THE INTELLIGENCER.

WHEELING, MARCH 2, 1897.

The President and the People.

An opposition newspaper publishes a picture of the palace car in which Major McKinley goes to Washington and the ordinary coach in which Mr. Lincoln made the journey.

When Mr. Lincoln went to Washington to take his seat as President the palace car of to-day had not been developed.

Appeals of this sort are wasted on the American people, who are glad for their chosen Chief Magistrate to have all the comfort he can get.

So long as the President does his duty the people are willing that he shall have the best that is going, and if he desire to use a government boat not needed at the time they are perfectly willing that he shall do so.

And when the President has occasion to make a journey by rail the people do not ask that he shall be at pains to ride in the shabbiest and least comfortable car he can find.

Better Business. Business is looking up. The country has confidence in the Republican party, the distinctive business party of the country.

It is not as yet a very marked improvement, but it is a welcome indication of an early return of the normal pulse-beat of our industries and exchanges.

Japan and the Gold Standard. Japan, determined to be in the procession of the progressive nations, gives notice that she is about to adopt the gold standard, and the relation of her silver coin to her standard gold coin will be as 2 1/2 to 1.

This means that Japan has seen the folly of the silver standard. Her wage-earners have felt it. Prices have advanced twice as much as wages, and in many industries wages have not advanced at all.

Our own country would have looked well dropping to the silver basis at a dishonest ratio while Japan is about to have for her monetary standard that of the highest civilization.

On to Charleston. Governor-elect Atkinson, accompanied by a party of friends, leaves to-day for Charleston, where he is presently to take the oath of office as governor of West Virginia.

He was then a promising young man. Being a man who keeps his promises, he goes back to his native county the chosen chief magistrate of this state.

With affectionate regard Ohio county speeds the governor-elect on his way, wishing for him and the state a successful administration.

The county commissioners went wrong yesterday—and then went right—on the proposition to spend more than $8,000 of the county's money on new files for the clerks' offices.

THE STATESMAN OWNS UP.

In All Trades are Many Tricks, and Sometimes in Politics.

Detroit Free Press: "I'm what you might call a retired statesman," said the old lawyer, whose practice is chiefly that of a counselor.

"I was in Kentuck, and the first time I ran for Congress I beat one of the best campaigners in that state, and no state has better. He was a veteran who had been over the course several times and sneered at the thought of my being a serious opponent.

"Without the fact attracting any particular attention, it was made public that there were to be from three to five shooting matches and all around tournaments in each county of the district. Nothing is dearer to the heart of the real Kentuckian. I was an athlete and a good shot, and I was at every one of those contests.

"The official who stands next to the President, heretofore called the private secretary, is hereafter to be called the secretary to the President.

"A. R."—The Spanish word "Incommunicado," in the dispatches from Havana means "solitary confinement."

President McKinley will be more interested to get necessary things well started than to distribute the pap.

If money were more plentiful more of Wheeling would go to Charleston.

Mr. Olney might get a place on Weyer's staff. Probably he does not speak Spanish, but Olney and Weyer speak the common language of sympathy.

Before Secretary Olney goes out of office he should make a confession in the Consul General Lee matter.

SCIENCE AND TOBACCO.

Prof. Huxley's Account of His Warfare With the Weed.

Exchange: At a debate on smoking among the members of the British association many speakers denounced and others advocated the practice.

While Mr. Bryan is talking he would do well to address himself to this latest chapter in the history of the nations that have repudiated the silver basis.
