

ITALIANS AGAIN.

A Car Containing Fifty of Them
Run Into by an Engine.

TWO KILLED AND NINE INJURED.

After the Wreck, the Italians Who Were Unhurt Try to Kill the Engineer and Fireman of the Engine that Demolished Their Car—A Very Exciting Time.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Aug. 10.—Nine Italian laborers were seriously injured, two fatally, in a railway collision near Branford, on the Shore Line branch of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad about 6 o'clock this morning. A gravel train left New Haven about 5:30, and in the caboose on the end of the train were about fifty Italians. While crossing the main track near the Branford station a freight train bound for New London struck the caboose and threw it off the track. Nine of the fifty Italians were injured. They all belong in New Haven. All were taken to the New Haven hospital.

The engine ran through the car before it stopped. Engineer Benjamin and fireman Harry Hunt jumped and saved their lives. The train hands and the few persons about the station hastened to assist the unfortunate men pinned between the engine and broken timbers. They were carried to the station and physicians summoned. In the meanwhile three hundred Italians gathered a short distance from the station and talked together in loud tones.

The cab of the engine had taken fire and engineer Benjamin and fireman Hunt returned to extinguish it. The Italians saw them and arming themselves with stones and shovels rushed for the engine and surrounded it. Hunt was knocked down with a piece of coal. He sought refuge afterwards in a neighboring shop. Engineer Benjamin moved his way through the mob by brandishing a piece of heavy timber. He reached the depot in safety and locked himself up in the ticket office. The Italians were eventually pacified, but they refused to work the day out.

SWALLOWED THE WILL.

And Then Her Lover Cut Her Body Open and Recovered It.

BORDEAUX, Aug. 10.—Victor Berge has just been sentenced at the Gironde Assizes to life imprisonment at hard labor for the murder of his mistress, Marie Boudon.

The circumstances surrounding the case of the strangest and most peculiar character, and are largely responsible for the saving of Berge from the guillotine.

Berge, whose father is a small landowner at Cahors, Department of the Lot, was a medical student in this city. He met Marie, who was a dressmaker, and shortly afterward the couple lived together.

By the death of a maiden aunt a short time ago, Berge came into possession of 10,000 francs. The will naming him as heir he had in his possession, and showed to Marie, whereupon she demanded that, as a recompense to her, he gave her one-half of the legacy.

This Berge refused, and the woman snatched it from his hand. A terrible struggle ensued, which was finally ended by Berge throwing the woman heavily to the floor, but not, however, before she had by a final effort, swallowed the will. In a few hours the woman was dead.

Berge, in order to regain possession of his inheritance, cut the body open and removed the will. It was in this condition that the body was discovered.

Engineer Duval's Suicide.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., Aug. 10.—John Duval, a prominent civil engineer, aged seventy-three, committed suicide this morning. At the breakfast table he asked his sisters for a glass of sugar and water, into which he poured a white powder. One of his sisters asked: "What is it?" "Only some medicine," he answered. The other sister picked up the envelope which had contained the powder, and saw on it "poison, strychnine." She screamed for help, and vainly struggled to prevent her brother from swallowing the contents of the glass. Two physicians worked hard to save Duval, but he died in great agony.

A Wife, but no Watch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Antonio Castaro was arraigned in the Adams street police court yesterday on the charge of having stolen a silver watch from Frank Foley, of No. 246 Fourth Avenue. Foley explained that he lent the watch to Castaro and had been unable to get it back. Not only had Castaro taken his watch, but also his wife. He said she was living with him at No. 34, East One Hundred-and-tenth street, New York. He had retained a lawyer and was about to bring suit for divorce. In the meantime he wants to make it unpleasant for Castaro. The court ordered Castaro to return the watch if he had it, and adjourned the case for one week.

Give Their Experience and Opinion.

Among the many patients that have been taking treatment recently from Drs. Copeland & Bell, and can substantiate their efficiency in treating catarrh and kindred troubles, is Mr. Philip Heintz, engineer at the Schumacher plant, located in South Wheeling.

MR. PHILIP HEINTZ, No. 3534 CHAPLINE STREET.

In an interview with Mr. Heintz, he said: "I had been troubled with catarrh for the last five or six years. I paid but little attention to it, thinking it only frequent attacks of colds, until about two years ago, when upon consulting a physician I learned that I had an aggravated case of catarrh."

"I tried some remedies, but failed to derive any benefit until about three months ago."

"My nose would stop up and I was compelled to breathe through my mouth. The mucous would accumulate in my throat and in the back part of my nostrils. I had to snuff back to dislodge it and was always clearing my throat. My throat was always irritable, and at times I could scarcely swallow."

"I became alarmed about myself and, reading of the cures wrought by Drs. Copeland & Bell, concluded to call on them. After consulting them I resolved to try their system of treatment. I have been under their care since that time and can say for myself that I have improved from the beginning, and the change in my condition is so great and satisfactory that I can confidently testify as to their success in my case."

Mr. Joseph Glutz, 408 Market street, says of his case: "After taking a course of treatment I am much improved in every way. I feel strong and well now. The catarrh troubles that I had here disappeared and I feel better than I have felt for years, and I will gladly recommend the doctors to those who need a physician."

A Noted Month.

From Kookuk, Ia., Democrat.

August, 1887, was a noted month. It gave extreme heat and extreme cold, the results of which were disastrous to the public health. Cases of cholera, morbus and diarrhoea were abundant, and there were numerous calls at the drug stores for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Druggists of this city tell us that this remedy has been more frequently called for during the past month than any other preparation, and that it has proven a panacea for the very worst cases. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is a meritorious medicinal preparation for all summer complaints for which it is recommended, and grows in popularity in this city and vicinity. The sales are increasing rapidly and wonderful cures are reported.
