

EQUIPMENT OF WAR NOW BEING STORED BY DISTRICT GUARD

Hundreds of Tents Are Drying on the Monument Grounds.

SUCCESS OF CAMP PLEASES OFFICERS

Believe, However, Period of Instruction Should Be Extended.

Spread out on the Monument grounds today are hundreds of brown tents brought back by the District National Guard from Camp Ordway, near Frederick, Md., yesterday. The tents are the officers' wall tents, the hospital tents and a few of the mess tents, but altogether represent less than one-third of the canvas used during the encampment. Over two-thirds of the canvas was rolled up Friday when it was dry, so it did not have to be opened today.

That which was taken down wet was hauled to the Monument grounds as soon as it was unloaded from the cars at the Eckington freight station of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. It looked as though Monday was wash day for warriors as well as housekeepers, because the men were busy spreading the damp cloth on the grass as fast as it was delivered. The question of drying blankets will be left to the individual man, each one having to care for his personal equipment. Inspections will be made to see that he does not shirk.

Will Inspect Rifles.
Lieut. John Doyle Carmody has been ordered to inspect every rifle carried to camp by the guardsmen. This will be a task of many days. The damp weather experienced during the last days of the camp rusted the barrels of all the rifles, and makes much cleaning necessary.

At the close of the "war" yesterday, Brig. Gen. George H. Harries and his staff officers, including colonels, majors, and captains, showed that they could be "real soldiers" like the humblest private instead of riding on pompous steeds, they loped through mud and water from Camp Ordway to the Frederick station, a distance of three miles, but all of them showed they were not used to such strenuous exercise in warm weather.

Storing Impediments.
At all the armories today the work of storing the impediments is progressing. It will be several days before everything is replaced.

Hundreds of men arose this morning after their first good sleep in ten days, and many of them were glad they did not have to go to work until 9 o'clock instead of 5:15. Sleeping, or attempting to sleep, on cots and on the ground at the camp was something not thoroughly enjoyed by all. The long hikes, the late liberties and the early rising were hard combinations for Morpheus to fight.

General Harries and the other officers were well pleased to see the camp, but all are of the opinion that an encampment should not be for a shorter time than fourteen days. It took nearly a week for the men to become acclimated and it was only during the last few days that real results began to be seen.

Funeral Services for O. H. P. Clark Tomorrow

ROCKVILLE, Md., Aug. 28.—Funeral services for Oliver H. P. Clark, aged and highly respected citizen of Montgomery county, will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from the Grace Episcopal Church, at Woodside, burial to be in St. John's Catholic Cemetery, Forest Glen.

Mr. Clark, who was in his seventy-ninth year, had been a resident of Montgomery county all his life. He had been in good health until Sunday morning, when he arose about 6 o'clock and started toward the barn. A few minutes later he was found dead. Heart failure was the cause of death.

Capital Exhibitors to Show at Warrenton

Washington horsemen will go tomorrow to the last horse show of the Virginia circuit—the Warrenton show. They said today they expected it to be the best of the season, which has been one of unusual brilliance. A few of the exhibitors are: M. C. Hazen, Lee Heckinger, and Thomas Bones, who have shown horses at nearly all the Virginia shows this year, will have exhibits at Warrenton, and it is believed that they will repeat the successes they have had so far. Each of them has brought back ribbons from every show they have entered. Miss Amy De Witt, of Williamsburg, well known in Washington, will show at Warrenton.

Fourth Assistant Postmaster General F. V. DeGraw, who was invited to be a judge, had to decline because of pressing business.

The Warrenton show, the eleventh of the circuit, already has more entries than any of the others, it is reported by Blair Johnson, of Warrenton, its manager. The show ring at Warrenton is especially attractive, and there is no show to which horsemen look forward with more pleasure.

Boiled to Death.

WATERLOO, Iowa, Aug. 28.—E. A. Morgan, a well-known business man of this city, was scalded to death in a bath tub. Mr. Morgan was subject to vertigo, and it is thought he suffered an attack while filling the tub. A gas heater was running hot water into the tub, and the unconscious man was boiled, when found two and a half hours later.

HOME FROM CRUISE, MIDDIES WILL HAVE MONTH AS CIVILIANS

Six Hundred Academy Boys to Spread Over Country on Shore Leave.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 28.—Steaming up the Chesapeake Bay today, three United States battleships, the Iowa, Indiana, and Massachusetts, are covering the last few miles of a foreign cruise that carried 600 of Uncle Sam's embryonic naval officers to Ireland, Germany, Norway, and the straits of Gibraltar. The 600 embryo admirals are the midshipmen in the United States Naval Academy, who spend the eight months' academic year in Annapolis, and during the three summer months get practical sea experience in a long summer cruise.

The second 600 midshipmen leave the decks of the battleships for the soil of Annapolis they will be transformed from dignified, businesslike young navy officers into care-free, pleasure-loving young men. With the taking off of their blue uniforms, they will shed care for one solid month. There will be a dash for the new civilian clothes, ordered before they left for their foreign cruise in anticipation of the month's vacation allowed in September. For eleven months these 600 men have worn the uniform dictated by Uncle Sam, and not once during that time, even though liberty have been allowed to put on civilian clothes.

All Restrictions Drops.
All restrictions that have been as ironclad as the battleships during the last eleven months have been removed now, and for thirty days the midshipmen may do what they please, go where they please, and sleep as long as they please.

Within the next twenty-four hours these 600 young men, who for nearly a year have slept together, eaten together, worked together and played together, will be scattering to every State in the Union. "Home" is the destination of nearly every midshipman, and the ship will be scattering to every State in getting them to their destination. Of course, there are many things to tell "her" about the Lakes of Killarney, the Rhine, the Elbe, the Danube, Germany, and of the scenery in Norway. In each of the countries visited by the annual training cruise, the midshipmen entertained and were entertained. Their trip covered thousands of miles, and a similar cruise made last summer with the same three ships cost Uncle Sam the tidy little sum of $100,000 for coal alone.

Queenstown First Stop.
The squadron left Annapolis June 5, and, two weeks later, was in Queenstown, Ireland. From there nearly every midshipman made an inland trip to kiss the Barney stone. Kiel, Germany, was the next port, and from there the midshipmen were allowed to go to Berlin. The stay there was a musical respite from duty. There were three days and as many nights of it. Morpheus was not even recognized.

The visit to Bergen, Norway, was quiet. From Bergen the three battleships made a long, straight run south to Gibraltar, and then across the pond to Hampton Roads, Va.

Atlantic Fleet Goes To Southern Waters For Annual Practice

The Atlantic fleet has sailed for Tangier Sound, off the Virginia capes, for the annual maneuvers at the Southern drill grounds, and will spend two weeks or more in battle practice in Southern waters.

According to the announcement at the Navy Department today, the battleships Connecticut, Delaware, North Dakota, Vermont, Kansas, New Hampshire, South Carolina, Idaho, Maine, Mississippi, Missouri, Virginia, Nebraska, Ohio, Washington, North Carolina, and the cruisers Chester, Solace, and Panther will engage in these maneuvers.

MOVING TIME NEAR, HOME SEEKERS ARE SCOURING DISTRICT

Annual Stir Keeps Real Estate Men Hustling
All the Time.

The attention of real estate offices is being given largely to supplying the demands of renters getting ready for the fall moving season. This activity today is overshadowing the business of sales to a large extent, and many agents are finding difficulty in keeping a supply of rent lists, so quickly are they being taken out.

The demands are for houses and apartments of all kinds. Hundreds returning from summer absences seek new quarters for the winter, and others who for one reason or another desire a change of residence are looking over available places to live. The moving season usually runs from the 1st of September to the middle of October.

The suggestion of real estate men in the Ames building, 1119 G street north-west, to change its name to the Real Estate building may fall of adoption, owing to the pride of the Ames heirs in the old property which bears their name.

The office building originally was the home of the Ames family and the property has been in the family about a century. It was bought for $4,000 by the grandfather of the present owners. The present value is set at $250,000.

The agents of the property, King & Milburn, said today that while the building is now occupied almost entirely by real estate offices, the owners would not be willing to see the family name pass from it. The owners are New York people.

Two real estate men who have been absent from the city on vacations were at their desks again this morning. Reginald W. Beall, vice president of Moore & Hill, has returned after a summer at Ocean City, Md., and Charles A. Jones, sales manager of Massachusetts Avenue Heights for Thomas J. Fisher & Co., Inc., came back from a stay at his New Hampshire farm.

GARGES TO SHINE AS REAL MINSTREL IN AMATEUR SHOW

Chief Clerk of District Engineering Department
Is a Star.

When "Dan" rattles the bones—the bones, not his—and beats the tambourine and addresses the suave and unsuspicious interlocutor, invariably called in the advertisements, "The Chesterfield of modern minstrelsy," and asks him when or why something is or is not like something else, there will be few in his Washington Grove audience who will not recognize Daniel Garges, chief clerk of the Engineering Department of the District of Columbia.

No matter what Dan answers to, you can be sure it is Mr. Garges and not another. And you can be ready to laugh, for his answer will be funny. Then, too, he'll sing a song and do a monologue or two. He is a mighty amusing fellow that way when he takes the notion.

Mr. Garges has done this sort of thing before. A year ago, at a similar service of the association, he made the Garges minstrelsy famous—it would have made him famous if he hadn't already been so. His talents on that previous occasion shone resplendent, and he will be a top-liner tonight.

ROCKVILLE FAIR AND HORSE SHOW OPENS TOMORROW

Poultry Display Promises to Be Large—Aeroplane to Be Seen.

ROCKVILLE, Aug. 28.—The fifty-eighth annual Rockville fair will open tomorrow morning and continue four days. After several weeks of hard work the management has everything in readiness, and as no expense and pains have been spared, the exhibition is expected to prove a success in every particular.

For several days a corps of clerks has been kept busy at the grounds receiving entries for the various departments. Every class will be full, this being especially true of live stock departments, many extra stalls having been built to accommodate the entries.

The poultry display promises to be particularly fine, and the exhibition of farm and garden products will be fully up to the high standard of former years. In the household department there will be the usual display of products of the home.

For the first time within the history of the agricultural society a horse show will form an important part of the fair. More than a hundred of the finest specimens of horse flesh in this county, the District of Columbia, and other nearby places have been entered, and there is every indication that this feature will be a success. The horse show is in charge of a committee consisting of Joseph H. Bradley, John C. Bentley, and John E. Muncester.

Harness Race Entries.
Eighty-five high-class horses are entered for the ten harness races scheduled for the four days, and it is thought there will be at least fifty entries for the six running events. As a result of the recent rains, the track, which is agreed by horsemen to be one of the finest courses of its size in the country, will, it is thought, be at its best, and some fine speed contests are looked for.

The entries for the harness events the opening day are as follows:

First race—2:15 trot; purse, $300. McEwen, W. M. Fisher, Spartanburg, S. C.; Mrs. Kushan, J. R. Crawford, Burke, Va.; Palm Codrino, J. C. Mott, Pocomoke, Md.; Humboldt, M. N. Walker & Sons, Bell Haven, Va.; Jack Brereton, Jr., J. M. Kellam, Cradockville, Va.; Bell Night, G. W. Hall, Bealeton, Va.; Robs B., W. B. Mitchell, Baltimore, Md.

Second race—2:30 trot or pace; open to horses owned in Montgomery county ninety days prior to day of race; purse, $200. Johnny Capel, Harry Kohlhaus, Rockville, Md.; Jov Direct, Thomas C. Keys, Rockville, Md.; Howard O., C. C. Veira, Rockville, Md.; Jennie Blue, John H. Javins, Coleville, Md.; Annie L. L. Webster, P. Spates, Rockville, Md.; Bonnie Lassie, Francis H. Javins, Coleville, Md.; Miss Finch, H. C. Fawcett, Potomac, Md.; Pat Foley, Rosemont Farm, Rockville, Md.

Third race—Running, four furlongs and repeat; purse, $100. Entries close at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Smith to Fly.
Rex Smith, the Washington aviator, will give two flights tomorrow afternoon, and will also give two or more flights each of the other afternoons of the fair. The opportunity to see an airship in action will, it is thought, prove a great attraction, especially to the county folk, a large majority of whom have never witnessed anything of the kind.

The presence of the United States Marine Band is also expected to prove an attraction. Twenty pieces of this organization will furnish the music during the four days.

The officers of the fair this year are: William W. Jones, vice president, Charles F. Kirk, secretary, James T. Bogley, treasurer, John J. Higgins, board of directors, Josiah W. Jones, Lee Orfitt, William Dorsey, Charles Veira, Henry H. Griffith, Charles F. Kirk, John H. Gassaway, Z. M. Waters, Jr., John C. Bentley, John E. Muncester, Joseph H. Bradley, Clarence Moore.
