PALMISTRY. How Life's Story is Told by the Palm of the Hand. The occult is always attractive, and the mysterious subtle in its effects not only on the female, but the male mind.

No. 1. The palmist belongs to those mysterious sciences that engage the attention of many, and both men and women have devoted much time to its study.

Hand No. 1 belongs to the square or useful type. The leading characteristics are symmetry and exactitude of thought and habit. A person with little imagination or originality. One who disbelieves all she cannot understand would have such a hand.

Hand No. 2 is the hand of a very active, energetic person, one who has a love for all that is useful, physical and reasonable. She considers all things from the utilitarian point of view, has a love of animals and inclination for travel, commerce, and mechanical arts.

Hand No. 3 is the hand of a very practical person, but one whose actions are governed by inspiration, impulse and intuition. He is not particular about trifles, jumps hastily to conclusions and is quick in grasping the entirety of a subject.

Hand No. 4 is the hand of a very practical person, but one whose actions are governed by inspiration, impulse and intuition. He is not particular about trifles, jumps hastily to conclusions and is quick in grasping the entirety of a subject.

Hand No. 5 is the hand of a very practical person, but one whose actions are governed by inspiration, impulse and intuition. He is not particular about trifles, jumps hastily to conclusions and is quick in grasping the entirety of a subject.

Hand No. 6 is the hand of a very practical person, but one whose actions are governed by inspiration, impulse and intuition. He is not particular about trifles, jumps hastily to conclusions and is quick in grasping the entirety of a subject.

Hand No. 7 is the hand of a very practical person, but one whose actions are governed by inspiration, impulse and intuition. He is not particular about trifles, jumps hastily to conclusions and is quick in grasping the entirety of a subject.

Hand No. 8 is the hand of a very practical person, but one whose actions are governed by inspiration, impulse and intuition. He is not particular about trifles, jumps hastily to conclusions and is quick in grasping the entirety of a subject.

BOOK REVIEWS

The newest novel by Rita bears the euphonious name of "Kitty the Rag." Miss Braddon's latest novel has just appeared in London. It is called "London Pride."

John Gordon has written a life of Christ for the young, entitled "The Children of Galilee."

Andrew Lang's "Myths, Creeds and Religion" is the latest work to be placed on the "Index" by the Pope.

A special winter number of the London Studio is to contain an article of Stevenson's never before published. It is an account of the novelist's stay at Monaster in the autumn of 1878, and was originally intended to serve as the opening chapter of "Travels with a Donkey in the Ceylon."

Marie Corelli continues to rage in England unabated. To one who has read her ranting and inartistic "Mighty Atom," it seems incredible that her London publishers have just completed an eleventh edition, making an aggregate of 78,000 volumes of this book alone.

The unique fine art work called "The Book of Beauty," containing fifty large portraits of titled ladies of the later Victorian era, is to be handled on this side of the Atlantic by Geo. D. Sprout, of New York.

Advertising solicitors are often met with the argument that the individual or firm name he solicits is so well known that advertising is useless. We have known a number of implement and vehicle manufacturers who argue this way.

Hardships for an African Explorer. I have always something the matter with me which interferes with my efficiency. Now it will be a wretched ulcer near my knee-joint to hinder my walking; at another time one near my right elbow to weaken my arm and give me unsteady aim in shooting.

Bear Heavy Pressure. Piscatorial authorities of highest repute say that fishes and mollusks living at a depth of more than three miles under water have to bear a pressure of several tons, the weight being that of the superincumbent brine, which exerts its power from all sides alike.

Sleeping Apartments. The amount of offets matter given off by the skin and lungs during sleep makes it imperative that care should be bestowed on sleeping apartments in keeping the air sweet and clean. The body odors, which are so perceptible in a close room as one rises from the bed, cannot but prove injurious if proper attention is not given to ventilation of the room and clothing.

Unsolicited Testimonial. Next Door Neighbor—I heard your daughter practicing her scales on the piano at a very late hour last night. She has a remarkable touch. Mr. Kajones—My daughter? Thunder! That was the cat running up and down the keyboard!
