

The man declared Burns said nothing about giving any money to get rid of the woman who two days later was beaten into unconsciousness and buried alive in the wooded marshland.

DAVIS SAYS NO CANCELLATION OF WAR DEBTS

Secretary of Labor Declares Administration Opposed to Any Such Suggestion

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 27.—There will be no cancellation of the debts owed by the European nations to the United States on loans made during the war, James J. Davis, secretary of labor, declared in an address here tonight. He spoke in the interest of the candidacy of United States Senator Miles Poindexter and Representative J. Stanley Webster of Washington for re-election.

On foreign debts the government under the Republican administration is firm, Secretary Davis declared, dismissing from his prepared address adding "that eleven thousand millions of dollars belong to the people of the United States who bought Liberty bonds to provide the funds that were loaned to Europe. President Harding and his administration are unalterably determined that Europe shall pay its debt to us."

Declaring that "from the other side of the Atlantic we are besieged with charges that America has gained gold by the war and has lost her soul," Secretary Davis said:

"Let Europe and Europe's champions prate about having saved their souls when they have followed America's example and cut down the tremendous cost of their standing armies. So long as the nations of Europe, which owe us money, persist in spending millions in gold and thousands of men in war by proxy there is little reason for America to forgive them their debts."

"We are willing to help Europe. We are now sending millions to aid the victims of war in the Near East. We have done nothing but give, give, give, for years. We will keep on giving, for charity and to aid the stricken, the hungry, the destitute. But we will not give one cent of honest debt for the purpose of keeping Europe on a war basis."
