WHEELING, JUNE 28, 1893.

A Speaking Campaign.
Our Republican friends in Ohio have resolved on a change in their speaking campaign this year. Instead of concentrating their efforts on a comparatively few big meetings addressed by "speakers of national reputation," they will set the state afire with meetings big and little to be addressed by good talkers who have their fame to make as well as by the other kind. This is a commendable resolve.

Those who have had anything to do with arranging for public meetings know how difficult it is to meet the local demands for "speakers of national reputation." The requisitions come for the biggest guns and everybody wants them at once.

A thoroughly capable speaker will not do. He must be one of the few men whom everybody has heard of and is anxious to hear. It matters not that the supply is soon exhausted and the endurance of the few exhausted with the supply. There remains at least the suspicion that if the men at headquarters had been more kindly disposed they could have complied with the demand.

As we understand, the intention in Ohio is to make it known at the beginning that impossibilities are not to be attempted, and that the most exacting locality will have to share with all the others out of the general stock of big and little, known and unknown.

The questions of the day do not require oratory nor do they offer it much scope. They are chiefly business questions, demanding plain, common sense treatment. Fortunately the Republican party can afford to meet them in just this way.

Here Mr. Altgeld is frantic with joy over Altgeld's froak. He will probably send the Illinois governor a fac simile of his patriotic emblems.

Make the Town Gay.
Decoration of everything capable of being decorated should be one of the most attractive features of the Fourth of July celebration. The cheap materials for this purpose are very effective if arranged with taste. The INTELLIGENCER gives elsewhere some pictorial suggestions showing how this may be done without great trouble or expense.

If neighbors will get their heads together with a view to combining their efforts they can show off their neighborhood to great advantage at small cost. If they do not like the INTELLIGENCER's hints perhaps they can find something better.

This newspaper will be glad to receive further suggestions at once and to make pictures of the best of them for the public guidance. The decorative end of the Fourth of July campaign is not its least important feature.

For Anarchist nominees for President of the United States, to hold office until anarchy shall take the place of government of the people—Governor Altgeld, of Illinois.

Altgeld and His Deal.
If Governor Altgeld had thought he stood on secure ground in pardoning the Anarchists he would not have reached out so far for so many excuses to prop him up, nor would he have thought it necessary to denounce the whole machinery of justice by which the wholesale assassins were brought to punishment.

In his effort to hold up Judge Gary to the public as a second-rate in the emine, he remarks that even Jeffries in England contented himself with hanging his victims and did not stop to berate them after they were dead. The poor excuse for this indecent fling is found in a magazine article by Judge Gary in which the celebrated case is reviewed as an event in American history, an article of real value which did not violate any of the proprieties.

Governor Altgeld cannot convince anybody that the Anarchists did not have a fair trial. They were ably defended. The prosecution was fought inch by inch. The highest court in the state affirmed the regularity of the proceedings.

The sole explanation of Altgeld's act is that he had made a dealer for votes in the late campaign, the party of the other part delivered the goods and he has now kept faith with the Anarchists by shamelessly breaking faith with the people of his state and disgracing the office in which they unwisely placed him.

The Silver Object Lesson.
Children take readily to object lessons and men often profit by the same forceful kind of instruction. There is good reason to believe that the object lesson which is being presented through the press from day to day may not be wasted on our national legislators when Congress convenes.

This hope is encouraged by the awakening of the people, who are becoming thoroughly aroused and are stirring up the congressmen. Congress will simply have to determine, in the light of common sense and fast developing events, whether this country is strong enough to stand against the world on the silver question, and whether, if it were strong enough, there is any reason of public policy or business to justify the enormous cost.

India, accustomed to silver as to the air it breathes, found the burden too heavy to bear, and her mints are closed to free silver coinage. Silver reaches the lowest price on record, and the silver dollar, which should be a dollar of a hundred cents, is a contradiction worth sixty cents.

In spite of all that legislation has done in this country for silver, filling the treasury vaults with the white metal virtually taken in exchange for the precious gold, the silver industry languishes because of the overproduction and lack of market. The Colorado producers complain that they cannot operate on the present basis. They want free and unlimited coinage.

We have gone a long length than that and found it almost disastrous. Congress will have to recognize the situation, give the country relief and sail by another chart than that offered by the silver men.

Those who desire to help on the Fourth of July celebration and have not been seen by the finance committee should at once notify the treasurer, Mr. Howard Hazlett, of the amounts they desire to subscribe. The fund is not full to overflowing. There will not be another Columbian Fourth of July for a few years.

The Eulogist of Lincoln's Assassin Retarded.

When President Cleveland nominated Judge A. W. Terrell, of Texas, to be minister to Turkey he did not know that he was rewarding the cold-blooded eulogist of the assassin of President Lincoln. It is reasonable to suppose that if Terrell's poetic production on this subject had been known to the President some other man would have been sent to Turkey. Here is the eulogy, reproduced by the Herald, of Houston, Texas:

Give him a scupper
Broad as the sweep
Of the tidal wave's measureless motion;
In the arms of the deep
Lay our hero to sleep
Mid the pearls of the fathomless ocean.

It was liberty slain
That so maddened his brain
To avenge the dead John's chivalry;
So 'tis meet that the main,
Not hurried by a chain,
Should entomb the last freeman now perished.

He who dared break the rod
Of the blackman's yoke
All the hosts of the desert defy;
Could not rest 'neath the sod
That his minions had trod
Who was shamed by his glory in dying.

He hath written his name
In bright letters of fame
The pathway to Liberty's portal;
And the serfs who now blame
Will cry with shame
When they learn they have cursed an immortal.

He hath died for the west
Of a world 'neath the east
Of too many a merciless Negro,
But while yet there is steel
Every tyrant shall
That God's vengeance but waits for his hero.

Then give him a scupper
Broad as the sweep
Of the tidal wave's measureless motion;
In the arms of the deep
Lay our hero to sleep
Since his life was as free as the ocean.

Will President Cleveland retain in the public service a man who rejoiced over the assassination of a President of the United States and glorified the assassin? A man capable of writing these verses would have been capable of Wilkes Booth's crime if he had had the courage.

BREAKFAST BUDGET.

Turpin, the inventor of melinite, has submitted to the French war office an electric gun alleged to be capable of discharging 25,000 projectiles in five minutes and to have a range of several miles. The apparatus is comparatively light in weight, so that it can be drawn by two horses and worked by four men.

A rare collection of Bibles is in the possession of Theodore Reynolds, of Monson, Conn. Among the many valuable Bibles owned by him is a folio "Breeches," that belongs to the latter part of the sixteenth century, and Bibles published in 1613, 1679 and 1683. Small service is true service while it lasts. Of humblest friends, bright creatures' scorn not one.

Protects the lingering dewdrop from the sun.

The latest mean man is reported from Northern New York. He recently adopted a small boy from a poor widow, but was forced to return him because "he moved his feet around so when sitting that he must wear out his boots fast."

It is reported that the Ghazirah palace, situated on the banks of the Nile, is to be converted into a hotel; that a line of steam ferries is to ply across from Cairo, and that the Nile is to be tunneled.

PERSONAL POINTS.

William D. McCoy, United States minister to Liberia, who died at Monrovia, May 14, was a native of Cambridge City, Ind., and about forty years of age. He had been a teacher for many years, prior to his appointment, in Ohio, Arkansas and Indiana, and was one of the most progressive colored men in the country.

Among the World's Fair visitors in August will be Sir Richard Webster, ex-attorney general of England, and president of the British World's Fair commissioners. He will be a prominent figure at Jackson Park on British day, which has been arranged for Saturday, August 20.

Ex-Senator Fair has just let a $300,000 contract for leveling sand dunes and filling in the water lots at North Beach, San Francisco. This is the place which Mr. Fair proposes to make a great shipping and manufacturing district, and on which he will spend $3,000,000.

Gen. Low Wallace's novel, "The Prince of India," is nearly ready for publication, and will soon be brought out by the Harpers. The catastrophe of the book is the assault and sack of Constantinople in 1453, and the entry of Mohammed II into Santa Sophia.

The first volume of Prof. Goldwin Smith's new work, "A Political History of the United States," will be published early in the autumn by the Macmillans.

C. T. Riggs, of the Princeton class of '93, will soon sail for Constantinople, Turkey, where he will enter upon his duties as instructor in the Roberts college.

Maj. John A. Tibbitts, of New London, Conn., late counsel at Bradford, England, has returned home, after a four years' absence.

Charles J. Canda, ex-United States treasurer, will summer with his family at the Van Antwerp cottage, Monticello, New York.

AMUSING THINGS.

In Chicago: Managing Editor—Pretty good expression that of yours, "All things to all men."

Modest Assistant—Yes, but I can hardly lay claim to being its originator. Managing Editor—No? When did you get it then?

Modest Assistant—It is from the Bible, sir. Managing Editor—Oh, well, that's all right. Nobody in Chicago'll ever get onto it.—Boston Transcript.

"Gentlemen," said an indignant passenger on a Third Avenue car yesterday, "will none of you get up and give this old lady a seat?"

"I'll thank you, sir," snapped the lady, "to attend to your own affairs. I am not so old as you are by twenty years, if I am any judge of a person's age."

The indignant passenger got off at the next station.—Texas Sittings.

Sunday School Teacher—New Tommy, describe the combat that took place between David and Goliath.

Tommy (full of enthusiasm)—Goliath, he came out and talked awhile through his hat. David, he upped and pugged him in the crotch with a brick and Goliath croaked.—Drake's Magazine.

"What became of that bright son of yours that you sent to college? Was he graduated?"

"Oh, yes. He is at present interested in dictionaries."

"Hail! Become a lexicographer?"

"Well, not exactly a lexicographer. He is soliciting subscriptions for a dictionary."—New York Press.

She—Where shall we spend our honeymoon?

He—At the beach.

She—Oh, no, that would never do.

He—Why not?

She—There are so few men there.—New York Press.

Her Brother—Why did you persist in using French at the reception last night? You bungled the language so frightfully that no one understood what you said.

Miss Budd—Indeed? I did, every word of it.—Buffalo Courier.

"It's the little things that puzzle one."

Mr. Sank—That's so. Last night, for instance, I had no trouble finding the house I lived in, but blame me if I could find the keyhole.—Brooklyn Life.

"The Briton drops his 'h's," which have with him plays; But 'twould improve the Norseman 'twould drop his 'j's."

Master of Ceremonies—We have here, your majesty, the finest works of art—Enslaves—I have observed them. Pass the sausage.—Atlanta Constitution.

POLITICAL POINTS.

Their Inconsistency.

New York Press (Rep.).

Prominent Democrats who were active in denouncing the "Reed rules" as "tyranny" are now considering the advisability of adopting similar regulations for the government of the Fifty-first house. The fact that Democratic politicians and newspapers made the air vocal during the sessions of the Fifty-first house with their ravings against the Republican methods of procedure will not prevent a strenuous effort to frame methods of the same sort for use by the Democrats in the present house; and it will not prevent the organs that showered abuse on the Republicans because of the "Reed rules" from giving such an effort their support.

The People Have a Right to Know.

Baltimore Sun (Dem.).

There is no reason why the country should be left in any state of doubt or uncertainty as to the action of Congress, when it meets, upon the all-important and vital question of the repeal of the Sherman silver-purchase act. There is equally no reason why the country should not be informed how each individual member of Congress stands and how he will vote upon that question. The present situation has largely been created by the feeling of apprehension and distrust occasioned by the vacillating, inconsistent and temporizing policy of Congress in reference to silver.

Too Tired.

New York Recorder (Rep.).

The campaign in Ohio this year has opened too early for the Democracy, which is afflicted with an aggravated attack of "that tired feeling." It is "too tired" to do anything; "too tired" to call Congress together in extra session and repeal the Sherman act; "too tired" to take the first step toward restoring commercial confidence; but not too "too tired" to haul down the flag in Hawaii or to plan a raid on the pensioners who saved the Union.

Mutton Will Be Cheap.

Chicago Inter-Ocean (Rep.).

Secretary Carlisle gives notice that we will have free wool within six months. Mutton will be cheap. Australian wool-growers can kill off American sheep, and then put the price to suit themselves.

Retired from Politics.

Brooklyn Times (Rep.).

The Louisville Courier-Journal defines a Cleveland Democrat as "a son of a gun who wants an office." It begins to look as if the Courier-Journal knows the family pretty well.

A Great Celebration.

Washington Post (Ind.).

If Tammany desires to have a rip-roaring Fourth of July let it invite Hon. William R. Grace to participate in the oratorical display.

A Hopeful View.

New York Herald (Dem.).

The sentiment is waxing strong that with the Sherman law repealed and the buying of silver stopped better times must come.

THE BUFFALO FAILURE.

Tardiness of the Clearing House Blamed for the Suspension.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 27.—The only notice posted on the outside of the defunct Queen City Bank this morning was one announcing that it was in the hands of the banking department. The cash is found correct. The bills discounted, call and time loans and general verification of the books so far as they have been examined have been found correct. Vice President Lautz blames the tardiness of the clearing house for the suspension. He said application was made for relief on Saturday and clearing house promised to meet Monday morning and consider the case and devise means of relief. They did not do this but postponed the meeting until 4 p. m., and in the meantime the bank went to smash. Another fact is that the demand which actually broke the bank came from the clearing house.

When the day's clearings were made it was found that the Queen City was indebted to other banks through the clearing house about $27,000. Mr. Clement, chairman of the clearing house committee, appeared at the bank in person with this demand at 2:15 o'clock. At that time a check for $10,000 had unexpectedly been presented and paid and the bank was short. Mr. Clement's demand could not be met and he said: "Then you'll have to close up," and the doors were closed. The bank had over $80,000 on deposit yesterday in New York and other banks, but Mr. Lautz said the thing came so suddenly they did not know which way to turn, or have to do anything to save themselves.

Henry Allen & Co. Settle.

New York, June 27.—Henry Allen & Co. have given notice that they have settled with their creditors, and have applied for reinstatement as members of the stock and produce exchanges. The firm's settlement was on the basis of 50 per cent cash, and the signing off by their creditors with the understanding that the firm will consider this a moral obligation and meet it as soon as it is convenient. The firm's liabilities were $400,000, and it is said the unrealized assets remaining are $300,000, which, as soon as things improve on the stock exchange, can be realized on at a profit.

Coffee Broker Fails.

New York, June 27.—Mr. L. Randel, a coffee broker, has notified the coffee exchange of his inability to meet his obligations.
