

PARK VIEW CHILDREN WANT NEW SCHOOL

Tired of Trudging So Far to Attend Sessions — Citizens' Body Takes Hand.

By EDITH LOBERT.

Eight hundred Park View children want a new school building. They are tired of trudging blocks and blocks through the winter snows when one might be erected close at hand.

Two portables, housing ninety-six pupils, took care of the overflow from Petworth school last year.

These temporary buildings, near Warder street and Newton place northwest, accommodate the first three grades, though parents in that neighborhood claim they are unsanitary, as well as inadequate to the school needs.

Two years ago the Commissioners included an item of $60,000 in the budget to provide for an eight-room building. Last year it was increased to $120,000 for a sixteen-room building, but neither was provided for in the District appropriation bill.

Big Population of Children.

Aside from being a rapidly growing suburb, Park View is remarkable for its large population of youngsters. And the Park View Citizens' Association, headed by John G. McGrath, is making a strong effort to obtain the school.

Mrs. J. F. Culverwell, 435 Manor place northwest, member of the woman's auxiliary to the association, and chairman of the school committee, declares the sentiment for a new building in the community is united.

"We decided, however, to let the men confer with Congress and the Commissioners while we continued our efforts to working up favorable sentiment among the women," she said today. "The auxiliary canvassed for money for the building and succeeded in raising over $42. The portables are only a makeshift, of course, but they are better than nothing. We wanted some sort of a school more convenient than Petworth, especially for the smaller children. The District has owned the site for several years. Our children are scattered around at the various buildings, and it is surely obvious to any one who comes out here that a new school is greatly needed."

Mrs. W. E. Neff, 430 Newton place northwest, also is aiding in the fight for a new building.

Portables Are Unsanitary.

"We prefer the portables to nothing," she said, "but they are not only too small, but they are unsanitary. They are heated with huge stoves in the rear of the rows of seats. If the room becomes too warm the windows are raised and the cold wind that sweeps down over the open space to the north blows in upon the children. That means colds, despite the best efforts of the teachers to prevent it."

Mrs. J. H. O'Donnoghue, 444 Newton place northwest, is the mother of five children, two of whom are of school age.

"I would like to send my third child

TOMORROW LAST DAY OF FREE DELIVERY

Baltimore and Washington Merchants Pleased With Start of Congressional Inquiry.

Store-door delivery of freight by the railroads will cease here and in Baltimore tomorrow, after about thirty years' existence.

Legal representatives of the commercial organizations in the two cities are prepared to present an early protest to the Interstate Commerce Commission against the new tariffs, effective tomorrow. They will ask that the commission give an early hearing on this protest.

Meantime, the two cities are well pleased with the start of the Congressional investigation into the interlocking of interests between the Eastern rail lines and the steamship carriers.

Attorneys for the two cities' commercial bodies are hopeful for an early hearing on their petition, and confident that the outcome of the fight will be the restoration of the store-door delivery system which has been in effect so long.

Merchants in both places will make arrangements for their own deliveries pending the outcome of the proceedings.

Pretty Maid Forced Out by Queen Mary

LONDON, Aug. 31.—According to a story from Paris, Queen Mary has dismissed without notice the pretty little French laundress of the Prince of Wales' establishment. The only indictment against the laundress was her youth and good looks. Her deportment is said to have been demure, but the rose of her cheeks and the light of her eyes were condemned by Queen Mary as being not suitable for the immediate environment of the future ruler.

The prince, when he heard of what his Queen mother had done, wrote a letter to the girl and enclosed £150 ($750) by way of indemnity.
