The Legislature is strongly Republican in both branches. The Democrats have carried only two out of sixteen counties, although they have elected a few Legislators in closely contested Republican districts. A constitutional amendment providing that municipal indebtedness incurred for the purpose of aiding corporate enterprises should not exceed five per cent. has been ratified, and an amendment requiring that the payment of a poll tax for two years shall be one of the qualifications of voters has been defeated. Party lines have evidently been but very slightly disturbed by recent events. Subscribe for the ADVOCATE. D. C. Oyster, for Sheriff.

The Republican county convention which met in Hagerty's Hall, last Tuesday, placed the above named gentleman in nomination for the only county office to be filled this fall and that the act of their representatives will be highly acceptable to the Republicans of Elk county we have not the slightest doubt, in fact we are assured that, with few exceptions, all are ready and willing to do all that is possible for the success of our nominee. The report having been started that Mr. C. H. Winslow would be an independent candidate, we will state that Mr. Winslow assured us, before the nomination, that he would support the nominee, and since then he has said that he would give Mr. Oyster a hearty support, and gave authority to say that all reports to the contrary were not true. It is not necessary here to give a personal history of Daniel C. Oyster, for his whole life from boyhood to youth, and from youth to manhood, has been spent among the people of Little Elk, and his life is part of the history of our county, in fact he is well known. and universally respected the whole county over and he knows as well, if not better, than any one else, the wants of the people, and the people, regardless of party, know him to be a man of business tact and everyday manners, although by attention to business "Dan," as he is familiarly called, has laid by a few ducats for a "rainy day" it can be recorded of him that he never oppressed the poor or refused to lend a helping hand to a needy neighbor, and scores of people throughout the county can attest to the truth of this statement. In these times of business depression, and financial distress, it is not known who may be the next one to receive an official visit from the Sheriff, and it is quite convenient to have an officer who has the means to give a poor man a chance and at the same time be saithful to his official trust. Many a man with a little help when down, may rise to his feet again, and go on his way rejoicing. This help a Sheriff with means, and the disposition to do so, can easily grant, and that Mr. Oyster has the means all will admit, and that he has the disposition his three year's management of the Sheriff's office will bear abundant evidence. In several cases that we could name he helped men who have never et been able to settle the account, but these men, although they may have had bad luck, and although they may not have paid they will vote for their benefactor, all the same, and we will warrant they will roll up their sleeves on election day and put in their best licks for him. In Mr. Oyster's official capacity he is best said on all sides "that he was one of the best, if not the best, Sheriff that Elk county ever had." His official record will bear the light. will stand a critical examination; and it will be found to be clear and perfect. The duties of a Sheriff are sometimes very delicate, and require in their performance, justice patience, and it is rare where a man has performed the most delicate and unpleasant duties, as Mr. Oyster has, and in such a highly ecceptable manner. Ask the poor men who had business with "Dan," as sheriff, as to his leniency : ask the rich man as to his prompt and business-like manner of transacting public business: ask the lawyers his record as sheriff; ask the udges, jurors, and court officers his record; ask strangers his record; and ask everybody, his record, and finally take the records themselves as a substantial and convincing proof of his competency, and high qualities as a pub-

Facts need no proof and figures will not lie and why set forth in empty words what is already so well known and what has been said an hundred times,

In conclusion, we see proud of our candilate; proud of his life of sobriety, honesty, and perseverance; proud of his success as a business man; proud, yes, doubly proud of his public record. Look at these things Republicans and do your duty; look Democrats, and consider that the office is in no manner a political office, and give Mr. Oyster a vote because he is competent and trustworthy; look poor men and consider that Mr. Oyster has labored to reach the position he has attained, and that "the laborer is worthy his bire," and that the honest accumulation of wealth is a virtue that should be encouraged.

Some things in this article are said to offset electioneering dodges already set in motion. Let the ball move on, we are confident that the people of Elk county desire Mr. Oyster as their next Sheriff and will so express themselves at the polls. "IT STILL WAVES."-Among the Fort Shaw, solid and established papers that have lived through the hard times, we are glad to see the old-time and favorite STAR SPANGLED BANNER. HOW HE CAME TO CONSTRUCT HIS POLICY-THE PROBLEM OF THE SOUTH SOLVED BY OSE WORD.

The correspondent of the Cincinnati Evening Times, who interviewed Presdent Haves while enroute to Fremont, asked the President how he came to construct his policy, which was seemingly so at variance with his views while on the stump in his last Gubernatorial campaign. The President replied as follows: Well, those views began to take form in the words of my letter of acceptance. I con-sidered the situation of things in the South, and saw how impossible it seemed to restore order and peace and harmony. I saw the violence and bloodshed at their electionshow white Republicans as well as black were shot down during their political contestsand I asked myself, "Why is it, and how long must this continue?" Those men down South, the white educated citizens, are as good men as you or I; they are Christians, not thieves nor cut-throats nor bandits, ye they see these things, and tacitly appr them if they do not take part in them. Why is it, and how long will they continue? While thinking these questions over, my mind resulted to the scenes of the war, and an incident at the battle of Cedar Mountain came to my mind. It was a hard-fought engagement and for a time we could not tell how it would end. We who were in command had determined that if a certain move ment respited in one way we would give certain orders, but if it resulted otherwise different orders would be given. With our field-glasses we were watching the course of things. All at once I saw a commotion in the thickest of the fray. The artillery had got to work and were throwing shells fast and with unerring aim into the solid ranks of the enemy. Hends were being blown from their bodies, arms and legs torn from their sockets and souls sent to one world or the other al unprepared, and yet I rejoiced and congratu lated my fellow-officers that we were victor ious. How could this be? Why was it? It was because we were at war. That one word solved in my mind the problem of the South The people there were at war. There was: conflict going on. The social and political relations of the people were not natural, no harmenious; There were disturbing elements among them, and while they existed, o were unduly active, there would be a conflict Let the causes of the conflict be removed and there will be peace and ultimately harmeny and prosperity,

"But," said the reporter, "we do not see much disposition in the South to manifest a loving temper towards us of the North." The President mildly retorted: How do you know? You form your opin ions, no doubt, from reading the papers, but editors of newspapers do not always represent the popular general feeling of the people either North or South. I think most of the people, in the South, as I know they are in the North, are more disposed to encourag known, and at the close of his term it was | fraternal, harmonious, social, and business re lations than the extremists who, unfortuna tely, too often get control of newspaper But even these, or most of them, will comaround all right in time.

"Nonsense, Jack! the Free Mason don't have any gridirons to initiate with." "Can't fool ane. Didn't and good judgment, tempered with mercy and hear the janitor of their lodge ordering three base-burners at the hardware store the other day?"

The California election returns indicates that the Democrats will have a majority in the Legislature of thirty eight on joint ballot. This Legislature is to choose a successor to Senator Sargent. Lest it might appear that the Democrats have achieved a great their majority in the last Legislature was upward of sixty. The Republicans have made a gain of over twenty members.

The dif-ferent breeds of cattle, Short Horns, Ayrshire, Devon Holstein, Alderneys and ther breeds with be there in great numbers. As to the horses, some of the very best blood will be represented,

A coroner's jury in Allegheny county has rendered the following verdict in the case of a dead child recently found : "That the said infant came to its death from eight to ten months after its conception from starvation. From the evidence before u believe the child to have been placed in the box alive, due provision having been made for the access of air into the box by means of augur holes, and that it came to its death from want of food."

Augusts, September 17. - The official returns of the recent State election have been compiled at the office of the Kennebec Journal from all the cities towns and plantations in the State, with the exception of fourteen small places. These returns give Selden Conpor (Rep.) for Governor, 53,665; Joseph A. Williams (Dem..) 41, 835; H. C. Munson, (Greenback,) 5,188; scattering, 763. Connor's majority over Williams is 11.830. The aggregate vote fhrown was 101,451, being the largest aggregate vote in any one year except the Presidential year since 1860, when the Republicans came into power. The constitutional amendment in regard to electors posed. None need ever be swindled if that no person who has not paid a poll tax for two years legally assessed shall not vote, was defeated by a vote of 20.370 for to 25,063 against. The amendment to preroads, etc., above existing municipal debts of five per cent. of the valuation was carried by a vote of 40,000 for to 6,000 against

> The farmers around Wilkesbarre and Scranton continue to complain of depreda- 34 tions upon their potato and corn fields by the strikers. Near Plymouth a steer was killed and dressed in the night and the 36 meat carried off. Six men in that region recently accosted an old farmer over sevenly-five years of age, and asked him for some potatoes. The old gentleman at once conceded to their demands, and told them to follow him and he would show them where to get them. On reaching the potato patch he told them they might dig two bushels each, making twelve bushels in all. Not content, however, with the generous donation, they compelled the old man, under threats, to dig them and load them into the wagon, while these heartless gentlemen contented themselves by lighting their pipes and observing the proceedings with of dress goods, also all other kind of for eleven months with a shawl pin, over evident satisfaction and delight.

Pennsylvania, about enough men to fill one regiment have been enrolled. There are a very large number offering that are not and will not be excepted, as they are not the right kind of material. The Pottsville Chronicle says that owing to the fact that the colleries along the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad have sus-engines. It was supposed that they could not use any coal except bituminous, but it seems that the hard coal suits as well. A gentleman in Harrisburg, Pa., has an order for army supplies written by General Putman in 1776. The order is browned by age, is written on a scrap of paper, evi-dently the fly leaf of a blank book, and is

If no more disastrous strikes occur, and harmonious feelings are restored between labor and capital, we see no reason why a healthy trade cannot be done here for the coming months, as crops of all kinds are unusually good and prices satisfactory." A case of rare interest to the medical profession is that of a young daughter of William G. Corbin, of Union Pa. On the 3d of September 1876, she swallowed a shawl pin, which was received in the left lung. For six weeks she experienced no trouble, but at the expiration of that time she had inflammation of the lungs. She was attended by physicians, who advised the parents, who were of course very much alarmed, to trust to the chance of the pin being coughed up rather than have an incision made for the removal of it. This course was pursued. The child recovered her usual condition of health, nearly, and in May coughed up a portion of the pin, it having rusted in two. On the 26th of July the rest of the pin, the head piece, was likewise gotten rid of, and the child is as two inches long, in one of her lungs.
