for the issue of this brilliant volume was the great success of a similar work, "The Gems of Strauss." That, of course, being published soon after the appearance of Strauss at the "Jubilee," owed something of its reputation to the renown of the great composer. Yet much was owing to the brightness of the contents.

"Gems of the Dance" are bright enough for any one. They are divided into various "dance" titles, as Waltzes, Galops, Polkas, Quadrilles, etc., of which about 25 are new ones by the two Strauses.

Polkas, Quadrilles, etc., of which about 25 are new ones by the two Strausses and the rest are by Gung'l Zikoff, Lamothe, Fanst and others. In all there are about 25 authors, whose compositions fill 232 large pages.

ROLL OF HONOR.

ORGANIZATION OF DEM. EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.—The new city Democratic Executive Committee met in the upper chamber of the city building yesterday afternoon, immediately after the adjournment of the Convention, for the purpose of organizing. Mr. J. B. Sheppard was called to the chair, and Mr. W. H. Schambra chosen Secretary, On motion of Dr. Reeves, the Secretary was directed to request the nominees of the Convention to meet the committee this evening at 7 o'clock in the Court House, the room to be determined upon hereafter. DIED SUDDENLY .- Mr. Wm. Kryter well known in this city, was found dead in his bed, at his residence in Bellaire, on Fri-day morning last, and was buried the fol-lowing Sunday. His death is ascribed to heart disease. SEVERAL instances of accidents to pedestrians by avalanches of snow and ice falling off the roofs of house upon them are reported.

GEMS OF THE DANCE.—Published by Oliver Dilson & Co.—The special reason for the issue of this brilliant volume was will freeze hard to-night, River 7.1 feet. Snow six inches deep.

CINCINNATI, January 8.—River unchanged. About 3 inches of snow and the weather clear and cold. At Ironton the ice moved about 300 yards early this morning, sinking two model barges. The ice moved again there this afternoon for an hour, but did no further damage. At Gallipolis the gorge gave way last evening, moving about 300 yards and mashing some coal barges slightly. Two movements occurred to-day, and a gorge is now reported at the mouth of Chickamauga Creek.

New Orleans, January 8.—No arrivals or departures. Weather cloudy and Cold.

Vicksburg, January 8.—No boats up or down; river rose one inch, and is clear of ice. Weather cold.
Louisville, January 8.—Weather clear and cold, with three inches of snow on the ground.
