

SOCIETY

WHILE luggage enough to stall an army of working women in putting it to rights is daily trundled along the streets from the stations, the houses in the more fashionable parts of the city all remain mysteriously closed, and there is not so much as a slat in the blinds turned to admit a ray of light.

However, unless it should turn exceedingly warm, there will be an early exodus back to the Capital, and September will be anything but a dead month. A number of people have found the city such a favorite summer resort—the past Surgeon General and Mrs. Sternberg, for instance—that they have remained here without even a temporary departure for the entire season.

The return of the President on the 20th of this month will bring a vast army of the higher officials back to Washington, and among them all of the members of the Cabinet family. Mrs. Shaw, the Misses Shaw, and Miss Wilson will be the first to return, and by September 20 there will be almost the entire Cabinet family here. Mrs. Morton does not intend to return until the middle of October, and Mrs. McCall may also be late, but the other members' wives will return early.

Then there is the Geographical Congress next week, which brings a large body of notable foreigners, and all of our own notables back to town. While later will be the various receptions to be given in honor of the Archbishop of Canterbury, among them that at the White House with the President as host.

The diplomatists will not make an early return this year, except those to attend the congress, and it is positively stated that the German ambassador will not give up his cottage at Lenox until the last of October, while the Austrian ambassador and Baroness Hengelmüller, who are to spend the fall there, are likely to remain late.

The Mexican ambassador, Senor de Azpiroz, is expected at the embassy, in I Street, within the coming week. He has taken a complete rest at his seashore cottage at Allenhurst, N. J., having felt entire confidence in leaving the official routine here to the care of Senor Torres, third secretary of the embassy.

Throughout the entire summer Senor Torres has kept at his post, journeying each evening to Rockville, where Senora de Torres has been comfortably located for the warm weather. They will maintain their summer home there until the embassy staff are reunited here, later on, for the winter.

Senor Canseco, who has been at Cape May for the greater part of the summer, maintaining there his reputation for unusual popularity among the members of the fair sex, will return this week, to be on hand when his chief arrives.

Gay life at Lenox is not likely to wane until the very last of September, and there are those of the gay world who annually wait in the mountain resort until the forests are crimson and gold with autumn tints.

There is the gymkhana games this week, when more than thirty of the Berkshire hunters who have practiced the games for days past will show their skill. The British ambassador, a stately Britisher with charming manners, will take part in the performance, while Percy Wyndham and Hugh Gurney, secretaries of the British embassy, will show their skill both in games and in the management of the affair.

The proceeds from this fashionable show will go to Miss Folsom's sanitarium for convalescent patients, which she is conducting a few miles from Lenox. Miss Folsom makes no charge for patients, and this contribution will enable her to keep the estate open until after frost.

Then next on the program for Lenox is the horse show, to which again the British ambassador and Miss Durand will lend interest. Sir Mortimer will ride his famous English hunter which balked at the hurdle with Miss Durand at the Chevy Chase horse show last spring, while Miss Durand, probably afraid to risk him again, will enter the driving class. Miss Durand's horses may be faulty, but she is a plucky English horsewoman, and, with Mrs. de Chair, the pretty young wife of the naval attaché of the British embassy, is reckoned the best rider in the Berkshires.

September 16 is the date of the horse show ball, given by the Berkshire Hunt, which will be a brilliant closing to the magnificent outdoor program of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Westinghouse have just bid good-by to their last house party until after their return to Lenox from the World's Fair, which will, however, be in time for the horse show.

Miss Margaret Wadsworth, of Albany, N. Y.; Miss Cornelia Hunt, of Washington, and Samuel W. Dudley, of New Haven, were the guests.

Nothing has yet been heard from Mr. and Mrs. Westinghouse about their return to Washington for the coming season, but it is to be hoped that their fine house on Dupont Circle will not remain closed through another winter. It was Mr. and Mrs. Westinghouse who introduced to Washington society Earl Gray, who has just been appointed governor general of Canada by King Edward, to take the place of the Earl of Minto. Then, too, they have brought a number of other charming notables to the Capital who would not otherwise have been presented here.

Mrs. Westinghouse had a plan for enlarging her residence, which was built by the late James G. Blaine, and not adapted well to large functions, by the addition of a banquet room and large conservatories, which would occupy the entire lot upon which the house is located. However, ill health drove her to take various trips to Europe, and the improvements were delayed. It is hoped this season will bring her back.

Newport's fashionable set generously responded yesterday when Miss Marie von Unschuld gave a recital, the proceeds of which will go to the scholarship fund of the University of Music and Dramatic Arts, in this city, of which Miss von Unschuld is president.

Mrs. Ogden Mills entertained at a luncheon for Miss Roosevelt. Two Newport hostesses have arranged large and imposing functions for September 6, both to be dinner dances and both sending out invitations to the same set in society. There might be some really hard feelings over the matter but for the fact that hostess number one has announced that she will curtail the magnificence of her affair by only having forty guests at dinner, later a vaudeville show, and then a dance. Just what the other hostess will offer is not known, but the clash is watched with great interest by society people.

Social Gossip

The Rev. Dr. Randolph H. McKim is making a short stay at the Riggs House.

MISS CYNTHIA ROCHE.

Miss Roche is distinguished this season, not only for her wonderful horsemanship at all of the prominent horse shows of the country, but as the special chum and companion at Newport of Miss Alice Roosevelt, the President's daughter. With Miss Roosevelt she became the pupil in equestrianism last week of a fashionable Newport beau, and championed Miss Roosevelt in her country dance, by moonlight, which was chaperoned by Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, the hostess of the President's daughter at the time.

MISS DIANE MORGAN HILL.

Since Miss Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Morgan Hill, made her debut in Washington last winter, she has been one of the most entertained young ladies of her set, and at Dinard, France, where she is now staying with her parents, she was the guest of honor at a large dinner party last week, when Mrs. Hughes Hallett was hostess. Last season's gossip connected the name of pretty Miss Hill with that of an attaché of the Russian embassy, and it is said that a serious love affair threatening was the cause of the hasty departure of the Morgan Hills for Europe in April, before the social season had fairly closed.

MISS KATE DEERING.

Miss Deering, of Washington, has been one of the most courted women at the Warm Springs of Virginia this summer, where she has spent the entire season with her mother. Her engagement to an official of high rank is rumored, and may come among the announcements of society love affairs later in the season. Miss Deering is of a distinguished type of beauty, accomplished, and possessed of a fine womanly character which has not only won her friends at the Virginia resort, but has kept her friends among the leading society people of this country and Europe for some years past.

Weddings.

Among the interesting weddings of last week was that of Miss Cora Louise Lumsden, formerly of Detroit, Mich., and Lafayette Parker Temple, of Washington, which took place at the home of the bride's mother, in LeDroit Park, last Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Rev. John M. Schick performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by only the relatives of the young people. The rooms were profusely decorated with palms and flowers, a bower being formed in the bay window where the bride and groom stood for the ceremony.

The bride, wearing a graceful robe of white lace, entered the drawing room on the arm of her mother, preceded by the bridesmaid, Miss Grace Graham, of Topeka, Wis., a cousin of the groom, who wore a gown of pink. At the altar of flowers they met the groom and his best man, Odell Whipple, of this city.

After the reception, which was attended by a large number of the friends of the bride and groom, Mr. Temple and his bride left for Cooperstown, N. Y., the birthplace of the groom; New York, Philadelphia, and Atlantic City, at which places they will spend a month of their honeymoon. Upon their return to Washington, October 1, they will make their home with Mr. Temple's mother at 212 First Street northwest.

Mr. Temple is president of the Temple School of Photography and Typewriting, and one of his most highly prized gifts was a Wernicke bookcase from his friends there.

Among other relatives attending the wedding was Mrs. Euphelia L. Parker, grandmother of the groom, who is eighty-eight years of age, and who told interestingly of her own wedding journey years ago, made through the lake region above Chicago, when only log houses and Indians marked the trail.

Miss Susan Dixon, of Anacostia, and William H. Stant, of Washington, were married Wednesday evening last at the rectory of St. Teresa's Church, 44 Washington Street, Anacostia.

The Rev. Charles M. Bart, the pastor, performed the ceremony. After the service the couple left for their home on Third Street southeast, where entertainment was provided for a large number of guests.

Engagements.

Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Marsh Saunders have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Tuna V., to Percy Hicking Russell of this city, Wednesday afternoon, September 14, at 2:30 o'clock, Methodist Episcopal Church, Kenmore N. Y.

A reception will follow immediately after the ceremony of Miss Russell. The couple will be at home after November 1 at 315 Eleventh Street northwest, this city.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Clark for the marriage of their daughter, Alice Grace, to David Edgar Stephan at Grace Lutheran Church Wednesday evening, September 7, at 8 o'clock. Owing to a very recent death in Mr. Stephan's family, there will be but a small reception to the members of the immediate families at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Behrends, 1135 Sixth Street northwest, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miriam S., to Phil M. May of Charleston, W. Va. At home Sunday, September 11, from 8 to 10 p. m.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Jeannette Catherine MacAllister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander MacAllister, to Louis Edward Langill, of Kensington, Md., on September 7, at the home of the parents of the bride-elect, in Takoma Park, Md. A reception will follow the ceremony.

The engagement has been announced of Capt. Preston Brown, U. S. A., and Miss Susan Dorrance, of Wilkesbarre, Pa.

News at Resorts

It is too bad the bracelet habit has struck Viscount de Chambrun, for with such a popular advocate of an altogether queer habit it may become a rage among Washington society men.

Fredrick Gebhard and Harry Lehr are said to wear bracelets, which is not sure, and a like comment is attributed to Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador; Baron Speck von Sternburg, the German ambassador; the late Sir Michael Herbert, ambassador to America, and a lot of other well known men, none of whom would be copied in such a matter.

However, for Viscount de Chambrun to adopt the custom—and his bracelet is said to be a dainty affair of contrivance links, which cannot be removed from the arm without cutting—well, that is different. He is the chosen friend of Representative Gillett, Representative Adams, Representative Nick Longworth, all of whom may chance to fancy the viscount's pretty ornament.

While the fad may be admired in ambassadors and such, the appearance of a member in the House of Representatives wearing a bracelet would create a stampede from other parts of the country than Texas. It is hoped the Representatives will not take the viscount's bracelet seriously.

Lieut. Arthur MacArthur, Jr., and Mrs. MacArthur, celebrated their first wedding anniversary August 21, with the christening of their little son, Arthur MacArthur the third, who was born at Mare Island, Cal., June 29. Mrs. MacArthur was before marriage Miss Mary Hendry McCalla, daughter of Capt. Bowman H. McCalla, and her wedding in this city was quite an affair.

The christening took place in St. Peter's Chapel with Chaplain A. A. McAllister officiating; Rear Admiral B. H. McCalla acting as godfather. The other sponsors were Mrs. MacArthur's brother-in-law and sister, Lieut. W. G. Miller, of the United States steamer Boston, and Mrs. Miller.

A large and beautiful reception followed the christening, when all of the prominent army folks of Mare Island were entertained and refreshed in the elaborately decorated quarters of the happy young parents.

Associate Justice and Mrs. Oliver Wendell Holmes entertained Baron Klenko, of Japan, at their place, at Beverly Farms, Mass., after which he left for Bar Harbor, where he will be the guest of prominent people.

Ambassador George von L. Meyer has returned to his New England estate from a visit to Bar Harbor, and after some fishing and general fall sport will return to the embassy at Rome, during this month. Gen. William F. Draper, the former ambassador to that court, is now at St. Petersburg, with Mrs. Draper.

The Rev. Edward Everett Hale, D. D., and Mrs. Hale made a visit to Miss Hattie Freeman, at her charming summer cottage at Intervale, N. H., last week. They spent their time in driving and walking over the beautiful country, and a few days ago took luncheon with friends at the Mount Washington Hotel, in the Bretton Woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Graham Bell, who spent the first part of the summer at their estate, Bellin Bhreagh, Nova Scotia, have gone to the Bretton Woods, where they were joined by Mrs. Bell's mother, Mrs. Gardiner Hubbard. They will remain in the White Mountains for some time, probably returning in time for the congress of the National Geographic Society, which opens here September 8. A formal reception will be given the members of this august body at the Gardiner Memorial Hall the evening of September 7.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Thomas have reached the Mount Pleasant Hotel in the White Mountains for a visit.

Lieutenant Peary, the explorer, and Mrs. Peary, who are spending the summer on one of the islands in Portland harbor, visited Mount Washington last week, and with their little daughter, the only white child ever born in Greenland, went to the summit of Mount Washington.

Representative Butler Ames spent some time last week at the Mount Washington, in the Bretton Woods.

Beriah Wilkins has been among the prominent Washington people at Poland Springs for some time, and has much improved in health by his stay there.

Joseph E. Washington, Jr., of West-yrington, Tenn., son of the former representative of that district, is spending a few days in town. For several years past his father has had a most hospitable home on Connecticut Avenue, above Dupont Circle. This will again be opened next winter in case Mrs. Washington decides to emulate her popular elder sister's example and have her coming-out at the National Capital.

Mr. and Mrs. Crosby S. Noyes have returned to their country place, Altan Farm, after a summer spent at Poland Springs, Me. They have with them Theodore W. Noyes and family and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Noyes.

Mrs. John B. Baggott is entertaining a house party at her cottage, Ocean Vista, Ocean City, Md., and among the guests are Mrs. Russell A. Fish, Miss Ethel Fish, Miss Maud Baggott, of New York; Miss Newton, Roswell Alexander Fish, Mr. Van Arden, and Mr. Cawton.

Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards is now at the Aspinwall, in the Berkshire Hills, and is one of the greatest golf enthusiasts, the lovers of this sport taking advantage of the fine moonlight nights of the past two weeks to enjoy the pastime.

Ex-President and Mrs. Grover Cleveland have left Sandwich, N. H., where they occupied a historic estate during July and August, and are now at Gray Gables, Buzzards Bay, where the President goes for fall fishing and shooting.

Capt. Samuel B. Diehl, former commander of the Boston, but now Judge Advocate General of the Navy, has been presented with a unique souvenir by the engineers of the Boston, the gift being a stein made from a six-pound cartridge case, a shell, and a six-pound naval gun. The stein is inscribed, "Presented to Commander Samuel B. Diehl by the engineer force, U. S. steamer Boston."

Mrs. Kierstedt, wife of Lieut. Henry Kierstedt, U. S. A., who is stationed at Fort Meyer, Va., will pass the winter months with Mr. and Mrs. Peter McG. McLean, at the Hotel Richelieu, San Francisco, Cal.

Assistant United States Attorney General Milton D. Purdy and family, of this city, are at Magnolia Beach, Mass., for the rest of the season.

Capt. and Mrs. John H. Russell and their daughter will spend September at the home of Mr. Russell's parents, Grey-stone, Charming, Pa.

Mrs. Kathleen Kline, daughter of Brig. Gen. Jacob Kline, U. S. A., retired, and Mrs. Kline, will spend the remainder of the season at Gloucester, Mass.

Mrs. John C. Ingersoll, widow of the late John C. Ingersoll, who was United States consul at Cartagena, Colombia, and who died at Colon on his way home, has taken her children and her mother, Mrs. John J. Hurrows, to Boonesboro, Md., for the rest of the season.

White Sulphur Springs.

It has been such a pleasant summer for everybody at White Sulphur that people are loath to depart, the hotel and cottages still running, well filled, while the daily arrivals are almost as numerous as in the earlier season.

The gayeties continue, the regular evening hops, suppers, luncheons, and coaching parties filling in what time there is to spare from the out-of-door life which is so attractive here at this season.

Large card parties have also been particularly numerous during the week, one of the handsomest of the season being given on Monday morning by Mrs. Calvin De Witt, wife of General De Witt, U. S. A., and Mrs. William Baird, wife of Captain Baird, U. S. A., both of Washington. Four handed progressive euchre was played, each table being attractive with its own bonbons and individual favors for score cards.

Other attractive card parties of the week were those given by Mrs. M. Q. Holt, of Surry county, Va., and by Mrs. T. B. Neal, of Nashville, Tenn. Dr. Blanchard, U. S. A., and Mrs. Blanchard, formerly Miss Mary De Witt, of Washington, are recent popular arrivals at the White, where Mrs. Blanchard will spend the remainder of the season with her mother, Mrs. Calvin De Witt.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Burke, of Alexandria, Va., who, with their daughter, Miss Burke, and their sons, the Messrs. Burke, are always among the most prominent and charming of the regular habitués of the White, are still occupying their cottage here, and have as their guest Miss F. S. Herbert, of Alexandria.

Mrs. Sanford C. Kellogg and her daughter, Miss Kellogg, of Washington, and the Rev. and Mrs. P. Phillips of Alexandria, Va., will also remain on until the place closes, the middle of September.

Mrs. Wilton J. Lambert, who has been spending August at the White, and who has been one of the most attractive and generally admired members of the younger married set at the springs this season, left on Monday, with her two little children, to visit her father, Senator Gorman, at Laurel, before joining Mr. Lambert's family at their cottage at Deer Park for the remainder of September.

Another young matron, who is being much admired at the Springs for her attractive appearance and charming manners is Mrs. Stickney, wife of Lieutenant Stickney, U. S. N., now on duty on the battleship Texas. From this place Mrs. Stickney will go to Brooklyn, where Lieutenant Stickney will shortly be ordered on shore duty at the navy yard, with the rank of lieutenant commander.

Capt. and Mrs. William Baird, who have been spending the summer at the White Sulphur, have returned to Washington for a while, before removing to Annapolis, where they have recently taken a house in order that Captain Baird may be in close touch with his duties as military aide to Governor Warfield.

Mrs. Rozier Dulany, who, with her little daughter, has been spending August at the White, will visit her sister, Mrs. Robert E. Lee, in Richmond, before returning to Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Goldsborough are recent additions to the Washington colony at the White.

Mrs. Alderice, the well-known authoress, who is now making Washington her home, after several years spent abroad, has left the White Sulphur for Atlantic City.
