THE ARIZONA KICKER.

An Editor Possessed with a Very Worthy Motto.

RETROSPECTIVE.—The first night we entered this town we slept under a wagon on Apache avenue. We felt tough, we looked tough and we had just fifteen cents cash capital. We'd walked twenty-eight miles that day to get somewhere, and after getting there the prospects didn't seem to improve. We were sustained, however, by a determination to come out on top of the crowd if we lost both legs in the hustle. That determination carried us through.

From the very first issue of "The Kicker" we took for our motto "Ex dono fama semper vivat," which used to mean in our neighborhood in New England, "Tell the truth without fear or favor, even if you never get an office or own a dog." We have stuck to that motto, and while it has made us some enemies it has also made us a host of friends and a power in the land. In pursuance of our policy we now wish to say a word about "The Great Arizona Home Provider company," which is advertising extensively in the east. Its latest scheme is to advertise city lots in "Blue Hill City" at twenty dollars each. The "city" is represented as a hustling young town—three railroads, two banks, one theater, 3,000 people, and bound to be the Chicago of the west. We rode out to the site the other day. When we returned the company offered us twenty-five dollars to keep still. We denounce it as a fraud from top to bottom, and warn the public against investing.

FOUNTER FOR THE BOYS.—There are three or four tough men in this town—wayback toughs, with cartloads of sand in their systems—but there are 400 would-be toughs who are not a bit tough and never can be. It isn't in them, and they are not in it. They go round spitting over their shoulders and bluffing the Chinamen and half breeds, but they take good care not to run up against the man whose father owned the spring which was the fountain head of Fighting creek. In a fatherly way we want to say to these boys: "Don't. It's a waste of time and raw material. The goods are cotton mixed and the dye won't stand. Come off the perch and drop your claims, and let everybody size you up for what you really are—a lot of old dead heads who ought to be driven to the sand hills."

In this connection we wish to briefly refer to the little affair of Sunday, which our contemporary will no doubt misstate in his usual fashion. We were sitting on the steps of the postoffice waiting for the place to open at the usual hour, when an individual known around town as "Holy Smoke Bengal Tiger Steve Johnson" came along. No one knows where he came from, but some folks have been very much afraid of him. He picked his teeth with a grizzly's claw, carried a Bowie knife and claimed to shoot two handed.

In writing up "The Bluffers" of this town a few weeks ago we asked this Smoky Tiger, or whatever he calls himself, what prison he had run from? He's been promising the boys to allow off our right ear, have it broiled in Bill Taylor's restaurant, and then publicly feed it to Steve Aker's Virginia foxhound. We haven't been greatly worried, and we didn't skip a cog when we saw the Tiger rolling along toward us. He came to a halt in front of us, and tried to look awfully wicked—real old Rocky Mountain wicked, with the gore thrown in as a chromo. We didn't shiver. Then he smiled—a facsimile of the grin Kit Carson used to put on as he counted up his dead Indians and whistled for the buzzards to begin work. We didn't unwind or lose any buttons.

Then he sent his deep base roar down to his feet and brought it up again to tell us that he never got there. We rose up and knocked Smoky off his pins at one punch, and then we walked on him and sat down on him, and hammered him from head to heel until he roared like a calf and whined like a coyote. We have his two revolvers and Bowie knife on our table as we write. We are waiting for him to prove property and take them away.

Perhaps it would be appropriate to observe in this connection that there will be a little bee or gathering or convention or some such thing on Pawnee square Saturday evening. Most of our prominent citizens will be there. Several of them will be provided with ropes. There will be various committees appointed to wait on various respectable individuals in this town, and ask them how long they intend to remain. If longer than two hours the committee will bring them to the bee and they will be argued with. The "Bengal Bluffer" is on the list to receive callers.—M. Quad in New York World.

The Beauty of It. Foggs—There's nothing so delicious in the world as to reach out of bed in the morning, ring for your valet to come and dress you.

Brown—Have you a valet? Foggs—No, but I have a bell. Brown—But what good does it do you to ring it? No valet will come in response. Foggs—That is just the most delectable part of it. As the valet doesn't come, you don't have to get up.—Boston Transcript.

How They Cure Rheumatism in Pennsylvania. Mr. J. F. Meighan, a Pittsburgh cigar dealer, awoke one morning with an attack of rheumatism in his right arm. Working around the store during the forenoon made it worse. By noon the pain was so severe that he could not raise his hand to his head and had to carry his arm in a sling. One of his customers, on learning the facts, went across the street to E. E. Heck's drug store, and at his own expense procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and persuaded the cigar dealer to try it. It eased the pain and reduced the swelling so that by the next morning he could use his arm, and by the second morning was entirely well. This is only one of the many severe cases of rheumatism that have been cured by this valuable remedy. 50 cent bottles for sale by C. F. Heinzenman, druggist, 222 N. Main street.

Written for the HERALD.] SAD THOUGHTS.

There are heroes who fall on the battle field, And heroes who fight with disease, Who serenely willingly yield, And welcome their earthly release.

The struggle that preceded such death, May prepare for the life to come, And soften the hearts of those bereft, Till they can pray, "Thy will be done."

Let me die mid the cannon's roar; Let me fall, my face to the foe, Away from home and friends afar, Who my sufferings may never know.

Doom me not, a victim to fall To a torturous lingering death, When my loved ones, my all in all, Shall list to my wailing breath.

Better, oh far, my fate be sealed, Like the judgment book on high, Than to them be never revealed, Than to watch me struggle and die.
