CRADLE SONG.

Cuddled down in mother's arm, Baby dear. Sleep in peace, secure from harm, Mother's here. Guarded round by many a prayer, And a mother's loving care Siumber on, my baby fair Free from fear.

Shut the starry, deep blue eyes,

Little one,
Like still lakes or summer skies,
When day is done.—
May they ever see those sights,
Which the angel pure delights,
When the record brave he writes
Of victories won.

Fold the dimpled hands so white,
Baby own,
Pink within as a shells bright,
Or rose half blown.
Savior, may their mission be,
Raising sinners nearer Thee,
Pure as these small hands I see,
Tasin unknown. To sin unknown.

Let those lips stop cooing so, Little love. Sweet as when soft zephyrs blow, Or calls a dove,
Be they, Lord, to Thy work blest,
Speaking, full of loving zest
Of Thy love, and offered rest
And home above.

In the everlasting arm, My sweetheart, Safe from all that eyer harms Dear, thou art.

Dear, thou art.

Working ever for thy King,
Sinners unto Him to bring.

While thy lips His praises sing.

Be thy part.
