DANIELS HEARS WAGE PROTEST

Disatisfaction Over Pay Aware, Brings Committee of Workers To Secretary Today.

The Secretary of Labor was the center of attention yesterday when a delegation of workers, representing a large number of employees, appeared before him to express their dissatisfaction over wage rates.

The delegation was composed of men and women from various industries, and they were accompanied by union representatives. They spoke out strongly against the low wages paid by some employers, and demanded a raise.

The Secretary of Labor listened to their complaints with interest, and promised to investigate the matter carefully. He also assured them that he would do everything in his power to bring about a fairer distribution of wages.

The President has been considering the matter for several weeks, and has consulted with many friends and advisors. It is believed that he will name a man who is well respected and has a good record of public service.

ANTIS OPEN DRIVE AGAINST SUFFRAGE

Credit Restrictions Must Be Replaced, He Says.

The battle against women's right to vote continues to rage, and yesterday the Anti-Suffrage League announced a new campaign. The League is throwing all its resources into the fight, and is determined to prevent the passage of the new suffrage law.

The League's leaders have been studying the situation carefully, and have come to the conclusion that the only way to defeat the law is to convince the public that it is a bad idea. They are calling for a massive campaign of education, and are planning a series of rallies and meetings.

SIGHTSEEING BUSES MAY BE TIED UP

Unless the watering tradition of public transportation is changed, sightseeing buses may be tied up in the capital. The buses are currently used for a variety of purposes, but there is growing concern that they are being overused.

The question of the buses' future is being hotly debated, and there are strong feelings on both sides. Some people believe that the buses are a valuable asset, while others feel that they are being misused.

D.C. WEST VIRGINIANS WANT TO VOTE BY MAIL

West Virginians in and around the capital have been expressing a desire to vote by mail. They believe that it would be more convenient and would save time.

The proposal has been under consideration by the state government, but it is not clear whether it will be accepted. There is some opposition to the idea, but many people believe it would be a good move.
