

U. S. WORKERS POORLY PAID, SAY PROBERS

The Congressional Commission on Reclassification of Salaries has found that Federal employees, as a whole, are underpaid, according to standards prevailing in private industry. While such an estimate is based on only a partial survey, it is believed that it will be the final recommendation of the commission as the basis for higher salaries.

The two principal factors, which are entering into the work of reclassification, are comparison of salaries paid in the Government employ with those of other occupations and the cost of living in Government centers as compared with other cities. It has been found that Federal workers in some instances receive less than 60 per cent of the compensation paid for similar work outside the Government. This is especially true, it is said, of positions requiring professional and special knowledge.

There are many cases where Government clerks are receiving higher salaries than those paid for similar work in large private establishments, but such a condition is not general, and was more extant before the war than now. Increases of salaries in outside work during the last two years have been more in proportion to those noted among Federal employees, the advanced cost of living than.

Surveys of the commission are disclosing that Washington is far above the average in the high cost of living. It was stated this morning that such findings are by no means complete, but reflect in a large measure conditions in the aggregate. If these partial surveys accurately represent the facts, there is a bright prospect of a recommendation by the commission of substantial increases for all Government employees.

$240 BONUS FOR POSTMEN URGED

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Congressman F. H. La Guardia, Republican nominee for president of the board of aldermen, sent a telegram to Senator Charles E. Townsend, chairman of the Senate Committee on Postoffice and Post Roads, urging that a bonus of at least $240 for postoffice employees receiving $1,500 a year and less be included in the postoffice appropriation bill. Mr. La Guardia declared that the $100 bonus provided by the House was inadequate in view of the mounting cost of living. His telegram to Senator Townsend followed.

"Strongly urge bonus of at least $240 to all postal employees up to and including the $1,500 grade. This is absolutely necessary for employees in Brooklyn and New York offices. Wages today can not be measured in dollars. We must be guided by what men need to obtain necessities of life and properly provide for their families."

"Postal employees are now in almost destitute condition in this city. Have personally investigated several cases and will be glad to appear before committee if necessary to give actual testimony. We require immediate action as the post office force is demoralized. Urge that House bill be amended accordingly."

A Real Remedy For Falling Hair

Keeps Scalp Clean and Healthy—Prevents Dandruff.

When your hair becomes faded, dry, streaked and severely, when it falls out freely and when it does not grow, the roots should be immediately vitalized and properly nourished.

To do this quickly, safely and at little expense, get from your drug store some Parian sage (liquid form) and apply as directed. Parian sage is guaranteed to abolish all dandruff—stop scalp itching and falling hair and promote a new growth of hair. It is in great demand by discriminating women because it makes the hair so soft, lustrous, easy to arrange attractively and appear much heavier than it really is.

A massage with Parian sage is a real delight—easy to use, not sticky or greasy, and delicately perfumed—an antiseptic liquid free from all dangerous ingredients.

If you want good looking hair and plenty of it by all means use Parian sage—a little attention now helps insure beautiful hair for years to come.

People's Drug Stores will supply you and guarantee money refunded if you are not entirely satisfied.

Men Appear Like Pigmies Alongside Giant Battleship in Drydock

The giant battleship Mississippi is here shown in the drydock at Hunters Point, Cal., for repairs. Hoisting a monster of such size clear of the water is no mean job, as may be guessed. Compare the tiny figures of the men at work in the rigging with the general perspective and you may glean an idea of the ship's size from keel to deck.

Mrs. Conboy, Veteran of Many a Strike, Is Only Woman At Labor Confab

One of the picturesque figures on the labor side of the national industrial conference is Mrs. Sara A. Conboy, of New York city, secretary-treasurer of the United Textile Workers of America.

She is a veteran of many a strike, many a hard-fought labor struggle. Whenever the weavers or loom-fixers are in trouble, she leaves her desk in New York and goes to the scene. She is equally good at making a gut-tail speech or at "talking turkey" to a corporation magnate in his office.

Fourteen years ago Mrs. Conboy was employed as a carpet weaver in a Boston factory. Ever since that time she has been active in the labor movement, and as traveling organizer and for six years an official of the textile union, she has led no less than 200 strikes.

Before coming to Washington, the woman labor leader attended the first meeting of the New York State reconstruction commission, of which she was appointed vice president by Governor Smith of New York. She is also chairman of the advisory board for vocational education for the State of New York.

Mrs. Conboy refused to make any statement as to the program to be submitted by the labor delegates, but she said she favored the immediate passage of a uniform national child labor law and a minimum wage law for women workers.

"A uniform child labor law is of chief importance because it is necessary to build up the manhood and womanhood of the future," she said. "Our present State child labor laws are a farce."

"I also believe that Congress ought to pass a minimum wage law to enable women workers to live decently and to develop normally. The tendency at present is equal pay for men and women doing equal work."

"The women workers are now far better off than they were in the days when I was employed in a Boston factory as a carpet weaver. We labored twelve hours a day, from 6 in the morning to 6 at night. A great step forward in the improvement of the conditions of the women workers has been the adoption of the eight-hour day."

In Ardent Suffragist.

"One problem that has occupied my attention is whether the woman worker who displaced the man going off to war should remain in her job. I am of the opinion that sooner or later these women will go back to their households, and rightfully so."

Mrs. Conboy is an ardent suffragist, and at the height of the campaign for the passage of the Federal amendment, she was a tireless stump speaker for the "cause."

"I do not believe in women affiliating with a party organization," she said. "While the granting of the right to vote is a good thing for women, I believe that the working woman will be slower to benefit than the woman of leisure. The working woman, in my opinion, will have to undergo a long process of education before she will be fully able to use the ballot capably."

Only Woman Conferee.

"With many women taking an active part in industry, finance and in fact every phase of national life," she added, "it is, indeed, a surprise to me that I am the only woman selected to be present at such an important gathering. I know of many women leading important parts in the organization and operation of corporations, and yet there has not been a single American woman chosen to represent the employees or the public-at-large at the conference."

Mr. Gompers said recently: "I regard Mrs. Conboy as the foremost constructive woman worker in the cause of human uplift upon the practical lines of American trade unionism."

SOME STORY THIS! AND IT GOT ACROSS

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 10.—The brown hat of Colonel Jefferson D. Mills, Decatur correspondent, sat slightly askew as the old war horse punched vigorously the keys of his worn typewriter.

"If I can put this over," muttered he. "If I only can!"

When he attacked the helpless machine, laboriously he spelled out this woolly story of Luther Burbank's latest rival:

"E. S. Carolyn, of Murray Hill avenue, Kirkwood, has grown a carrot," wrote the colonel. "This carrot is such a likeness of Mayor Cassius that it would be recognized anywhere. Also the farmer was very happy in producing a likeness of Sheriff McCurdy. Indeed, it is understood that Sheriff McCurdy has already seen and approved this carrot. Other citizens represented in the collection are E. W. Reagan, of Lithonia; the Hon. C. McKinney, of Decatur, and Commissioner L. T. Y. Nash. Mr. Carolyn is also at work trying to grow a vegetable resembling to J. A. Hall, of the DeKalb New Era, but is unsuccessful as to the measure of his success."

The plan, the Atlantic is commanded by Vice Admiral Kerr, of the British navy, with Maj. H. Brackley, of the royal air force, as pilot. The craft carries eleven passengers. She left Parramore at 10:44 a. m. and encountered strong head winds during the entire trip.

AWARDED $2,500 DAMAGES.

A consent verdict for $2,500 damages has been awarded by a jury in Circuit Court No. 2, Justice Sidons presiding, in favor of George W. Tostler, administrator of Morrell P. Tostler, against the Potomac Electric Power Company. Morrell was employed as a lineman helper and was killed August 16, 1915, at the Eckington substation.

Some fifty of the original detachment are now the brides of Americans and are either already in the States or on their way there.

BURR-HAMILTON PISTOLS BOUGHT

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—Few, if any, firearms in existence possess greater interest than two pistols sold at auction in Philadelphia yesterday. They are a pair of duelling weapons, of the first-class type, encased in a plain-lined mahogany case. In perfect condition, made with barrels imported from London by Booth, one of the best-known of early Philadelphia gunsmiths, they would command the interest of collectors of firearms simply as specimens of the art of the gunsmith of their period. They possess, however, a human interest and historic value, which lifts them quite out of the class of mere curios.

The tradition in the family by Caesar A. Rodney, for whose estate they were sold, is that they were given to Mr. Rodney by Colonel Aaron Burr, and are the pair used in the duel which resulted in the death of Alexander Hamilton.

That Rodney and Burr were intimate friends is shown by the letters they interchanged and which were sold last spring. There appears no reason to doubt the authenticity of the weapons. An interesting instance of the changed personal relations which political life brings about is to be found in the fact that later, as Attorney General, under Jefferson, Rodney had the disagreeable task of prosecuting Burr, his intimate friend, for treason.

In 1801 Burr was defeated for the Presidency, Jefferson winning, and Burr becoming Vice President. In 1804 Burr ran as an independent candidate for the governorship of New York, and was again defeated. Both defeats he attributed to the influence of Hamilton, and this political disagreement led to the duel of West Point, 115 years ago last July. Hamilton, according to tradition, fired into the air and was killed by Burr.

The pistols were purchased by Harry Harmer, of Philadelphia, who said to have the best collection of American fire arms in existence.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The British freighter Gaelic Prince was on the beach near the entrance to Ambrose Channel today as the result of a collision last night with the American transport Antigone. The latter was safely anchored off Staten Island.

The ships came together during a heavy rain. The British steamer was inbound from Manila. The transport, laden with supplies, was out of Brest.

NOVA SCOTIA AIRPLANE
LANDS ON LONG ISLAND

GREENPORT, N. Y., Oct. 10.—The Hopedale plane, piloted by Capt. Parramore, N. S., to Mineola, N. Y., was forced to land here shortly after 11 p. m. yesterday, because of a shortage of gasoline.

Today the machine will "take off" again, headed for Mineola.

The plane, the Atlantic is commanded by Vice Admiral Kerr, of the British navy, with Maj. H. Brackley, of the royal air force, as pilot. The craft carries eleven passengers. She left Parramore at 10:44 a. m. and encountered strong head winds during the entire trip.

THE POETIC STORY Of The NEW FOUNT OF YOUTH Which Is Filled With Ba- boon's Blood That Will Make Old Men Full of Pep.

BUT THERE'S A RUB
Suppose These Rejuvenated
"Birds" Begin to Cutting Monkey Shines.

About 300 years ago there sailed across the sea a score or so of aged men whose dim eyes shone with glee as the boat which brought them grounded on the land they'd come to reach, and they hobbled forth with halting steps upon the sandy beach. Their eyes were dim, their beards were long, and all were "hard o' hearin'," but "neath their wrinkled hides beat hearts both strong and full of darlin'."

A man told them a tale one day—they believed it for the truth—and so they'd sailed the deep blue sea in quest of the Fount of Youth. These pilgrims had set forth upon a long and futile quest, and "neath the palms in Florida their whitened bones still rest."

But hearken to the news today which comes from Sunny France! A doctor there, both skilled and wise, now says he's found, by chance, a method to restore to men of years three score and ten, all the energy, and more, they've lost, and make them young again. His name is Sergius Veronoff, which really sounds suspicious; for a man who bears a name like that might prove he's Bolshevik. But Doctor Veronoff is skilled, and well known in his trade, and it's not thought he'd seek to wreck a reputation made.

The surgeon states that he has found, by process most remote, how to make a frisky lamb out of a worn-out goat; and by the careful, painless use of a scientific knife, cut a man whose death is near and give him brand-new life. From the monkey, of Darwinian fame, he can steal a little gland, and sew it in a human's frame, and from it, understand that man will draw his youth, and strong and springy step, and change into a healthy boy, ambitious—full o' pep.

But dangers lie ahead, 'tis said, of this bold step in science, and pessimistic doctors are loud in their defiance of this smart Frenchman's method for restoring youth and laughter, and they point with fear to what may come immediately thereafter. The monkey is the trouble, and they fear the plan will fail; for the man who thus experiments will surely grow a tail. He will not, try to spend his time in business or on ranches, but will live his regained life among the trees and branches.
