PROF. KOCH'S DISCOVERY.

Nothing has so excited the medical world in this century as the discovery by Dr. Koch of a preparation which the learned professor believes will cure consumption in its early stages.

All accounts agree that notwithstanding the very encouraging developments in the clinical experiments made, yet time enough has not elapsed to enable the discoverer to speak with any absolute degree of certainty upon the curative effects of the new treatment.

At the city hospital in Berlin, which has been designated as the central station for Koch's method, the director, Dr. Guttman, has set apart ninety beds for cases to be treated by inoculation, and Dr. Koch goes there personally to witness the results.

Very exact graphical records are kept, showing the various symptoms of the stage of reaction, and also of the number of tubercle bacilli in the expectoration, which is examined daily by Professor Ehrlich, who has taken charge of the bacteriological laboratory.

There Director Guttman demonstrates a great many cases daily, and his observations coincide with those of physicians at other experimental hospital stations in Berlin in every particular.

From this it may be seen that the state of affairs concerning this work and its clinical features is simply that of gradual accumulation of experience and knowledge, and the opinion is very general that visiting physicians will be able to see and learn much more three months hence than now.

American patients should certainly be discouraged from rushing to Berlin, especially since the treatment will be brought here as soon as practicable, but above all because nothing as yet is certain or settled as to the results.

From all that has been thus far ascertained, the medical world is encouraged to hope that Professor Koch has made a great discovery, which will yet prove to be of inestimable value to the human family.

Yet in this experimental stage of the treatment, it would not be wise for the public mind to go far beyond the results as they are ascertained by the careful experiments of the discoverer and his able corps of assistants.

THE SANTA FE MAP.

The Santa Fe route has put out a new map of Southern California that presents in really attractive view the semitropics. It has been carefully revised by the skilled hand of Major Ben Truman, and includes the territory south of the mountains to San Diego.

The showing it makes of the railroad connections of Los Angeles is a very significant affair. All the ramifications of the roads as they radiate from the city are given with close attention to detail.

The Ballona and Redondo branches show where our interests touch upon the ocean, indicating our facilities for coastwise and foreign commerce.

The Belt line that encircles that matchless stretch of territory lying south and east of this city, out by Rivera, Fullerton, Anaheim, Orange, Santa Ana, South Riverside, Riverside, Colton, San Bernardino and back to this city by Ontario, Pomona, the Azusa valley, Duarte, Monrovia and Pasadena, is portrayed.

The Surf line to San Diego indicates one of the most charming rides in all the railroad developments of the age.

There is the inland line from San Bernardino to the same terminal, which taps the country around Perris and Temecula, with the branch to San Jacinto.

San Bernardino is shown to be a railroad center worthy of attention. The main line from the east comes down through the Cajon pass, and there is the Belt line encircling the most fertile district around that city.

This embraces Redlands, Alessandro and the vicinities where there is now so great a development in orange growing.

When the corner-stone of the new asylum is laid next Monday a train will be run on this, although there is some temporary suspension of work on the line, owing to excessive demands for rights of way.

Incidental to the map proper is a goodly amount of well selected letter press, giving important information touching this section and its products. The Santa Fe map will do good wherever it is distributed. It proves conclusively the great interest this corporation takes in our section, and manifests how wisely its plans are laid to benefit us.

REFORM YOUR METHODS.

We have on several occasions drawn attention to the report of the commissioners appointed to adjust the accounts between Los Angeles and Orange counties.

It was shown in that report that there is not, nor has there ever been, any business-like system of keeping the records of this county. The commissioners were obliged to collect their data item by item through the meagre minutes of the proceedings of the board for many years, and to get a hint here and there from the reports of the various county treasurers.

This slipshod and indefensible method of keeping the records of the county's business is continued to this day, so that hereafter, whoever wants to find out the details of our financial transactions will have to wade through a mountain of data in order to do so.

It is not to the credit of a great city like Los Angeles that her bookkeeping has been so shamefully neglected, and we hope that the board of supervisors, when reorganized with the newly-elected members, will make a thorough investigation into the slipshod system now pursued and effect a complete reform.

The auditor's department, if it were conducted as it should be, would show at a glance how any account stood, and it is inconceivable that business men in their own affairs accurate and methodical—could have permitted the business of the county to have been run for years at such loose ends.

It is time, however, that a new and businesslike departure should be taken, so that the taxpayers may in future know exactly what property the county owns, what has been the cost of her public buildings, bridges, roads, etc., and what moneys have been paid out and what for; in fact a complete record of every transaction in which the county is directly or indirectly interested.

THE HERALD today is able to lay before its readers a carefully prepared exhibit of the revenue derived this year from the sale of the walnut crops at Rivera. It is a most fascinating showing of the profits from this branch of horticulture.

In brief it is that about 60 persons, all within a circle whose radius is only three miles, obtain about $80,000 for their crops of walnuts. The absolute acreage was not obtainable; but it probably does not exceed 300 acres all told.

And the beauty of the story is, that the people who receive these handsome sums of money from their farms of five acres each, of walnuts, will be paid as much more within the next few weeks for the oranges obtained from similarly small bits of ground.

Be it borne in mind that the labor of caring for these orchards is very small, nor does it cost much to buy the land and set the trees.

An offer was made yesterday on the streets to sell 300 acres of this land at $150 per acre, to plant the ground to the best varieties of walnut trees and take care of the orchard for three years; the whole cost to be covered by the price named, $150 per acre.

The trees will begin to bear after that period, and bear well at the end of two more years.

PORTLAND, SACRAMENTO, STOCKTON, SAN JOSE and other Pacific coast cities have secured the passage of appropriations for public buildings through the house.

A batch of them have already been passed this session. The only city of importance which receives no consideration on this score is Los Angeles. Verily, General Vandever has made a representative whom it would have paid the district to have kept at home.

The vitrified sewer pipe on Main and Winston streets is perhaps the most abortive attempt at a public building for a city of this size ever seen in the United States.

It faces our people as a ruin, or a raze that had got into strange waters and had her top daylight shot out of her. Such a building, if completed, might be ample for the federal business of Milpitas or Coon Hollow; but for a city like Los Angeles it is a roaring farce or a blazing insult to offer it to us.

The manifesto of the Irish envoys to the United States, reads like the threnody of a great and lost cause. It is manifest they realize that Parnell has wrecked their hopes and blasted the prospects of home rule.

He has placed self above patriotism and ruined in a few days the magnificent fabric which it has taken many years to erect. He has imitated the desperate act of Krostatus, and applied the torch of destruction to the temple of Irish liberty.

The envoys despair of securing any adequate supply of funds from America as long as Parnell is determined to divide and distract the Irish people and abuse the English friends of home rule.

The outlook is indeed a gloomy one for a cause that was on the eve of achieving one of the most signal triumphs in the history of modern national politics.

The special congressional committee to make a report on the Chinese situation on this coast will be in session here for a few days. Their special attention ought to be called to the federal building started on Main street. It will be well to have somebody on the floor of the house to testify to the fact that the government has been egregiously deceived in this federal building business.

Of course the committee need only to see the abortion to realize at once that Los Angeles ought to have a public edifice very different from the one started.

As we have no representative in the house to look after our interests, we must depend upon impartial strangers to set our case in a proper light before that body.

A GATHERING of members of the Alliance Democratic club last night, at which resolutions were passed endorsing ing the policy pursued by the HERALD in the recent city election, and the course of the paper generally, shows how the wind is blowing. The HERALD is for good government and for the best interests of the Democratic party in all its aspirations and acts.

The people in general, and the party particularly, know these facts well, and they are at our back.

SENATOR VEST laid Dolph, of Oregon, flat yesterday in the senate, when a law of that state was read in which it is provided that only white labor shall be employed on certain public works.

He said whatever political privileges may be denied an individual negro at the hands of some individual white man acting illegally, no southern state can ever by statute provided denied the negro the right to earn his bread.

RAZORS IN THE AIR.

Three Men Injured in a Melee Near the Arcade.

Yesterday afternoon some tramps were amusing themselves by picking oranges near the Arcade depot, when a couple of young negroes attracted their attention.

One of the gang threw an orange at the nearer of the two. The negro picked up a couple of stones, advanced towards one of the gang, who was dubbed Shorty, and hurled one of the stones at him, striking him on the head.

The blow struck Shorty, who fell to the ground in a heap. As he fell, his right foot became jammed in a frog on the railroad track, and his leg was broken just above the ankle.

Billy Pheiau and Jim Lawson, two of the tramps, soon overtook the negro, who turned like a stag at bay and attacked his pursuers with a razor blade, and he succeeded in breaking away from them after cutting one in the leg and the other on the hand.

"Shorty" was then conveyed to the receiving hospital, where he was recognized as Thos. O'Hara, an old-timer. The negro who caused all the trouble is known as Billy Whitesides and resides at Boyle Heights, but he had evaded arrest up to a late hour last night.

Dyspepsia and Torpid Liver.

Nathaniel Hyatt, Insurance Department, Albany, N. Y., writes:

"I have been a great sufferer from dyspepsia, water brash, acid stomach and constipation for the last five months. Some time ago I read in one of Brantlett's papers the case of a gentleman in Albany who was cured of a similar affliction by using ALCOCK'S PECTORAL PLASTER.

Knowing the gentleman referred to, I purchased three—one wore on the pit of the stomach, and two on my right side. I wore them a week, then took a bath and removed the plasters. I washed the places with cologne, rubbed them dry and then applied fresh ALCOCK'S PECTORAL PLASTER.

I found my appetite and digestion much improved in two weeks; in three weeks my bowels became regular, and, after using the plasters for four weeks, I found myself entirely cured."
