BOMB FAILS TO FOLLOW

WARNING OF DESTRUCTION

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—An all-night search failed to reveal a bomb in the Federal building, after a warning had been received that the building was to be blown up at 3:30 o'clock yesterday morning. Nothing happened, and the building, after being closed all night, was again opened to the public. The letter came in a letter written in a foreign language in red ink.

Today a large detail of police was dispatched to the Federal building, where a heavy guard of detectives has been about the structure all day. Rumors that a bomb had been discovered in the basement were denied by Charles Clahan, acting chief postal inspector.

When the Shoe Fits

"The shoe which fits both the foot and the foot is the shoe of enduring satisfaction," says Le Costume Royal, the fashion magazine, in the October number. "No matter how harmonious the leather may be with the material of the shoe; no matter how attractive the design, how appropriate to the costume; no matter any quality if it is not directly connected with the virtue of comfort."

"A source of courage for these direct statements lies in a tiny wrinkle of pain. Everyone has seen that poor tottering woman who is balanced upon an uncertain heel with her feet squeezed into pathetic lumps and her forehead crumpled into wee wrinkles. Not that every woman should be firmly planted firmly upon a low heel, but rather upon that arch of comfort which is necessary to her correct support and which is appropriate in design to the foot's wear."

"Many women have avoided comfortable shoes, thinking them unattractive, and have suffered untold misery for the sake of a desired effect. Recently, however, a skilled craftsman, who knows not only the needs of a foot but realizes the importance of a smart effect, has designed shoes which are the first word of the mode and a source of eternal comfort."

"No longer need a woman desirous of comfort go tramping grimly about in shoes apparently built to support the law of gravitation. Absolutely chic in every detail, in a sense to please the most fastidious wearer, these new shoes of the mode are a perpetual tribute to the art of a good designer. Of soft durable leather, each shoe is excellently made with an arch which keeps the position of the foot in its proper place instead of leaving it suspended above or flattened against the sole of the shoe, a condition which in either case holds a perilous effect. Nor is the shape of the shoe awkwardly rounded into a 'hugling' toe, but kept in a graceful line with the foot. In such subtleties of design lies the success of this footwear."

The name of this desirable shoe is attached to the illustrations accompanying this advertisement. It is the CANTILEVER shoe. Come and see how well the Cantilever shoe fits and looks on your foot. Let us demonstrate why it is so comfortable and so enjoyable.

Sold nowhere else in Washington. Sizes 3 1/2 to 9, Widths AAAA to E. Send for Free Cantilever Booklet.

WEEDON RETIRES AFTER 42 YEARS ON POLICE FORCE

$89.16 a Month Voted Veteran Detective by District Board of Commissioners.

After forty-two years on the police force in the District, Detective Berget Richard E. Weedon has been retired at the maximum retirement pay. The Commissioners took this action at a board meeting today.

"Red" Weedon was probably one of the best-known members of the detective force in the Capital, and was assigned to some of the biggest cases in the criminal annals of the District force. He has recently been night chief of detectives.

One of Weedon's big jobs in the District was the breaking up of the policy system in the city which years ago was played as much if not more than the races are now played. For his work in breaking up this system he was promoted to a detective sergeant. He was also sent abroad on several occasions to bring back international crooks.

When President Garfield was shot at the old Union Station at Sixth and B streets northwest, Weedon was one of the first to reach his side and carried him to a waiting carriage and drove back with him to the White House.

Weedon was appointed to the police force July 11, 1879, and after serving a few years resigned and became a member of the fire department. After a few years in the fire department he returned to the police force and has been there ever since. His maximum retirement pay allowed a detective sergeant is $89.16 a month.

STRIKE MENACE GROWS AS RAIL CHIEFS GATHER

Executives Meet in Chicago. Walkout Believed to Hinge on Their Action.

By International News Service.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Strike clouds of increasing menace clouded the railroad horizon here today as executives of railroads of the nation assembled to discuss the situation. Every indication pointed to an unyielding attitude on the part of both the roads and their employees, and eventual action by the Federal Government to adjust the dispute was foreseen by many observers.

The heads of the various railway unions have drawn careful plans for a strike and, according to apparently authentic reports, have fixed October 30 as the date for the walk-out.

Executives of the leading railroads of the country, on the other hand, are said to have prepared a revised scale of freight and passenger tariffs that will reduce the cost of transportation, the reductions being predicated solely upon further contemplated cuts in the wage of employees.

It is expected that the railway unions will present to the executives an ultimatum of strike against wage reductions ordered by the United States. The memberships of the "big four" brotherhoods of the Federated Shopcrafts organizations have voted overwhelmingly in favor of a strike.

Rail executives are prepared to justify their plan of further wage cuts, it is said, by declaring that the wage reductions put into effect last July have been the only factor that has enabled many roads to avoid bankruptcy. It is understood that the union men will submit an alternative that the roads agree to reopen negotiations in wages and general working conditions. If this is refused, the strike plan as outlined will go into effect.

BIGGEST STILL IN U. S.

TAKEN IN NEW ORLEANS. NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 14.—Nine stills in full operation and two 500-gallon cisterns filled with mash were discovered by prohibition agents late yesterday over a wholesale grocery in the French market section. Theodore Jacques, chief enforcement officer, said that the raid netted the biggest amount of liquor ever taken here, and that the "whiskey factory" was the most complete that has ever been captured in the United States. The distillery was equipped with stills, electric lights and such appliances. Those in the place are supposed to have escaped through rear passageways while the Government men came in through the front way.
