

DR. BULL'S COUGH SYRUP.

DR. BULL'S COUGH SYRUP.

WE WILL OPEN TO-DAY

For Inspection

BLACK SILKS, BROCADED SILKS, SATIN DE LYONS, BROCADED MOIRE STRIPE, POLKA DOT SILKS, NEW VERN, POLKA DOT SILKS, STRIPED SILKS, COLORED SILKS, SATIN MARVELLEUX.

And all the latest Novelties in SPRING DRESS GOODS.

Ladies, your attention is called to the examination of the above offering.

Respectfully,

A. SIEDENBACH & BRO.,

Successors to I. Blum & Bro.,

NO. 1104 MAIN STREET.

mb13

DENTISTRY.

NEW YORK DENTAL COMPANY,

1066 Market Street, Wheeling.

$8.00.

$8.00.

Set of Teeth on Gold $35.00
Set of Teeth on Silver 25.00
Set of Teeth on Rubber 15.00
Set of Teeth on Gold 10.00
Set of Teeth on Silver 5.00
Set of Teeth on Rubber 3.00
Set of Teeth on Gold 2.00
Set of Teeth on Silver 1.00
Set of Teeth on Rubber .50
Set of Teeth on Gold .25
Set of Teeth on Silver .15
Set of Teeth on Rubber .10
Set of Teeth on Gold .05
Set of Teeth on Silver .03
Set of Teeth on Rubber .02

DR. S. M. SARGISON & SON,

DENTISTS,

No. 1143 Market Street, Wheeling, W. Va.

All operations warranted.

FOURTH STREET M. E. CHURCH

SOCIAL.

TO-NIGHT:

Supper from 5 1/2 to 8 p. m. Also, 8 to 9 p. m. Musical and Literary exercises.

All are welcome.

mb10

The Intelligencer.

Office 305, 25 and 27 Fourteenth Street.

HERE AND THERE.

Record of Minor Local Happenings of Current Interest.

Board of Education this evening.

The assessors are once more around prying into your affairs.

The assessors do not tackle kindly to night sessions.

REGULAR monthly meeting Board of Education to-night.

The latest evening house slange is, "We'll see Barney about it."

A special session of Council has been called for Friday evening.

Yarns garden truck begins to appear in the markets in small quantities.

The Fire Department test signal is now sent out at 8 p. m. instead of 5 p. m.

The Fire Department Investigating Committee will meet next Monday evening for organization.

Books of limestone in great quantities being placed on Market street between Fifth and Seventh streets. It was needed badly.

WALTER MARSHALL, who owns the coal mines near Blacksville, had a portion of his mine taken away during the recent heavy rain.

The United engine was taken to the repair shop of Cox & Morrison yesterday. The boiler was found to have melted down all run together.

MILK RUM, the actress, will be at Steubenville on the twenty-third instant. Wheeling boys have already written for accommodations at the hotel.

CLARK AND FRANK, BARBERS, of the Eighth ward, were pulled in to the Court yesterday for indulging in a home fight, and lodged in the Eighth ward station.

THERE is a bad break in the board walk on the east side of the National road above Seventh street. Some dark night some one will break a leg, and then for a damage suit.

A VERY quick wedding will take place next Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock, in the Second Presbyterian Church. The contracting parties are two of our well known young folks.

TUESDAY evening as George Bank, a drayman, connected with Hoffman's tannery, was loading leather on the levee, a large and heavy roll fell on him, badly hurting his back.

The following postmasters have recently been commissioned for this State: John Sheridan, Elk Garden, Mineral county; Gilbert M. Brown, West Virginia; Matthew T. McClellan, Lookout.

The City Board of Equalization and Appeals met yesterday, and in session for some time, but transacted nothing but routine business. Some of the cases referred to them by Council were disposed of.

The Wheeling Register calls the members of the West Virginia Legislature "Sober Sons." The constituents of the gentlemen would be greatly surprised to learn that their representatives are sober. -Belle Isle Independent.

The Council Committee on Water Works met last evening, and instructed the chairman to ascertain the cause of the leakage of the Howell patent blowers which it is proposed to put in the boilers at the water works.

THE ladies of the Fourth Street M. E. Church will give a social at the church this evening. An elegant supper will be served at six o'clock and later in the evening a musical and literary programme of unusual interest will be rendered.

MANY of the escapes on the Sidney at the time of the explosion last Friday were hair breadths in their nature. Engineer Cummins was not killed, but he was badly hurt, and it had not been for a guard rail. The damage to the boat was very small, comparatively speaking.

THE first donation to Wheeling's Public Library comes from ex-Mayor Sweeney, one of the United States Commissioners for the State of West Virginia to the Paris Exposition, in the shape of a report from the Board of Commissioners, which is a most interesting and well bound volume. It is a most profusely illustrated and very interesting work.

EVERYTHING is completed at the Sugar Refinery, not more than fifteen men will be employed there. The refinery is now working by machinery. Nearly all of the machinery at present is in position, but a few more pieces are yet to arrive. In ten days the refinery will be in full operation, it is expected, he proceeding regularly.

TUESDAY evening a little daughter of Wm. Franklin, of the Sixth ward, got lost on the Elm Grove railway. She had been sent on errand and when she failed to return her parents were very much alarmed. In the meantime the little one had been found by one Mrs. Munn, who kept her until yesterday morning, when she returned her home, much to the joy of the mother.

YESTERDAY morning, before the Senate was called to order, one of the Senators in great good humor had a resolution sent up to another Senator, who for the time being occupied the President's chair. The resolution was read by him as follows: "Resolved, That this Legislature is a strawberry and creamer, and will adjourn on the first of April." The adoption of the resolution was ordered to be committed to the committee on resolutions.

SOME thoughtful citizens are disposed to inquire why it now takes four men to make up a jury of twelve, and why the property of an expense of $3 each, or $12 in all, for a jury, when heretofore two men did the same work for $1. Last year three assessors were appointed, and a clerk employed, because a valuation of real estate was also made, and it was thought that three men could form a more reliable opinion of the proper appraisal than two. The inquiry seems pertinent.

THE Supreme Court of Appeals met yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, all the Judges on the bench. The arguments were commenced in the case of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company vs. S. M. Miller. The points in this case were recently briefly and concisely set forth in the Intelligencer, and it is the intention of the court to render its decision in this case on the lower district. It was before this Court on appeal from Judge Melvin's decision. The Chesapeake and Ohio claim that the case is the successor of the old Richmond and Covington road. The Supreme Court decided yesterday to allow the case to go to the lower district. The case was argued by Attorney General and counsel for Auditor Miller, commenced at 10:30 a. m. and closed at 2:30 p. m. The Court then adjourned until Monday at 10 o'clock, when Colonel Hogganham for the Railway Company will commence his argument, to be followed by Attorney General Wata for the Auditor. Judge Robertson will preside for the Company. The arguments will continue the remainder of the week.

THE joint entertainment to be given at the Opera House to-morrow evening by the Female College can easily lay claim to being the finest amateur entertainment ever given at the Opera House. The program is a most excellent one. The program is a most excellent one. The program is a most excellent one.

At an early hour this morning the small oil house of the B. & O. road at Benwood, situated at the east side of the track a few rods north of the Jefferson Iron Works, was destroyed by fire. The flames were supposed to have originated in a lighted torch left in the oil house by a watchman. Several barrels of illuminating and lubricating oil were in the building, and it made a fierce fire. Train dispatcher McClellan, Jr., succeeded in extinguishing the fire, and the building was a very old and light one of boards. The oil was the principal item of loss. The blaze was so bright that on the road north of the river and in the country around the impression prevailed that the depot was being destroyed, and a large crowd gathered at the spot.

PAID PRISONERS.

Cases in Which Executive Clemency Has Been Extended by Gov. Jackson.

Below is a list of the prisoners pardoned and fines remitted by Gov. Jackson during his term of office to date, with the circumstances connected with the conviction of each, and the reasons which induced the Governor to extend executive clemency. Considering the length of time covered by the list it is not surprising that the prisoners in all cases were sufficiently wealthy.

Benjamin Turner, convicted of murder at May term, and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by the Circuit Court of Berkeley county.

Prisoner was indicted for two like offenses, was acquitted on first indictment, found guilty on second, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

The prisoner was extremely young, and was confined a long time previous to trial. The prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.

Pardoned March 21, 1881.

Geo. W. Hatfield, convicted of lewd conduct, sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[Petition shows Hatfield to be a very poor man, unable to pay except by imprisonment, and a dependent family. A majority of the jury, the Prosecutors and many citizens signed the petition.]

The jury remitted April 4, 1881.

Ellis Gregg, convicted of felony at July term, 1880, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[At his trial it appears that Gregg was released on a continuance or change of venue, and was confined a long time previous to trial. The prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned March 21, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State, and was a native of this State, and was a native of this State.]

Pardoned April 8, 1881.

James E. McWane, convicted of grand larceny, March term, 1880, Circuit Court of Berkeley county, and sentenced to two years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

[It appears that the prisoner was a boy, and was convicted on his own confession, and that the greater part of the time he was confined in the penitentiary, and that the prisoner was a native of this State,