STANDPAT TARIFF CAMP STARTLED

Pittsburg Gazette Explodes an Unexpected Bomb.

SIGNIFICANT STAND TAKEN

Revision Demanded From a Source That Creates Much Surprise in Certain Quarters.

The Pittsburg Gazette today exploded real bomb in the standpat tariff camp by coming out in a leading editorial de manding revision of the tariff by the coming long session of Congress. Established 120 years ago, the Gazette has been a Republican paper since be-fore the Republican party was really founded. Its editor of that day, 'Deacon" White, was a delegate to the first Republican national convention, which was held in Pittsburg in 1856, and numinated Frement for President.

High Protective Organ.

Always an organ of the high protect tive tariff system, the Gazette would no more have been suspected of wavering in that faith than would the American Economist. It is owned by the great Oliver family of Pittsburg, of which George T. Oliver, multi-millionaire, steel and iron magnate, and Quay politician, is now the head. His brother, Henry W. Oliver, who died a year ago, was a leading candidate for the Senate. The paper in every affiliation from the day the Republican party was born and in all its antecedents before that time was related to the interests that today carry the banner of "stand pat."

Pittsburg, where the Gazette is the leading newspaper, is the very heart of American industry, the greatest tonage-producing city in the world, the city of Carnegie, and Frick, and the multitude of millionaires whose fortunes have been made out of protected indushave been made out of protected indus-try. The Olivers still own the Oliver Iron and Steel Company; they sold im-mense other interests to the trust, and hold the is and and stocks of the trust. Yet their rich and powerful newspaper declares that the time has come for tariff revision, and that it must not be post-poned. The editorial follows:

"Revise the Tariff."

In this broad country with its abounding prosperity there are unmistukable signs of unrest. The common people, grown rotund with fatness, have forgotten the lean years and are de-manding a change in the tariff laws. There is no better time than the present to undertake revision. This Fifty-ninth Congress of the United States is peculiarly fitted for the task and ought to perform the duty. Revise the tariff now and then and let it alone for the next ten years. "In advocating present revision of the tariff schedules the Gazette does not believe the existing tariff to be injurious is harmed. The Gazette abates none of significance, his party stood pat on a its faith in the protective principle. It its faith in the protective principle. It hand that could not have been improved stands, as it has always stood, for pro- That hand has been played for five tection to American labor and American years of unexampled prosperity, and stands, as it has always stood, for protection to American labor and American capital. There is no room to doubt that a protective tariff is the basis of national prosperity. The student of history cannot avoid that conclusion if he follow the lines with an open mind. Revision of the tariff at this time must be on sound protective lines and no other.

For Revision.

"The Fifty-ninth Congress is a Resound. Speaker Joseph G. Cannon is a protectionist; Sereno E. Payne, John Dalzell. Charles H. Grosvenor. ranking members of the Committee on Ways and Means; these are among the most ardent protectionists in this country. With these men to lead and a solid phalanx of Republicans behind them, when the tariff is taken up for revision it will be in the bands of its fleads. It will be in the bands of its fleads. It will be in the bands of its fleads. It will be in the bands of its fleads. It will be in the bands of its fleads. in the hands of its friends. It will be revised right. No industry, no material interest will suffer. There ought not to be any fear about revising the tariff while these men, good and true, are there to do it. There ought not to be any delay to a less opportune time.

DEATH WAS RURAL LETTER CARRIER

Faithful Horse, Unguided, Went On.

MASTER DIED IN WAGON

Tragedy Discovered Only After Nearly Entire Route Had Been Traversed by Gruesome Passenger.

STAMFORD, Conn., Sept. 8 .- Death was the driver and letter carrier on the rural delivery route of Frederick H. Lockwood, of New Canaan yesterday. Lockwood left New Canaan early in the morning in perfect health to go over his route. He was driving his favorite horse, one that had been in the service since the rural delivery was started. Just after going on his route Lockwood suffered a stroke of apoplexy and died. He fell back in his wagon, hidden from view by the mail sacks and the canvas

The faithful old horse, accustomed to going over the route almost daily, made the usual rounds. He stopped at the mail boxes along the route. After standing at a box for the usual time to allow for the deposit and collection of mall the horse would jog along to the next box.

He had almost completed the route when he came to a standstill in front of the residence of Daniel Hamilton. The fact that the horse remained still so long and nothing was seen of Lockwood attracted the attention of persons in the house. They went out to investigate and found Lockwood dead.
