

CHEVY CHASE CLUB PLAYS FAST GOLF

Players Bothered Somewhat by the Wind.

THREE PRIZES OFFERED

Thirty-eight Starters for the Preliminary Round—Eighteen Holes.

The Chevy Chase Thanksgiving golf began at 10 o'clock this morning with the Scotch foursome play.

The players are much bothered by a severe wind from the northwest, which makes the results problematical until the last moment of play and has kept all the scores high. Otherwise the conditions on the links are ideal.

Three prizes have been offered for today. The club gives two handsome silver vases, one for the best play in the morning and one for the afternoon. A. S. Worthington gives a handsome silver vase to the individual player making the lowest net metal score during the entire day's play.

Eighteen holes will be played in the morning and the afternoon.

Wind Interfered.

The play this morning was for the purpose of determining the pairs this afternoon in the brand new foursome scheme which the club has invented and which was explained in The Times yesterday. The wind spoiled a great many shots and some of the best players handed in such poor cards that the officials said they would not announce the results of the morning round until all the contestants had made the preliminary round.

The Contestants.

Thirty-eight starters are trying for the prizes. They are:

J. M. Rankin, J. H. Buckenstien, J. D. Patton, A. S. Worthington, R. Stead, R. H. Thayer, H. Putnam, W. C. Ford, J. L. Newbold, J. E. McFarlan, W. F. Ham, W. S. Peters, M. Mariati, L. W. Glazebrook, R. Jenkins, J. Vazdar, S. Slamese minister, A. T. King, E. Freshford, W. G. Longest, B. Miller, J. Biddle, A. J. Jones, R. E. Knott, H. Kilphart, E. H. Loftus, C. A. Crawford.

G. S. Walton, C. J. Fradley, Mr. Whitehouse, J. Dulab, E. C. Hald, R. C. Haydon, G. T. Dunlap, G. C. Lafferty, C. Harrison, J. H. Clapo, W. M. Gray, M. Thomson.

Two Handicaps for The Columbia Club

One of the largest and most stubbornly contested golf tournaments of the season in this vicinity is in progress today on the links of the Columbia Golf Club in Brigatwood. The two handicap matches are well filled.

The sudden change in the weather was regarded as an omen of success, but the high wind, which prevailed during the morning and afternoon, interfering with the same to such an extent that record was in no danger.

Two events constitute the program. First, the handicap against bogey, for the Byron S. Adams trophy, and second, the "kicker's handicap," for the George A. and John L. Weaver trophies.

Kicker's Chance.

The last named match is quite peculiar in itself, and is comparatively new at this club. It appears to be the consensus of opinion among golf experts that almost every contestant in a handicap match is inclined to "kick," as that work in used in the vernacular of the street, and to obviate any unnecessary argument over the results assigned by the committee in charge, each player is entitled to select his own handicap. A certain score is included in an envelope, and at the close of the game the player therein enclosed and the score made by the contestant is compared, and in this manner the winner of the event is decided.

A number of well-known society women are attending the tournament, and a Thanksgiving party will be served in the grill room.

Some of the participants in the morning round were:

M. E. Danforth, W. I. Lembeck, E. M. Smith, L. B. Platt, D. H. MacAdams, T. Phelps, G. E. Lewis, W. S. Sample, E. S. Duval, J. W. W. Rich, H. T. Sanford, Frank Gorman, John E. Wilkie, D. K. Jackson, R. E. Clouston, R. B. Brown, A. J. Clark, W. M. Hall.

Qualifying Round At Bannockburn

A high wind blowing across the links did not damp the large number of enthusiastic golfers who gathered at the Bannockburn Golf Club this morning for the qualifying round for the first and second sixteens of the Thanksgiving tournament.

Play was begun early, but the wind, together with the somewhat soggy condition of the links, prevented the entrants from reaching their usual form. Scores came in slowly, and the caddies were kept busy recovering lost balls.

Two attractive prizes will be awarded the gentlemen. A silver-headed umbrella to the winner, and a silver cigarette case to the runner-up. The ladies' prizes will be a silver powder box to the winner, and a silver cigarette case to the runner-up.

HEBREWS CELEBRATE LANDING ANNIVERSARY

Union Services in Eighth Street Synagogue This Morning—Thanksgiving Sermon and Talk on Russia.

A joint session of synagogues, celebrating the 25th anniversary of the landing of Hebrews in America, was held at the Temple on Eighth street northwest, at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The services were presided over by Rabbi Stern, who delivered a short "Thanksgiving sermon and gave the benediction."

Mr. Aaron Simon was the principal speaker. He talked of the work of the Hebrews in the past and of what they are doing and should continue to do in suppressing the wholesale massacring of the Jews in Russia.

A Thanksgiving prayer followed Dr. Simon's address.

TRAIN AND WAGON BUMP.

A passenger train on the Pennsylvania railroad collided with a team of horses at Third street and Virginia avenue southwest yesterday afternoon, injuring one of the horses and badly damaging the wagon.

The dirt wagon was the property of Joseph Latimer, of 134 Sixth street southwest, and was in charge of Isaac Wheeler, colored.

The driver saw the train bearing down on the wagon he jumped to the ground and escaped with slight bruises. The wheels of the engine cut one of the horses' shoulders so severely that about fifteen stitches had to be taken by a veterinarian.

Have You a "HOME" In Your Home?

The new model "Home" Edison Phonograph is one of the complete talking machines ever put on the market. The rounded sapphire point to the reproducer makes the tones wonderfully clear, and does away with all that rasping that you dislike in other machines, and the new Flower Horn is both handsome and effective.

We carry the largest stock of Edison and Victor machines in the city, and have thousands and thousands of records.

ARGUMENT BEGINS ON MERIWETHER

fight on the night of November 5, has been submitted and the summing up of the defense and the prosecution will wind up the most remarkable court-martial ever held here at the Naval Academy.

The understanding is that after reading the record of yesterday, Lieutenant Commander Robinson, counsel for the accused, and the judge advocate, for the prosecution, will ask the court to fix the allowance of time for each side. It is most likely that an adjournment will follow until Monday, which will be devoted to the summing up.

After the arguments, the case will be taken under consideration by the court and the findings will be forwarded to the Navy Department, where the court's decision will be given to the public.

Nothing Sensational.

Contrary to expectations, there was really nothing sensational in yesterday's proceedings. All interest was centered in Meriwether and his story of the trouble that finally led to the fight, the outcome of which is this court-martial and the exposure of methods in vogue at the Academy.

It was remarked by those who heard Meriwether's testimony that he only told in a connected way the story told in piecemeal by the witnesses who preceded him. This, of course, did not include the story told by the doctors.

The manner of the accused while in the witness chair was frank and open, and never once did he hesitate, except when asked to tell just what the incident was for which he "called Branch down," an incident which happened a week or two after Meriwether's entrance into the Academy. Meriwether replied: "I'd rather not tell that here, sir."

It was not pressed. He told in detail of the running he received at the hands of Branch while a fourth class man, and then related the several occasions on which Branch had sought to have others list him. He was never reported by Branch, except once, that he knew of, and that was on the Hartford, and grew out of the fruit incident.

Meriwether told a straight story from beginning to end, and not a point was scored against him by the judge advocate or United States District Attorney Rose, in a severe cross-examination. Meriwether, who was called as a witness in rebuttal for the prosecution, but a change was made in the program at the last moment, and he was not called.

Last evening Midshipman J. R. Williams, a first class man, who testified on Tuesday, that Captain Osterhaus had rebuked Midshipman Morrison for not reporting an insult, was dismissed. It was said his dismissal was not due to his testimony given before the Meriwether court-martial, but was for failure in his studies.

Testify for Branch.

In rebuttal, the judge advocate called Midshipmen Hicks, Pritchard, and Pugh to prove that Branch's character, was above reproach, and that he was in every sense a gentleman and the son of honor. Midshipmen Scott and Howell gave a somewhat different version of the Hartford incident. The purport of their testimony being that all the midshipmen, except Meriwether, hastily turned in when ordered to do so by Branch. Meriwether, they said, was one of the last to turn in. Howell said he advised Branch to report Meriwether.

It was not made clear just why Admiral Sands, superintendent of the Academy, was called in rebuttal. It was not brought out at any time that Admiral Sands had opposed fighting in his testimony, the admiral said he regarded fighting as a gross disorder, and the authorities did not countenance it. He would give fifty demerits for provoking a fight, which, in his judgment, was a severe punishment, as a sufficient number of demerits would terminate a midshipman's service at the Academy.

Admiral Sands wanted it understood that he was following the tradition here as he found them, but, in his opinion, discipline would not be a too great punishment for fighting.

Doctors Add Little.

Dr. Thomas, of Baltimore, who assisted at the operation on Branch's head, and Dr. Byrnes, of the Academy, who assisted at the autopsy, were called in rebuttal, but they did not throw any new light on the subject. They were still of the opinion expressed to the court last Thursday, that blows to the head were the primary causes of death.

Admiral Brownson, Admiral Sands' predecessor as superintendent of the Academy, was expected to be called as a witness in rebuttal for the prosecution, but a change was made in the program at the last moment, and he was not called.

Last evening Midshipman J. R. Williams, a first class man, who testified on Tuesday, that Captain Osterhaus had rebuked Midshipman Morrison for not reporting an insult, was dismissed. It was said his dismissal was not due to his testimony given before the Meriwether court-martial, but was for failure in his studies.
