

TWO GOVERNORS.

Kob and Oates Both Take the Oath of Office.

KOLB HAS BUT FEW FOLLOWERS

And the Incident is Regarded as Practically Ended—The Populist Claimant Makes a Moderate Speech—No Bloodshed is Probable. Gov. Jones Refuses to Allow Kolb to Hold his Inaugural in the Capitol Grounds.

MOSTGOREY, ALA., Dec. 2.—Kolb was quietly sworn in at 11 o'clock yesterday morning at the law office of Warren Reese by Justice James H. Howell, together with the other gentlemen on his state ticket, to "faithfully perform the duties of the office to which they had been duly elected."

Kolb then went to the capitol, accompanied by his friends, to deliver his inaugural address, but he found the approach to the building guarded by the militia, and he and his friends retired to that part of the capitol grounds facing Dexter avenue, where he delivered his inaugural from a wagon.

There was no disturbance and his movement was so quiet that it was all over before hardly anyone knew what was taking place. The militia preceded Kolb to the capitol and then returned down the street as he returned with his friends.

After the Populist claimants to the state office had been sworn in, Kolb and his cabinet proceeded toward the state house, followed by several hundred of his adherents.

They marched up the state house steps through the ranks of the assembled militia, and took their places beside the identical portico on which Jefferson Davis was declared president of the Confederate states.

In a few minutes Governor Jones sent for Captain Kolb, who was escorted into his presence by Lieutenant Irwin, of the regular army.

"I understand, sir," said Governor Jones, "that you propose to make a speech in these grounds, claiming to be governor of Alabama?"

"That is my intention," answered Kolb firmly.

"Then I must say to you that the moment you attempt it I will have you arrested and carried off the ground," answered the governor. "I say this in all earnestness to you. If you were governor you would do the same thing in a similar case. I will not permit you or anyone else to interrupt the inaugural proceedings of Governor Oates."

Governor Jones' manner was courteous, but firm. Captain Kolb looked around at the assembled soldiers, and with a wave of his hand, started down and out of the grounds, followed by his adherents. They congregated again in the street outside the capitol grounds.

A wagon stood nearby, and upon this Captain Kolb mounted. He stated that the proceedings would be opened with prayer. A Populist clergyman mounted the wagon, and at his motion the crowd uncovered their heads. It was an impressive scene. Every man in the crowd was a plain countryman, with rough clothes and high-top boots. In simple English the clergyman invoked the blessing of God upon the assembly. "A plain people, O God," he said, "who are here to secure an honest government."

At its conclusion Captain Kolb made a short temperate address. The only bitterness in it was directed at Governor Oates, whom he termed a nautper. He declared he had been legally elected governor, and that he would use every means to gain the position while he declared belongs to him. He cautioned the people against violence, and amid roasting cheers descended from the wagon. His place was taken by Dr. Crow, from an adjacent place, who has made desperate and bloodthirsty threats.

"They call me an anarchist in this state," said he. "If being opposed to ballot-box thieving is anarchy, then, thank God, I am one."

He called Governor Oates' followers scoundrels, and after cautioning peace, called upon everyone to meet him tonight to form a volunteer company for the support of Kolb.

There were not over 300 Kolbiters in the crowd and no sign of arms among them. After the speeches they dispersed and proceeded down town, where they are enlisting in Grow's company, although the latter has, apparently, no definite plan of action. A battery of artillery has swung into position on the hill in front of the State House and the cavalry was withdrawn.

About 2 o'clock Governor-elect Oates reached the state capitol, escorted by the militia. The inaugural ceremonies were preceded by a prayer, after which Governor Jones introduced his successor, who was greeted with prolonged cheers. The oath of office was administered to him on the spot. There was no trouble, and the incident appeared to be closed without the anticipated conflict.

ALMOST BEYOND BELIEF.

The Turkish Government's Responsibility for the slaughter of Armenians.

New York, Dec. 2.—A copy of the Hondsack, an Armenian paper published weekly in London as the official organ of the Hondsackist Revolutionary Society, was received here to-day. In Lakat, a small village in Sovas, according to the newspaper's correspondent, the public crier called upon all Mahomedans to do like their brethren at Fasomot. He said that the prophet Mahommed desired the death of unbelievers and that the authorities would uphold everybody who killed Christians. The result of this proclamation was that 200 persons were killed and 400 wounded before the religious frenzy kindled by it was slaked.

The Monastery of St. George, the Hondsack correspondent says, which was the oldest and most venerated religious institution in Armenia, was completely demolished, and all its inmates, numbering over 100, put to the sword. He also mentions that the Rev. Paul, a Congregational minister in Moscow, was cast into prison on the trumped up charge of being in correspondence with revolutionists.

A young Armenian of this city, who intends returning to his native country, said to-day that he applied to the representatives of the Turkish government for a passport, but was refused because, as he asserted, he declined to go abroad in the service of the government as a spy. He says he was offered $10 per week, twice as much as he is now earning in New York.

Three men who left New York two months ago to visit their families in Charpoint, Armenia, returned here to-day. They say they were given just fifteen minutes to greet their families and get out again.

There were forty others who had left

Providence, R. I., for the same place, but they only got as far as Alexandria, when they got back on account of the terrific hardships they were made to encounter.

It was reported in the Armenian colony here to-day that a band of fifty students under Gaganian were arrested on the Russian frontier on their way to Armenia, and were sent to the mines of Siberia.

CORRUPT TAMMANY.

The Work of the Lexow Committee to Be Resumed This Morning.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The Lexow committee will resume its session at 10 a. m. Monday. Mr. Goff will conduct the examination of witnesses as before. There are only three weeks of working time left for the senators before the legislature convenes. There are plenty of rumors of important disclosures to be sprung at the wind-up.

Chairman Lexow is said to be in favor of the committee sitting four days in each of the remaining weeks, and to keep up a hot pace to the end. It is said to be possible that ex-Assistant District Attorney Wellman will be examined regarding the alleged attempt of a Tammany official to bribe one of the attaches of Mr. Wellman's office, in the interest of one of the police captains who was dismissed from the force.

Altogether about 85 subpoenas were issued to-day, including at least half a dozen police captains.

It was said that the programme for the first two days of the week will be the examination of witnesses in reference to more police blackmail, and after that the matter of the police justices will be taken up. Mr. Goff, it is said, is in possession of damaging evidence against several of the justices, including Diver, Hogan and Koch.

Superintendent Byrnes, it is said, will positively be called to the witness stand, as will also Police Commissioner Sheehan, for further examination. Commissioner Martin may also be called.

Mrs. Herman, who has implicated so many officials, has yet to complete her story, but far more important than any testimony that has yet been given is expected to be heard when Mrs. Evelyn Bell takes the stand. She has conducted a notorious resort in the tenderloin district from the time when Inspector Williams was captain down to the present. She is willing to tell all she knows about police blackmail. The Lexow Committee must report to the legislature January 15.

Assistant District Attorney McIntyre admitted yesterday that he had no definite knowledge as to the whereabouts of Mrs. Tharow, although he believed her to be in the United States.

Lawyer John Brooks Leavitt created somewhat of a sensation at a dinner given by the Good Government Club F. by advocating the annulment of the Tammany Society, or Columbian Order, as the best means of breaking down and disintegrating Tammany Hall. The applause and the comments with which his remarks were received proved, too, that such an attempt will be made if it is found at all feasible.

Mr. Leavitt argued that the Tammany society was the backbone of the political organization known as Tammany Hall, and that to destroy the latter it was necessary to disrupt the former. This could best be done by annulment of its charter.

"The Tammany Society, I find," he said, "was organized in 1789, and was chartered by the laws of 1805 for the purpose of affording relief to the indigent and distressed members of the said association, their widows and orphans."

"As the society has departed very far from the objects of its character an action may be brought by the attorney general to dissolve the corporation and wind up its affairs. When it is wound up we can destroy Tammany Hall, but not before, and as it is within the purpose of the good government clubs to obtain good government for this city, and as Tammany Hall is a standing obstacle in our path, let us insist that the attorney general begin such an action."

The applause which greeted this speech was general and hearty.

"That's a good idea. That's worth looking into," commented men in all parts of the room. It is therefore certain if it can be shown that the Tammany Society has prostituted its charter, as claimed by Mr. Leavitt, that an action will be brought to annul the charter.

DR. MICHAEL WALSH

Defends Archbishop Ireland for His "Javalon" of Another State.

New York, Dec. 2.—Dr. Michael Walsh has taken up the cudgels in behalf of Archbishop Ireland and Bishop Keane, who were criticised last Sunday by Bishop McQuaid, of Rochester, in the course of a sermon. Dr. Walsh says in an interview: "The beligerent Bishop McQuaid in his recent attack on Archbishop Ireland, Bishop Keane and Father Malone has deliberately removed from himself all grounds of sympathy. He assails and attributes the most unworthy motives to an Archbishop who thought it conscientious duty in the default of those who ought to have forestalled him to step in and fearlessly rescue the church from a grave scandal at a critical moment."

"Bishop McQuaid contends that the action of Archbishop Ireland in thus invading the sacred precincts of another diocese and another state was 'unbecoming a bishop, disgraceful and scandalous.' Some two years ago the Archbishop of St. Paul was detailed by Cardinal Rampolla to carry 'the war to Africa,' to overcome, in other words, the opposition to the papal policy in certain dioceses in France in relation to the acceptance of the republic. He boldly invaded certain dioceses of France, the bishops of which were blindly wedded to the old regime. He spoke in furtherance of the policy of the sovereign pontiff to men who, too, had conspired to oppose it. But, as a result, with his great zeal in the cause, he brought those obstinate bishops to acknowledge that Leo was right and they were wrong."

SEELEY'S LOCATION

Still in Doubt—Belief is General That He is in Canada.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Dec. 1.—Samuel C. Seeley, the embezzling bookkeeper of the Shoe and Leather National Bank of New York was a passenger on Erie train No. 3, Friday night. Harry H. Baker, the Pullman conductor, is positive that Seeley was a passenger. He remembers the man distinctly from his nervous actions and emaciated appearance.

Shortly before the departure of the train from Jersey City, Conductor Baker was approached by a thin, nervous man, who wanted to know if he could obtain a berth on his train that night. Mr. Baker told him that a diagram of the sleepers had not yet been given him, but he thought there would be a berth, as travel was not very heavy. The man boarded the train and entered the smoking room, where he smoked incessantly until long after Middletown was passed.

It is customary for most persons on this train who have berths to retire soon after reaching Middletown, but this man sat up long after all the others had gone to bed, and that fact brought him more particularly to the attention of the conductor and the porter. He was assigned to lower berth No. 11. He left the train at Buffalo and went from there to Niagara Falls, and no doubt over into Canada. When Mr. Baker returned to Jersey City Wednesday night he was met at the depot by a New York detective and shown a photograph and asked if he ever saw the original. Mr. Baker thought a few minutes and said: "Why, yes, that man was a passenger with me on my last trip west." The detective then told him it was a photograph of Seeley. The porter was put through the same test without any knowledge of what had been said to the conductor and he, too, distinctly remembered the face as belonging to a man who had been a passenger with them last Friday night.

ANY one who has children will rejoice with L. B. Mulford, of Plainfield, N. J. His little boy, five years of age, was sick with croup. For two days and nights he tried various remedies recommended by friends and neighbors. He says: "I thought sure I would lose him. I had seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised and thought I would try it as a last hope, and am happy to say that after two doses he slept until morning. I gave it to him next day and a cure was effected. I keep this remedy in the house now, and as soon as any of my children show signs of croup I give it to them, and that is the last of it."
