The Terminal People and the Salt Lake Road.

A Report That Work Has Commenced at Milford.

The Road Buying Quantities of Rolling Stock.

Plenty of Construction Material Now on Hand-Those Pasadena Rates. News Notes and Gossip.

"When I was in Salt Lake City, about ten days ago, I learned that the Terminal railway people had made contracts for the building of the road south from Milford in Utah." The speaker was a contractor, who has just returned from a visit to Utah.

"I also heard," he continued, "that Mr. Kerens and Chandler stopped off at Salt Lake and attended to the details themselves. My information was derived from a very reliable source, and I have every reason in the world to believe it. If such is the case, you will see Union Pacific trains rolling into Los Angeles before next winter."

A HERALD reporter also learned yesterday that Mr. Hobart, the president of the road, who lives in St. Louis, has been purchasing coaches, freight cars and gondolas to a great extent, and they will soon begin to arrive in this city. So extensive have been these pur-chases of rolling stock that they have excited comment among eastern railroad

THOSE PASADENA RATES.

The railroad commissioners met on Monday in San Francisco. Secretary Kelly read a communication from W. E.

Archer, attorney for the people in the Pasadena excessive rate case. The writer referred to a statement of the earnings and operations of the Los Angeles Terminal company, and intimated that it is no answer to the charges of illegal raising of rates between Los Angeles and Pasadena. That company's statement was also presented to the board, and showed that for the year ended February 28, 1891, the gross earnings were $50,280 and the expenses $62,-249, a deficit of $11,909. The board could take no action in the matter, as the brief of the Southern California road, also complained of, has not been Kelly read a communication from W. EXTRA SANTA MONICA TRAINS. Beginning next Sunday, May 3d, the Southern Pacific company commences its extra train service to Santa Monica. A special will leave the Arcade depot, Los Angeles, at 10:25 a.m., making close connection with the train from Banning, connection with the train from Banning, Riverside and San Bernardino; and returning, will leave Santa Monica at at 5:50 p.m. This increased service will no doubt be appreciated by Los Angeles folks, giving them, as it does, over two hours longer at the seashore. The interior towns will also be nicely accommodated, enabling people as far east as Banning to enjoy nearly the entire day at Santa Monica.

The news exclusively published in the Herald yesterday of the decision of the Terminal people to make their depot grounds at the foot of First street on the east side, created quite a boom yesterday in adjacent property. General Manager K. H. Wade, of the Southern California road, will return from San Francisco today.

Santa Fe officials laughed at the fairy story published in the Times recently, to the effect that the Santa Fe intended to purchase the Cuyamaca railway. Pleasant Facts About the Orange Car-

A telegram from Secretary Hanchette at Chicago, yesterday, announces the safe arrival of the carload of flowers sent from here over the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad last week. They are said to be in fine shape.

Acting Secretary Willard is also in receipt of several copies of the Chicago ceipt of several copies of the Chicago (illustrated) Graphic of April 25th, which devotes much space to a description of the orange carnival. The article is illustrated with process engravings of the principal exhibits, photographed by Herve Friend, the Los Angeles artist who went on with the exhibit. The illustrations are very fine ones and the illustrations are very fine ones, and the article accompanying them is very well written, by one who appreciated the exhibition he was writing about.

THE COURTS.

THE SENSATIONAL LINE OF DE-FENSE IN THE DYER CASE.

The Defendant's Counsel Claims That the Complaining Witness and the Defendant's Wife Had Been Unduly Intimate. Other Cases on Trial.

The case of Frank J. Dyer, charged with assault to murder, was called again in department one of the superior court, yesterday, and the prosecution being this time ready to proceed, the court proceeded to impanel a jury.

Dyer, it will be remembered, is the man who shot J. H. Taylor, in front of the Natick house, on the 22d of September last. The affair at the time excited considerable public interest and comment, the shooting being supposed to be the result of undue intimacy between Taylor and Mrs. Dyer. The story, so far as known, is too familiar to render any summary necessary at this time. It having been announced, however, that a number of new and perhaps sensational developments would be forthcoming at the trial, there was quite a large attendance at the court room, no ladies, however, on this occasion being present.

It was not until after 2 o'clock that a jury was obtained, and the first witness placed upon the stand.

W. W. Holcomb, an attorney testified as to hearing the shot fired, and afterward believe to take Taylor up.

afterward helping to take Taylor up stairs to a room in the hotel.

Bob Martin, police officer, testified as to making the arrest, and identified the pistol, a four barrel "pepper box," which he had taken from Dyer, and delivered to the police clerk. The pistol was then introduced in evidence, the de fense entering an objection.

J. C. Curtis, clerk in the hotel, testified as to the incidents relating to the shooting, known at the time and already

Dr. K. D. Wise was called, and on being sworn told what he knew of the case. He was called upon to dress Taylor's wound, and had treated him for two or three weeks after the shooting. Had probed repeatedly for the ball, but had been unable to locate it.

Mr. Bouton, an eye witness, could not positively identify Dyer as the man who did the shooting. He had testified at the preliminary examination, however, and knew Dyer to be the same man who was then charged with the assault.

On cross-examination witness stated that he was the one who first seized the defendant after the shooting occurred. F. W. Bishop, Frank Vernon, W. H. Wolfe, A. F. Cochran and others testified in regard to the occurrences as they witnessed them at the time of the shooting.

Chief of Police J. M. Glass was also called to further identify the pistol, but could not say with certainty if it was the one taken from Dyer by Officer Martin and delivered over to the clerk in the James H. Taylor, the complaining witness, then took the stand and gave his story, which was the same as that of the eye witnesses.

On cross-examination Judge Campbell began a series of questions covering a space of two or three years previous to the shooting, which at once raised an objection on the raised an objection on the part of the prosecution. In defense of his particular line of questioning, Judge Campbell spoke at some length and eloquently. He proposed, he said, to prove by the witness's own testimony that several years since he he had succeeded in establishing a degree of intimacy between himself and the wife of the defendant, which had totally destroyed the defendant's peace of mind and family relations, and that the defendant had sustained those criminal relations through a course of years, until his conduct had become, to a certain extent. a justification, or at years, until his conduct had become, to a certain extent. a justification, or at least a mitigation for the defendant's action. This occasioned a heated argu-ment between the attorneys, which finally resulted in the court sustaining the objection of the defense and ruling Judge Campbell's questions out of or-der. The witness was then handed a number of letters, which he was re-quested to examine for the purpose of dentification.

Taylor was then asked if he had written the letters or not, to which he replied that the writing resembled his. He would not at first say more than this, but being finally pushed to the wall, and the court commanding him to answer the question, he said that he believed that the letters were written by him. The letters were then labeled as exhibits for the defendant, but not offered in evidence at that time.

Police Clerk Bean was then called, and positively identified the pistol already put in evidence as the one taken from Dyer at the time of the shooting.

The prosecution then rested, and a recess was taken until 10 a.m. today, when the defense will present its case. It has been a subject of much conjecture what would be the line of defense adopted, and the announcement of adopted, and the announcement of Judge Campbell has settled the doubt and shown wherein the surmises of many were correct.

The case will be continued today. DAMRON AGAIN FREE.

The jury in the Damron case staid out all Tuesday night, and at noon yesterday had not agreed upon a verdict. They were taken out to dinner, and at 1:30 filled back into the jury box. It was then announced that they stood at a deadlock of seven to five, and "not a ghost of a chance," as one of their number stated, "for agreement." As there appeared to be no use in keeping them out longer, and as jurors were necessary to complete the selection for the Dyer assault-to-murder trial, they were discharged. Damron was not remanded, the court holding that his bond was still the court holding that his bond was still in force until he was convicted or acquitted, or an order vacating the bond had been issued.

In the same court the case of Mrs. N. H. Field vs. the Los Angeles cable railway, is now on trial. The plaintiff is suing for $5275 damages sustained by being thrown from a car on the 15th of July, 1890.

In department four the application for a receiver was granted in the case of the Redondo Beach company vs. the Chautauqua Assembly et al.

The new venire of seventy jurors for department six, has been summoned, and the sheriff will make his return on the same today.

In department five a case entitled Blanch R. Davis et al. vs. the Southern Pacific company was on trial yesterday.

Mrs. Davis and her child want $25,000 damages for the death of her husband, who was killed while coupling cars at Pomona in April of 1888. Negligence on the part of other employees is alleged to have been the cause of the fatal accident. In the case of the People vs. George Olpherts, who was up for preliminary examination before Justice Stanton yesterday, the defendant was held to answer, and committed to jail in default of $500 bail.

The case of threatened offense, brought against S. F. Glass in Justice Austin's court, was yesterday dismissed upon motion of the district attorney, and a new complaint of battery was filed by the prosecuting witness, M. V. Biscailuz. The case will be tried before a jury, and was set for May 27th. was set for May 27th.
