I propose to help elect a majority of the legislature of 1904 favorable to my caudidacy for the United States senats. Colonel Dick of the Republican national committee is said to have come

He was affected to the state senate on the Union each time overcoming the opposition of Democratic and Regular Republican candidates. He is president of the Bay State Gas company of Delaware and the Staten Island Brick company. Mr. Addicks began his long struggle for a seat in the senate in 1888 when the term of Eli Saulsbury was about to expire. Although unknown to the politicians of Delaware he obtained some backing, but when the Republican legislature met in January, 1889, the caucus nomination went to Anthony Higgins. In 1892 Mr. Addicks again entered the senatoria field, but the Democrats carried the state and George Gray was elected In 1894 when Mr. Higgins' term was about to expire, Addicks made his third essay for the senatorship. From that time dates the split of the party into factions styled Union and Regular Republicans. Addicks returned to the charge in 1898, when there was another deadlock, lasting until adjournment in 1899,

Last year the two Republican fac tions united on a state ticket, which was elected. When the balloting began on Jan. 20 of this year, Addicks again turned up as a candidate for both terms, receiving 21 votes for the long term and 19 for the short term The lines remained practically unbroken until yesterday.
