As the last words of the benediction were pronounced and the clergy had re-tired to the vestry room, the active palltired to the vesity room, the active pall-bearers in their letter carriers' uniforms took hold of the casket and hore it through the H Street exit to the hearse in waiting cutside. Secretar 4x Hay, Hitchcock, and Wilson, as hozorary palibearers, followed immediately. While the family remained for a brief moment the President and Mrs. Roosevelt left the church and took the carriage in waiting for them and drove to the White House. Mrs. Payne and Mrs. Cameron then entered a carriage together, while the others of the party were distributed in following carriages.

Carriers as Escort.

As the hearse moved off the long line of uniformed letter carriers, which had formed on H Street near the residence of Secretary Hay, moved into place, act-of Secretary Hay, moved into place, acting as an escort.

Slowly the cortege moved through Nineteenth Street, down Pennsylvania Avenue, and thence to the Pennsylvania Railroad station. Along the route many stood bareheaded as the 120 gray-coated letter carriers tramped past with the carriages following.

Reaching the depot the casket was taken at once to the ear in waiting under the shed, and placed therein.

Placed in the Car.

The casket was placed in the center and was banked in flowers, Mrs. Payne and the immediate family occupied seats near it. During the wait at the station the Rev. Roland Cotton Smith remain ed in the car with Mrs. Payne and the relatives, affording such spiritual com-relatives, affording such spiritual comfort as possible.

Another car attached was reserved for Secretaries Wilson and Hitchcock, who will accompany the body to Milwaukee as representatives of the Cabinet and Assistant Postmaster General Shallenberger, who will represent the Postofice Department at the services to be held there. Secretary of Commerce and Labor Metcalf will aiso be a Cabinet representative at the Milwaukee services, meeting the party there.

The train bearing Mr. Payne's body to his home leaves Washington this afternoon at 3:39. Reaching Milwaukee Saturday evening, the remains will be taken to the city hall, where they will lie in state until 12 o'clock noon Sunday. The casket will then be removed to All Saints' Cathedral, where services will be conducted by Bishop I. L. Nicholson, at 3 p. m., after which the remains will be taken to Forest Home Cemetery for interment.

designated by the Marine Corps, was pervision of the arrangements.

The feature of a military escort was eliminated from the funeral arrangements because of the fact that Postmaster General Payne was not a G. A. R. man. This was thought to be the sase at first, and preparations had been adde to order out a military escort. On learning of the true state of afirs, that Mir. Payne, though offering join the army, had been rejected on ount of his small stature, the mility honors due to a United States of or Grand Army man had to be Army and Navy Ushers.
