

RELIGIOUS DEBATE ENDS IN NEAR-RIOT

Prof. O'Hara Driven From Platform at Meeting of Secular League.

Cat-calls, abuse, and threats of personal violence were hurled at Prof. Frank O'Hara, of the Catholic University of America, when he appeared yesterday before the Secular League in Pythian Temple, and the meeting broke up in disorder.

Prof. O'Hara, who declared today that he "had appeared before the league once before," that he "knew what kind of an organization it was," and that he "has nothing to complain of," was invited to address the meeting and explain the Catholic viewpoint. He was accompanied by three students from the university.

Through his discussion of "The Catholic As a Citizen," Prof. O'Hara was frequently interrupted, and when the meeting was opened for discussion, the trouble began, many of the league's speakers attacking the Catholic church, and Prof. O'Hara being given an opportunity for rebuttal.

While he was speaking a young woman arose and made accusations against the Catholic church in Spain, quoting from a statement accredited to a Catholic prelate. "What do you think of that?" she cried.

When the audience insisted that he characterize the statement, Prof. O'Hara replied, "It is a lie, if you insist."

While the audience in general hissed and muttered, many leaped up and shouted their objections to the professor's statement, and one demanded that he retract.

"I shall be glad to retract any statement, provided the demand that I characterize the statement be also withdrawn," Prof. O'Hara replied.

Boy and Girl Farmers Receive Their Medals

State champions in the boys and girls club work of the Department of Agriculture were awarded their diplomas by Secretary of Agriculture Houston this afternoon at the Department of Agriculture. The champions are in Washington for a week's tour.

Under the guidance of O. M. Benson they started out this morning on a busy day of sight-seeing. They viewed Washington from the top of the Monument, and then went to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. This afternoon they visited the Smithsonian Institution, the National Museum, and the Department of Agriculture.

Tomorrow at 10:20 a. m. all of the champions will be received by the President.

Weeks Advocates One-Cent Postage

Senator Declares Government Is Making Large Profit On First Class Mail.

Declaring the Government is making a large profit on first class mail, and that too much discrimination exists in the postal laws favoring one class or another, Senator John W. Weeks, of Massachusetts, said today the American people have a right to expect legislation from Congress establishing a general one-cent letter rate of postage. He said he studied every angle of the postal situation when he was chairman of the House Postal Committee, and believed in one-cent postage.

"In expressing myself on the subject of a cheaper letter rate," the Senator said, "I well understand the condition of the postal finances at the present time. Under no circumstances would I be in favor of creating a larger deficit in order to reduce the rate on any one class of mail."

Noted Hebrew Author Addresses Large Crowd

A large audience of Hebrews met at Poli's last night to hear Solomon Rabinovitch, known as "Rhoiem Aleichem," or "Peace be with you."

Mr. Rabinovitch, who is one of the greatest Hebrew authors of the age, is making a tour of the United States. He will call on President Wilson today.

Urges Women to Unite In Fights for Reform

That the women of the country must put forth united efforts for one reform at a time, rather than wage many small fights simultaneously for as many different reforms, if they would win equal suffrage, was the advice given by Charles W. Russell, Socialist author, in an address last night at Socialist headquarters, 11 E street northwest. Last night was "ladies' night" at headquarters, and a large number of women were present.

"There are now 57,000 varieties of women's endeavors in the United States," said Mr. Russell, "and each is striving for a different end. Some are trying to bring about universal peace. Others are striving for prohibition. I believe they should first concentrate their efforts toward woman suffrage."

"The movement for socialism almost came about step by step," said Mr. Russell. "We cannot step in and change the entire system of government in a day."

Lecture by Baumgardt Visualizes Human Race

T. M. Baumgardt's lecture, "The Romance of Man," literally is a bird's-eye view of the human race. Information in the field of science, philosophy, art, and letters, mellowed by the lecturer's naive and illuminating commentary, was conveyed to the audience at the Heleneo yesterday afternoon, who heard him on that topic. Mr. Baumgardt covered a wide range of history, and the full cycle of human thought, without conveying any impression of scrappiness or superficiality.

Beginning with the early hieroglyphics of the Egyptians, he traced the development of printing through the invention of Gutenberg to the modern book. He then turned to the modern Greek, and the modern architecture, and gave a particularly interesting sketch of the way the Moors preserved the artistic instinct during the Dark Ages. His story of the progress of science began with the first feeble gropings after knowledge to the achievements of Aristotle, Galileo, Newton, Darwin, and Huxley.

In the evening Mr. Baumgardt took his hearers along "The Romantic Rhine," and told of the legends born of thirty centuries. His pictures last evening were especially charming, and each was vivified by the piquant apt comments of the lecturer.

Rector's Prize Debate On Federal Prohibition

That a Federal prohibition law should be enacted, constitutionally waived, will be the subject upon which the fourth annual Rector's prize debate will be held at the Catholic University of America tonight.

The judges will be Hannis Taylor, the Rt. Rev. Mr. William T. Russell and District Attorney Lasker. The affirmative will be upheld by Michael G. Luddy, of Connecticut; John S. Derham, of Massachusetts; and James J. Gallagher, of Pennsylvania. Those who will defend the negati are John M. Russell, of Connecticut; Edward P. Somers, of Pennsylvania; and George F. Blewett, of North Dakota.

OF the many causes that produce headache, eyestrain is the most common and important. Nausea, insomnia, and many other ailments are induced by reflex action of the nerves.

EYESTRAIN HEADACHES

Any disturbance of the muscles of the eye, or defect in the curve of the transparent surfaces, will cause the act of seeing to be attended by great strain.

Nature does her best to remedy this strain by sending extra nerve force to the muscles.

When this supply is overdrawn you have pain, spasm and irritation of the eyes and lids.

No amount of drugging will cure these conditions. The cause is a visual disturbance, and unless corrected with glasses headaches will continue.

The great strides made in Science of Optometry enables skilled Optometrists to produce lenses which will correct any Optical defect and muscular unbalance, thus eliminating waste of nerve force.

These conditions need an Optometrist, not a physician.

NOTE—For very best results have your eyes examined and your glasses made by an Optometrist. Do not divide the responsibility and incur the corresponding cost and delay.
